WHITE DECRIES EFFORT TO LINK MELLON IN LOAN

Assistant Secretary of State Says Oil Deal Not Concerned.

SENATORS ARE TOLD OF BARCO RENEWAL

Copy of Telegram Sent by Minister to Colombia Is Refused Johnson.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Efforts of Senator Hiram Johnson (Republican), of California, to link the granting of a valuable oil concession in Colombia to a Mellon-owned oil company, and the approval of a loan to the same country by Secretary Stimson were decried by officials of the State Department yesterday before the Senate finance committee.

Francis White, Assistant Secretary of State in charge of Latin-American relations, testified before the committee that there was no conection between the signing of a decree restoring the Barco petroleum concession on June 20, 1930, and the action of the National City Bank in making the final payment to the Colombian government ten days later of a $20,000,000 loan after the resident of Colombia had on three different occasions requested the payment from the bankers.

For once the stuffy finance committee room took on the appearance of a morning musicale, with dozens of smartly gowned women peering at the inquisitorial visage of Senator Johnson through lorgnettes. The occasion was also unque in view of the fact that it was the first time that a Secretary of State had permitted any of his subordinates to appear before a senatorial committee and waive their usual prerogatives in favor of the investigating committee.

Copy of Telegram Refused.

The granting of the petroleum concession to the South American Petroleum Co., in which the Gulf Oil Co. is very largely interested, was adduced as another reason for invoking the impeachment of Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon by Representative Patman (Democrat), Texas, before the House judiciary committee.

Senator Johnson raised his voice after Mr. White had calmly declined to furnish him with a copy of a telegram sent by the American Minister at Bogota, the capital of Colombia, to the State Department, with regard to the Barco oil concession. The California senator declared:

"The whole problem seems to me to be that the sacrosanct character of the Mellon family has precluded the United States Senate and the people of the United States from knowing what the American Minister at Bogota sent to the State Department in a diplomatic message with regard to a Mellon oil concession in Colombia."

Assistant Secretary White informed the senator that he and any of the members of the committee could have access to the telegram and to all telegrams in question provided that they would not reveal their contents.

Johnson Declines Offer.

Senator Johnson refused this offer. He reminded Mr. White that only a short time before in his testimony Mr. White had announced that the contents of this telegram which was being kept from the public hearing had been telephoned to a vice president of the National City Bank in New York.

The Assistant Secretary of State said:

"I have no right to publish to the world a communication received from the American Minister at Bogota which quotes the words of the President of Colombia."

The Californian persisted in his chase. He shouted:

"On what theory do you want to give the contents of this telegram to a New York banker and then say you can not give them to this committee? I insist that this dispatch be brought before this committee for

Bulkley Will Run For Senate Again

Announces, in Columbus, for Reelection to Succeed Himself.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—United States Senator Robert J. Bulkley, of Cleveland, tonight announced his candidacy to succeed himself for the regular term beginning March 4, 1933.

Senator Bulkley was elected to fill out the unexpired term of the late Senator Frank B. Willis in 1930. The term has been twice made vacant by death and has been held by five men during the last five years. Bulkley acquired the office by defeating Roscoe C. McCulloch, appointee of former Gov. Myers Y. Cooper.

The dinner tonight also brought out several congressional declarations. Those indicating they will seek office are Representatives Byron B. Harlan, for reelection from the Third District; Clarence Graham from the Fifteenth District, and Paul Dye for representative-at-large.

Richardson Ordered To Sift Hawaii Laws

American Friends Send Sympathy Messages to Mrs. Fortescue.

(Associated Press.)

Assistant Attorney General Seth W. Richardson last night was given direct command of a sweeping investigation by the Justice Department into law enforcement in the Hawaiian Islands.

Ordering Richardson to Honolulu immediately, Attorney General Mitchell made public a suggested program for the inquiry which was ordered by the Senate.

Attorney General Mitchell proposed investigation of the operation of Federal courts in prohibition and narcotic cases in the islands, and of the law and administration of Hawaiian courts, police, jury system and parole board.

Of prohibition and narcotic cases, the Attorney General said:

"While offenses of the kind which have recently attracted attention are not within the jurisdiction of the United States Court, and are not dealt with by the United States attoneys or officials of this department, it would be well to consider how efficiently violations of Federal statutes are prosecuted within the District as this has a bearing on the general crime situation."

handling land cases, and the one who investigated Ralph Kelley's sensational charges against the Interior Department's oil-land leasing policies Mitchell said:

"You are free to go into any phase of the matter (of law enforcement) that you deem advisable. The important thing for you is to get at the real facts, which I have no doubt you will do with your accustomed vigor."

The Attorney General acted as a move toward direct inquiry by the

BORAH FAVORS CUT OF LARGE SALARIES

Drafts Bill to Reduce All Federal Workers Getting $5,000,

Uninfluenced by unfavorable House committee action on Federal pay cut proposals, Senator William E. Borah (Republican), Idaho, is nearing the first draft of a bill to reduce all Government salaries over $5,000.

House members will find themselves in a "sad plight" if they fail to enact similar legislation, said the influential senator, who recently introduced bills to cut pay of senators and representatives 20 per cent, and trim down salaries of the Vice President, Speaker of the House, Cabinet members and Farm Board employes.

Senator Borah said his new bill probably will provide a cut of 5 per cent in salaries ranging from $5,000 to $7,000; 10 per cent on salaries from $7,000 to $10,000; and 20 per cent on salaries over $10,000.

This scale provides the highest exemptions of any bill yet put forward, and conforms with earlier statements by the Idaho senator that only salaries in the higher brackets should be touched. It would be a temporary measure, applicable only for a two-year period, he said.

"The House can not afford to remain indifferent to the comparative condition of the farmer, who last year drew an average income of only $600, and the laboring man, who received an average of only $1,200," he said.

Senator Borah pointed out that if the bill method fails, as it did when four House pay-cut measures were tabled, there is always the possibility of amending an appropriation act.

The House will have its first opportunity to resort to this method Monday, when the agriculture appropriations bill is reported out by Chairman Joseph W. Byrns (Democrat), Tennessee. The agriculture appropriations bill as reported out will contain no pay-cut provisions.

Federal employes are bringing every influence to bear to frustrate any

TENNESSEE TORNADO KILLS 8 AND HURTS 5

Twister Takes Toll of Lives as Farm Home Is Ripped to Pieces.

Trenton, Tenn., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Eight members of a family were killed and at least five injured, one critically, when a tornado ripped their farm home to pieces 11 miles from here tonight.

The dead: Mrs. P. W. Rice, Opal Rice, 17; Hazel Rice, 14; Edith Rice, 9; Horace Rice, 10; a 6-month-old baby; Elsie McDaniel, 3 (granddaughter of Mrs. Rice); P. W. Rice, jr., 19.

The injured: Essie Mae McDaniel, 2 (another granddaughter, who is not not expected to live); P. W. Rice, 45 (broken back); Ila Rice, 23 (head injuries); Lucille Rice (internal injuries); Mary Ann Rice, 16 (crushed leg).

When the body of P. W. Rice, jr., was found about five hours after the storm, all members of the family had been accounted for.

Some of the injured were brought to hospitals here. Others were taken to Dyersburg, Tenn., where Horace Rice died.

Rice told nurses at a Dyersburg Hospital that he and his family tried to hold their doors shut against the terrific wind.

"I had started to the barn," he said, "when I saw the dark cloud approaching. I ran back into the house, and we decided that we would try to hold the doors against the wind.

"The real force hit suddenly, however, and the next thing I remembered I was trying to pull myself from beneath a beam. I heard my wife groaning. I then lapsed into unconsciousness again and awakened in an ambulance on the way to the hospital."

F. H. Crenshaw, a farmer, told of seeing the Rice home "picked up and jerked to pieces" by the rapidly moving funnel-shaped black cloud.

"While standing in my yard, I heard a roaring in the southwest and saw a black cloud, dipping down in the shape of a funnel, possibly a couple of miles away.

"It traveled very rapidly and its noise almost deafened me as it came near my place and then struck directly at the Rice home.

"The house was torn all to pieces and scattered over a wide area. We found Mrs. Rice's body near the house. A little distance away I found one of the little girls, badly injured. Other members of the family were found scattered over a radius of 100 yards or so, some of them dead and others badly hurt."

Hungary Seeks Italy's Help for Moratorium

Rome, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Count Bethlen, former premier of Hungary, arrived here today on what was authoritatively stated to be a mission to obtain Italy's support for a moratorium for Hungary.

Record for January Heat Tied as Mercury Hits 76

The official Washington temperature climbed to 76 yesterday to tie the all-time January maximum record. Another Weather Bureau record for Washington also went by the boards yesterday, for it was the second successive day the temperature had reached 75 or higher.

The mark of 76 was set previously on January 12, 1890; January 7, 1907, and January 22, 1927. While the official temperature only gained one degree over Wednesday, the kiosk gained two, reaching a maximum of 82 degrees while residents shed their overcoats and thought of getting lighter undies out of the mothballs.

Spring in those years, however, only played one-day stands. Flowers have never ceased to bloom in the Capital this year, coaxed out by the succeeding days of warm weather.

A better sign that this winter is determined to be original was reported by a policeman walking his beat in the Seventh Precinct last night.

"There's nothing doing out here, Sarge," Private D. W. Fletcher said when he pulled his box, "but the frogs are croaking in the reservoir at Conduit road and Elliott street, just like they do in the summer."

Cooler days are expected to break the balmy spell within a few days. Showers, with little change in temperature are predicted for today.

FIVE ARE HELD BY VIRGINIA IN DUAL MURDER

Note in Handwriting of Crawford Is First Definite Link.

SEARCH SPREADS TO OTHER CITIES

Identities of Those Seized and Place of Detention Is Kept Secret.

Five colored persons are being held "somewhere in Virginia" as material witnesses in the murders of Mrs Agnes Boeing Ilsley, wealthy sportswoman of Middleburg, Va., and her maid, Mrs. Mina Brucker, who were beaten to death in a cottage on Mrs. Ilsley's estate early Wednesday.

Of the five held, one is a woman who is said to have been friendly with George Crawford, the colored former convict, who, with a colored accomplice, is suspected of having committed the double murder. All of those held, The Post learned last night, have acknowledged acquaintanceship with Crawford.

The first tangible link that would definitely connect Crawford with the crime, The Post learned authoritatively, has been unearthed by police. It is an address on a slip of paper, which was found in Mrs. Ilsley's victoria automobile which was abandoned less than twelve hours after the murder in the vicinity of the south end of the Highway Bridge.

Written Sunday Night.

This memorandum, the police have established, is in Crawford's handwriting, and was written by him on Sunday night while visiting an acquaintance in the vicinity of Tyson's Crossroads, Va. The discovery of this note, the police believe, will also provide the motive of the crime as robbery.

On Sunday night, the Post learned, Crawford visited a woman friend near Tyson's crossroad and promised to send her some money, and then wrote her address on the paper.

Aided by this evidence, Detective Sergt. Dennis Murphy and Lieut. John H. Fowler went to the woman's home, and she acknowledged that Crawford had visited her on Sunday night and promised to send her money. This woman is believed to be the one now under arrest.

Robbery Believed Motive.

The police believe Crawford decided to rob the Ilsley home to obtain money, and while in the act was surprised by the society woman. When Mrs. Ilsley recognized him, it is thought, he killed her to prevent her from informing police. A warrant was already in possession of police charging him with having robbed the house last September. Had he been caught Crawford would have faced a long jail sentence, since he was recently paroled from prison, where he had been serving a long jail term for manslaughter. Mrs. Bruckner is believed to have been mur-

Alien Smuggling Laid to Seaman

Two of Six Stowaways Accuse Engineer on Reaching Baltimore.

Baltimore, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—A plan to smuggle aliens into the United States at prices ranging from $00 to $1,000 was uncovered here today by immigration officers, who arrested Johann Nickschteit, assistant engineer of the German freighter Wandsbek.

The boat arrived in Baltimore yesterday from Havana with a cargo of sugar and officers found six stowaways aboard, four Chinese and two Arabs. Two of the Chinese today identified the engineer as the man who got them aboard the boat and said they were to have paid him from $800 to $1,000 upon delivery to an address in New York City. They were working in a laundry in Havana when asked if they wanted to go to the United States, they said.

The other two Chinese refused to look at the engineer when asked to point out the man who brought them aboard the boat, saying that the last time Chinese aliens "talked" they were thrown overboard on the return trip.

Grandson of President Is Recovering Rapidly

Four-year-old Herbert, called "Peter" by members of his family, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoover, jr. Dr. W. H. Wimp said the boy was recovering rapidly from an operation last Saturday.

GERMANY READY TO COMPROMISE ON REPARATION

Would Accept Extension of Moratorium Rather Than Cancellation.

MAY AGREE TO SLASH IN ANNUAL PAYMENTS

U. S. Is Seen Bearing Brunt of Sacrifice if France Rejects Plan.

Berlin, Jan. 14 (U.P.).—The German government is willing to compromise on reparations payments.

Although Chancellor Heinrich Bruening has declared the nation's inability to make any payments, the United Press was informed today that the government will agree to a six-months prolongation of the present moratorium rather than immediate cancellation. The moratorium expires July 1.

Furthermore, recent informal negotiations have envisaged fixing 500,000,000 marks (about $125,000,000) annually as the total of German payments, as compared to the average annual payment of $473,000,000 under the Young plan.

Views of Nations.

The government's attitude was made known after comment abroad had indicated the battle lines for the forthcoming Lausanne reparations conference as a result of Bruening's declaration. France has definitely rejected the declaration; Italy has indicated support of cessation of reparations and Britain has not been unfriendly to the German position, although it is admitted that the outcome depends on the possibility of adjustment or cancellation of debts owed the United States.

Germany would make every effort to avoid a one-sided default of reparations and suggestions were made as to compensation to the United States and other creditors if the proposals envisaged should be made effective.

Primarily, it was emphasized that Germany would prefer immediate cancellation at the Lausanne conference, but is ready to arrange a compromise providing for a six-months extension and, inferentially, for fixing of payments at 500,000,000 marks annually, which is the sum France received as unconditional reparations under the Young plan.

Frowns On Suggestion.

This arrangement would presume that France would allot part of the payments to the United States and other creditors, it was said, although French Finance Minister Pierre Etienne Flandin has frowned on the suggestion.

It was pointed out that, should France reject a division the United States would be forced to bear the brunt of sacrifice.

London, Jan. 14 (U.P.).—The British government was understood tonight to be preparing for the Lausanne Reparations Conference on the theory that the aloofness of the United States makes it impossible to arrange a permanent settlement of the debts problem at present.

It will be necessary to confine the Lausanne Conference to reparations, excluding the question of war debts owed the United States, the government believes.

Hope was expressed that the Lausanne Conference will be concluded in ten days.

Air Mail Pilot Escapes As Plane Crashes in Fog

Mobetie, Tex., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—A Transcontinental & Western Air night mail plane crashed into a railroad embankment and burned near here early today, after the pilot, Ted Hereford, had been forced down by fog. Hereford escaped with only a minor scratch.

The plane, bound from Kansas City to Los Angeles, carried 32 sacks of mail. M. E. Dilday, Amarillo superintendent of mails, said seventeen were missing. Eleven sacks of registered mail were saved.

Berlin Sees Credit Renewal Assured

Paper Says Plan Is Agreed Upon to Continue Aid to Nation.

Berlin (Friday), Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Renewal of Germany's short-term credits, amounting to 4,400,000,000 marks (about $1,000,000,000), upon payment of 250,000,000 marks, was said by the Vossische Zeitung today to have been agreed upon by a committee of foreign bankers.

The committee has been meeting with German bankers to consider the credits, which were "frozen" during the latter part of 1931 under a "standstill" agreement.

The newspaper said the Wiggin plan would be adopted, under which 200,000,000 marks would be consolidated into five-year credits bearing 6 per cent interest. The balance of the 4,400,000,000 marks would be renewed for one year on payment of 5 per cent interest.

North Dakotans Ask to Put Roosevelt's Name on Primary Ballot.

Valley City, N. Dak., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, was asked by North Dakota Democrats at their convention today to be a presidential candidate in the State primary election March 15. As cheers rang through the meeting hall in response to declarations of leaders that the party would campaign militantly to elect him, the New Yorker was indorsed unanimously by a rising vote.

As was the case at county meetings previously, delegates today talked Roosevelt virtually all day. Members of the resolutions committee which recommended his indorsement said they found sentiment so unanimous that no other name was mentioned in their deliberations.

As a result of the action Roosevelt will be asked to allow use of his name in the primary election.

The indorsement came after Democratic leaders assailed the Republican administration and urged that the party fight to wrest national control from it.

Party Will Draft Him, Declares Lawyer at Boston Dinner.

Boston, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Democratic Presidential nominee in 1928, maintained silence on his plans for 1932 tonight in the face of a prediction that the party will "draft" him as its candidate.

The prediction came at the close of an address by Smith at a Democratic "victory" dinner here. The former governor had appealed to members of his party to make a "frank and open and an honest declaration" on prohibition in its 1932 platform and to take a straight-forward platform stand generally, but had avoided all references to whether or not he would himself be a candidate.

As he stopped speaking, Daniel Gallagher, a Boston lawyer, jumped to a chair. Addressing the governor, he said:

"Gov. Smith, the newspapers have been saying to you for the last few days, 'Tell us your plans.'

"Go slow with your plans until you hear from the people. The party is going to draft you. Don't throw away that brown derby. You will need it again and it will not look bad when you hang it up down in Washington."

2 CHINESE OFFICIALS QUIT POSTS IN CRISIS

200 Japanese Are Reported Slain; Tokyo Delays Reply to U. S.

(Associated Press.)

Persistent rumors that collapse of the Chinese government is imminent because of its financial difficulties, received some impetus yesterday with the resignation of Huang Han-Liang, the minister of finance, which was followed quickly by the resignation of the assistant minister.

Meanwhile from Manchuria came reports that 200 Japanese soldiers, defending the railway junction at Tahushan, 70 miles northeast of Chinchow, were killed in an encampment which ended with the Chinese volunteer militia in control of the town.

Peiping was greatly agitated by the sudden and informal declaration of martial law, because of an unconfirmed report that the Japanese legation guard planned to hold night maneuvers outside the legation quarter. The city gates were closed, but the Japanese authorities denied that any maneuvers were contemplated.

Japan deferred delivering its answer to the American note invoking the nine-power pact, but the American Ambassador probably will get it before another day has passed.

The Government, moved by Chinese denials of the existence of an agreement regarding Manchurian railways published the text of a secret understanding concluded between the two countries in 1905.

From Nanking came a report that China may ask the United States to call a conference of the Nine-Power Treaty signatories.

LEVEE BREAK PERILS 5,000 IN MISSISSIPPI

Urgent Call Made for Boats; Patrols on Guard After Dynamite Blasts.

Glendora, Miss., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—The main Tallahatchie River levee at the Seawright plantation collapsed at 8 o'clock tonight, hurling an 8-foot wall of water into the already partly flooded Tippo Basin.

The break was directly across from Glendora, through whose business district streets water has been flowing for more than three weeks. It is about 4 miles south of Sharkey, where the levee broke last week.

W. R. Gay, levee commissioner, issued an urgent call for boats to rescue the estimated 5,000 persons who are still in the Tippo Basin. He said it would be necessary to bring all of them out.

Patrols armed with shotguns guarded levees tonight to prevent recurrence of dynamite blasts that burst dykes and sent great volumes of flood water over a far flung area in the Tallahatchie River Valley early today.

Two levees, both hard pressed in holding surging rivers within their channels, were blasted about midnight by groups of unidentified men, whose purpose, apparently, was to divert the overflow from their own lands.

In one instance, six of the blasters were surprised by guards soon after they had fired one stick of dynamite. The guards shot at them and they fled, leaving twelve sticks of dynamite that failed to explode.

That blast tore a gapping crevasse in the Magruder Levee near Glendora and water pouring through it has flooded farm land between this town and Swan Lake. Laborers are working to close the breach, but thus far their efforts have been futile.

A 50-foot hole was blown in another dyke near Eden, 11 miles from Yazoo City. Eight thousand acres of fertile plantations were inundated and a shallow flow of water crept through several streets in Eden. The damage to property was small and there was no loss of live stock.

Unless there is more rain, the Tallahatchie River here is expected to begin falling tomorrow. It rose an inch last night. Cassidy Bayou at Webb and Sumner rose 5 inches during the night, damaging bridges. Glendora is practically isolated by the Tallahatchie and Black Bayou.

Educators Glad to Serve On Post Washington Tests

College Presidents Express Willingness to Be Judges in Essay Contest Because of Educational Value to Students of District and Environs.

The selection of the college presidents of the city as judges of The Post Washington Essay Contest in which $1,000 is to be distributed in cash prizes to students in public, private and parochial schools in Washington and nearby territory in Maryland and Virginia has received much favorable comment and aroused new interest in the contest.

In commenting upon the contest, Rabbi Simon, of the Board of Education, who is serving as a judge, too, wrote that the invitation to serve as a judge was "pleasurably accepted." "Whatever will stimulate our pupils to a better understanding and appreciation of the life of George Washington and of his contributions to the cause of America is of high educational worth. I congratulate you upon the enterprise, and we most earnestly hope that all our school children enter this contest with avidity."

Other similar words from the other judges have encouraged The Post Essay Editor greatly. From Mordecai W. Johnson, president of Howard University, came the following comment: "I am glad to serve as one of the judges in connection with the award of prizes offered by The Washington Post to the school children of Washington and vicinity for essays on the subject of George Washington." The Rev. Coleman Nevils, S. J., president of Georgetown University, declared in his letter of acceptance that he is "delighted to cooperate in whatever way I can in the very splendid work that The Washington Post is doing in promoting an interest in George Washington."

Chancellor Lucius C. Clark, of the American University, stated in his letter: "Personally, I believe this appeal to youth, to make a study of the life and character of George Washington will be of far greater value than the more public functions that will be held during this year." From the

HOOVER ENTERS RACE AND PLANS VIGOROUS DRIVE

Candidacy Is Announced Formally by Brown in Statement.

AIMS TO ROUND UP POWER FOR PARLEY

Johnson Is Hesitating to Put Hat in Ring to Oppose the President.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Not that there was any doubt about it, but President Hoover may now be regarded as a candidate to succeed himself in 1932. His candidacy was proclaimed yesterday by Postmaster General Walter Brown after a visit to the White House.

Brown, a preconvention campaign manager for Hoover in 1928, indicated that a vigorous drive would be made for delegates in advance of the Chicago convention.

Thus, Brown has thrown the President's hat into the ring at a time when Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, and other Hoover foes are pondering what they shall do to keep a second-term nomination from him.

Brown's Statement.

Brown, who is expected to give up his Cabinet post to take over the chairmanship of the Republican national committee from Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, and run the next campaign, issued this statement:

"The only way President Hoover can be renominated is to get delegates to the convention. There are about 20 or 30 different methods by which these delegates are selected, and the President's friends will conform to these methods in the different States."

Fifteen States hold primary elections in which the voters are given a chance to designate their choice for nominee. Should President Hoover win in all of these, he would have something like 500 delegates lined up, nearly enough to clinch the nomination. However, he may not go into all of them.

Vigorous Drives Planned.

There are other States which, while not having preferential primaries, may or may not instruct delegates for a particular candidate. Postmaster General Brown expects to have the President's friends conduct vigorous campaigns in these, too.

The first primary comes on March 8 in New Hampshire. Senator George H. Moses already has started the ball rolling there for Hoover and has said there is no question but that the voters will send a solid Hoover delegation to Chicago.

Then comes the primary in North Dakota the following Tuesday, March 15.

Dakota Action Delayed.

Postmaster General Brown said yesterday that it has not been decided whether to run President Hoover in that primary. Nor, said he, will any decision be reached until the time for action has arrived.

"When that time comes," he said, "prompt action will be taken."

Two of the Western Progressives who are trying to head off the President—Senators Nye and Frazier, of North Dakota—already have asked Senator Johnson to enter the primary in their State.

Johnson Lacks Fund.

Senator Johnson thus far has issued no statement as to his plans. It is known, however, that he thinks it would be futile to get into the race without a fat campaign fund, which he lacks.

It is known, too, that he appreciates the tremendous difficulty of beating a man who already is in the White House serving a first term. In addition to that he knows that for the Republican party to repudiate President Hoover would be to confess that it has failed.

Nor are these the only reasons. If Johnson enters the North Dakota primary, certainly he would have to enter the California primary. Then suppose that Hoover whipped him in his own State. Where would that leave Senator Johnson's prestige?

No formal announcement of his candidacy is expected from President

HOUSE TO VOTE TODAY ON U. S. FINANCING BILL

FARM LOANS TOTAL GETS BIG INCREASE

Difference to Be Adjusted; Land Banks Measure Is Also Near Goal.

(Associated Press.)

The leaders of President Hoover's economic proposals last night were only a few legislative steps from the White House door and two others started through the Senate with prospects for early action.

The House agreed to vote tomorrow on the $2,000,000,000 reconstruction corporation measure which already has passed the Senate.

A House amendment yesterday set aside $200,000,000 of the bill's funds to be used for farm loans. This and other differences between the two Houses will be settled in conference.

The President regards this as the most important of all his recommendations for stabilizing business.

Another of his suggestions is even nearer its final goal than the reconstruction measure. It is the bill to furnish additional capital for Federal Land Banks to enable them to lift pressure from hard-pressed farmers. It reached the House yesterday from the Senate.

$125,000,000 Set by Senate.

The Senate made the total sum $125,000,000 and it also goes to conference between representatives of the two houses.

A Senate banking subcommittee heard a bill to establish a permanent Federal system of home loan banks for the aid of both home and farm owners strongly supported by a succession of witnesses.

Among them were John S. Hill, Durham, N. C.; Harry E. Karr, of Baltimore; H. C. Robinson, of the Guardian Trust Co., Cleveland, and Fred G. Stickel, of Newark, N. J.

Senator Couzens, of Michigan, the wealthiest man in the Senate, criticized provisions of the measure for allowing loans to builders of expensive homes.

Before another banking subcommittee, Undersecretary Mills of the Treasury supported the measure to establish a corporation with $150,000,000 capital for aiding insolvent banks.

Would Aid Liquidation.

Mr. Mills said it would permit depositors and creditors of closed banks to get a part of the funds now congealed in the insolvent institutions.

Hearings on the proposal for increased taxes to help the Treasury out of the deficit morass continued before the House ways and means committee.

Among the several amendments offered in the House to the reconstruction corporation, one to strike out the provision for Governor Eugene Meyer of the Federal Reserve Board to be a member of the corporation's board of directors caused the most emphatic debate.

It was defeated, 131 to 123, after Meyer had been assailed by Representative LaGuardia (Republican), New York, and Representative McFadden (Republican), Pennsylvania.

Mr. McFadden, whose attacks on President Hoover during consideration of the moratorium were unsually bitter, charged that Mr. Meyer made money by the purchase and sale of bonds for the Government through his brokerage office in New York.

Meyer Stanchly Defended.

The Federal Reserve Board governor was stanchly defended. Representative Strong (Republican), Kansas, who with Mr. McFadden took part in an investigation of Mr. Meyer, said he found no evidence to support the charges.

The names of two Texans were added yesterday to the list of those mentioned for selection by President Hoover as directors of the Reconstruction Corporation.

Senator Connally (Democrat), Texas, suggested personally to White House officials that Jesse H. Jones, Houston financier, and Nathan Adams, president of the First National Bank, at Dallas, be considered.

President Hoover hopes to have the directorate of the corporation in line by the time Congress sends him the reconstruction measure, probably early next week.

Baruch Repeatedly Mentioned.

Bernard M. Baruch, New York financier, has been spoken of repeatedly as one of the directorate, and possibly its chairman. The name of Charles G. Dawes, who will soon retire as Ambassador to Great Britain, also has figured.

Senator Connally said he had heard considerable advocacy of Angus McLean, of North Carolina, and Edward N. Hurley, of Chicago, as other possibilities. All of those named, with the exception of Gen. Dawes, are Democrats.

Under the bill passed by the Senate the directorate would consist of Secretary Mellon, Governor Meyer of the Federal Reserve Board, a farm loan commissioner, and four others, three of whom would be Democrats.

LAVAL'S NEW RULE FACES EARLY TEST

Due to Be Challenged Soon by Left Wing on Debts Attitude.

Paris, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Premier Pierre Laval launched his new-born cabinet into the work of preparing for the critical conferences on reparations and disarmament tonight with the possibility of trouble from the left wing of the French chamber.

Socialist deputies, ardent supporters of the peace policies of retiring Foreign Minister Aristide Briand, announced they would interpellate the premier on his foreign policy as soon as possible.

M. Briand, who stepped aside on account of illness, told his young successor in the foreign affairs post that he would collaborate with him in some form yet to be determined.

But it appeared from the communique issued by Premier Laval that M. Briand's support would not be in the form of taking a post as "minister of state" without portfolio, as the premier had originally planned.

M. Briand said, according to the announcement, that he was "causing to be studied by his juridical and diplomatic collaborators the form in which his collaboration might eventually be envisaged."

This was interpreted to mean that the veteran statesman intends to take a long rest and that thereafter he might resume his position as France's permanent representative at the League of Nations, or go to the international conferences as France's delegate extraordinary.

The premier had a talk with Senator Joseph Paul Boncour, to whom he first offered the foreign ministry portfolio, and it was announced they had discussed the disarmament parley. This was construed to mean that M. Paul-Boncour would be a member of the French delegation, headed by Minister of War Andre Tardieu.

The Nationalist and Moderate press was unanimous in applauding the choice of M. Tardieu in his new position. Camille Aymard, editor of La Libertie, said no one was better equipped than he to accomplish the task of France's chief representative at the disarmament conference and thus "dispel the red fogs gathering on the Rhine and beclouding the horizon."

Intruder in Office Is Held for Police

Entered Room With Pass Key; Discovered by Woman Clerk.

A close scrape with death at the hands of a Marine sentry in Nicaragua several years ago indirectly brought about the capture of Donald Bishop, 21 years old, after he had entered a downtown loan office with a pass key.

Bishop was found in the office of Eastern Mortgage and Investment Company, 918 F street northwest, by Miss Shirley Levitt, a clerk, when she arrived for work yesterday morning. Unaware of his detection Bishop remained in an inner room. Then Samuel Himmelfarb, manager of the concern, arrived.

Apprised of the situation, Himmelfarb telephoned police. He then entered the room where the intruder was and warned him not to move. Bishop didn't. He told Himmelfarb that he was hungry and that that was why he had broken into the office.

"Say," Bishop told reporters, "The reason I didn't scram was because I did once down in Nicaragua when I was in the Navy. A marine guard told me to halt and I didn't. He missed me by about an inch with a rifle bullet. This time I decided to stop in advance."

Two Robbers Fire At Pursuing Victim

Pair Holds Up Grocer and Escapes With $15 as He Gives Chase.

Two colored holdup men shot twice at Hyman Goldstein, of 1633 Twelfth street, last night when he attempted to follow them after they had entered his grocery store and robbed him of $15 at the point of a gun.

Goldstein told police that one of them asked for change and when he opened the register one of them pulled out a gun and told him to "hand it over." After receiving the money the men backed out of the store and ran down an alley.

Procuring a gun from his residence in the rear of the store Goldstein gave chase. He discovered the men in an alley back of Q street and fired at them. They returned two shots and fled into the street. The storekeeper hailed a passing cab and chased the men to Tenth and R streets, where they again dodged into an alley and escaped.

FOREIGN AGITATORS BARRED BY URUGUAY

Protest From Argentina Results in Curb on the Revolutionists.

Montevideo, Uruguay, Jan. 14 (U. P.).—Uruguay, long noted as a haven for political refugees from other countries, has decided to curb the activities of foreign agitators here as a result of Argentina's strongly worded protest against permitting revolutionists to cross the border from Uruguay into Argentina. A number of exiled Argentines, it was charged, invaded Argentina and assisted the Kennedy brothers in their attempt to capture the Province of Entre Rios.

Among those involved in the Entre Rios invasion, it was charged, were Gen. M. L. Toranzo, Col. J. Pomar and former Minister of Public Works Jose Abalos, all of whom were prominent in the administration of President Hipolito Irigoyen. The minister of interior, it was learned, plans to intern Gen. Toranzo in Montevideo. Col. Pomar and Abalos are to be requested to leave the country. Another prominent exile, Orzabal Quintana, is to be interned in some township along the Atlantic seaboard, far removed from the Argentine border.

The government, it is understood, has not considered taking any action against former President Marcelo Alvear and Dr. Honorio Pueyrredon, exiled leaders of the Argentine radical Union party. Both men disclaimed all knowledge of last week's revolt attempt.

Oaxaca City Terrified By Severe Earthquake

Oaxaca City, Mex., Jan. 14 (U.P.).—The population of Oaxaca City was terrified today by a severe earthquake shock and a loud subterranean rumbling, which sent the inhabitants fleeing into open fields.

The quake occurred just one year after the tremors which destroyed a large part of the city and many nearby villages in 1931. The natives had been somewhat alarmed for a week because of predictions—believed to be merely gossip—that another quake would occur today, totally destroying the city.

Travelers from Puebla reported tonight that the volcano Mount Popocatapetl is spouting flames and a large column of molten lava is moving down the mountainside. All snow on the Puebla side of the volcano is gone, which is a phenomenon at this season. A slight quake was registered by the Tacubaya Observatory at 1:44 a. m.

Peru Gags Opposition.

Lima, Peru, Jan. 14 (U.P.).—Repressive measures have been taken by the government, acting under special authority granted by Congress last week, to stop seditious activities of opposition elements. Two antigovernment newspapers, La Noche and Buen Humor, were fined 100 soles apiece for publishing news "inciting the public to resist or disobey legitimate authority." An Apra Party Club here was closed by the minister of interior.

Chilean Paper Criticizes Bankers.

Santiago, Chile, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—The newspaper, El Mercurio, in an editorial today condemned the practice of foreign bankers who supplied extensive loans and credits to South American republics under various "irregular governments." Referring to the investigation by the United States Senate, the editorial asserted Chile has a foreign debt far out of proportion to her size and budget.

HOLMES' SUCCESSOR MAY BE WESTERNER

Hoover Is Believed Likely to Name Republican on Supreme Court.

(Associated Press.)

Western names got the call yesterday as President Hoover began work on the difficult job of selecting a man to take the seat on the Supreme Court vacated by Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Senatorial callers at the White House received the distinct impression that Mr. Hoover was looking to the West Coast, now unrepresented on the court, as he went over a huge list of available names.

Among those receiving consideration by the President were Judge William P. James and Judge Curtis D. Wilbur, of California; Senators Steiwer and McNary, of Oregon, both Republicans, and Senators Walsh, of Montana, and Bratton, of New Mexico, both Democrats.

Mr. Hoover is not bound to a sectional choice, but he is known to be considering that phase of the question. The Atlantic Seaboard now has four of the eight members. Justices Vandevanter, of Wyoming, and Sutherland, of Utah, are the Far Westerners on the high tribunal.

Republican Choice Likely.

It is believed likely a Republican will be chosen. Justice Holmes was a Republican. Three Democrats are now on the Supreme Court.

Senator Walsh, of Montana, has the strongest senatorial backing where his work in several investigations brought him national prominence. However, the fact that he is 72 years old is believed to militate against the Montanan despite the fact he is one of the most active members of the Senate.

The President is talking over the appointment with members of the Senate, several of whom called yesterday at the White House.

Senator Wagner, of New York, presented the name of Chief Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo, of the New York State Court of Appeals, to the President. There is considerable backing for Cordozo, but the fact that New York is now represented by Chief Justice Hughes and Justice Stone is held to be against his chances.

Southeast Unrepresented.

The Southeast section of the country now is unrepresented on the high tribunal. Neither President Hoover nor any of his aids has indicated any choice in this direction yet, but it is understood the subject has been discussed with Postmaster General Brown, intimate of the President.

Calling at the Capitol Wednesday he talked to Senate Republicans leaders, including Watson, of Indiana, and Moses, of New Hampshire. They are understood to have recommended Senator Walsh, of Montana, in case the President should determine to pick a Democrat. Also they indorsed Senator Bratton, of New Mexico.

These two stand out among the Democratic possibilities, but the names of two Circuit Court judges, George T. McDermott, of Topeka, Kan., and Arba S. Van Walkenburgh, of Kansas City, are heard in the speculation.

Sisson Addresses Colored Lawyers

Assistant Attorney General Talks on Selection of Federal Judges.

Charles P. Sisson, Assistant Attorney General, addressed the Washington Bar Association, composed of colored attorneys, last night at the Musolit Club, on the prime responsibility of the Attorney General in the matter of suggesting for consideration of the President persons for appointment as Federal judges in courts of the country. Perry W. Howard, president of the association, presided.

Mr. Sisson outlined the part played by members of Congress, and individual citizens, in ascertaining the essential qualities of the man to be appointed through a survey of personal character, degree of learning in the law and general judicial temperament, including especially tolerance and patience. Selection of an appointee was described as a solemn and dignified procedure.

Henry Lincoln Johnson, W. H. C. Brown and Judge James A. Cobb, of the Municipal Court, responded, the latter commending the Department of Justice for its liberality in making appointments of colored men in offices of various United States district attorneys.

East Central Association Condemns Mapes Bill

The Mapes bill was severely condemned last night at a meeting of the East Central Civic Association, which requested Senator Capper to afford the bill a thorough investigation, in his capacity as chairman of the Senate District committee, before legislation is effected.

The Traffic Bureau was requested to set up a traffic lane at Florida avenue and P streets northeast, and the Commissioners were requested to convert the intersection of Eckington place with Florida and New York avenues into a circle with one-way traffic around it. The Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, was the guest of honor and principal speaker last night at the annual dinner of the Men's Club of St. Stephen's and Incarnation Church, held in the Parish Hall, Sixteenth and Newton streets northwest.

Bishop Freeman spoke on the unemployment situation and stressed the importance of immediate action toward relief. Representative Samuel B. Pettengill, of Indiana, who attended the dinner with his wife, also spoke. Charlton M. Clark, president of the club, presided.

LynchTermUpheld By Supreme Court

Four-Year Sentence Meted Virginia Mob Member Is Ruled Valid.

Richmond, Va., Jan 14 (A.P.).—The Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals today ruled that John L. Haywood, sentenced to four years in the penitentiary for being one of a mob that assaulted Milburn T. Neal last year, must serve the term.

The majority opinion affirmed the decision of the Mecklenburg County Circuit Court, the first ever handed down involving the famous Virginia lynch law.

The Supreme Court ruled that Lee Hicks, who was sentenced in the Fairfax County Circuit Court to serve two years in the penitentiary for stealing parts from an automobile, must serve his term.

A mistrial was granted in the case of Stanley Ayres who was sentenced by the Fairfax County Circuit Court to eight years in the penitentiary on a charge of highway robbery. The appellate court ruled the prosecution had failed to show that a robbery was committed.

SHOALS NO LONGER WANTED BY FORDS

Son of Auto Magnate Makes Position Clear Before House Group.

(Associated Press.)

Henry Ford and his son, Edsel, automobile magnates, have abandoned interest in the industrial development of Muscle Shoals.

Edsel Ford so told the House military committee yesterday in a session behind closed doors. The meeting was surrounded with the greatest secrecy, imposed by Ford as the price of his appearance.

But when it broke up, the manufacturer made his position clear, saying:

"I have no statement to make for publication. We are out of it now."

The impression further was left with the committee that Ford interests now are just as glad the bid made a decade ago for the Government's $150,000,000 plan was not accepted.

Ford came at the committee's request to discuss the Muscle Shoals situation and brought with him William B. Mayo, chief engineer of the Ford Co. After the meeting they lunched with Representative James, Michigan Republican, and acting committee chairman. Ford said he planned to return immediately to Detroit.

Committee members declined to discuss what Ford said. However, it was understood he and Mayo expressed the opinion the minimum amount of fertilizer to be manufactured by the prospective lessee should be stipulated in any contract.

The plan sponsored by President Hoover's commission did not contain this limitation.

The Fords once offered the Government $5,000,000 for the huge wartime nitrate plants, agreeing to produce 2,000,000 tons of fertilizer annually and rent the dams on the Tennessee River for 100 years.

was delayed so that Kenkichi Yoshizawa, the new foreign minister, might deliver it in person to Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes.

The government issued a statement today revealing the text of a secret understanding concluded with China in 1905 by which the Chinese agreed to build no railways paralleling Japanese roads in Manchuria.

A summary of the agreement was filed in 1906 with the British and American governments, the statement said, but the agreement never was made public at the special request of the Chinese, who said they did not want their people to know about the arrangement for political reasons.

When Dr. Wellington Koo was Chinese foreign minister recently he asserted that no such agreement ever was made.

Netherlands Aloof In Protest to Japan

(Associated Press.)

The Netherlands' government has informed the State Department it will not send notes to China and Japan invoking its rights under the ninepower treaty. That government is a signatory of the pact.

The other signatories of the ninepower treaty to which copies of the recent American note to Japan and China were handed were France, Belgium, Great Britain, Portugal and Italy. There has been no official word of their reaction.

Stimson's Move Credited With Giving Pact 'Teeth'

(United Press.)

Secretary of State Stimson has "put teeth" into the Kellogg-Briand pact by his recent action in the Manchurian situation, Chairman James G. MacDonald, of the Foreign Policy Association, declared in a radio address last night.

MacDonald said Stimson's "extraordinarily significant construction" of the pact had established a precedent which, if recognized by other pact signatories, would greatly strengthen the treaty's future effectiveness.

This interpretation was based on the fact that Stimson warned Japan that if it extorted an agreement from China by using military force the United States would not recognize the legality of its acts.

MacDonald's interpretation is supported by the opinion of some State Department officials.

"The United States," MacDonald said, "has openly challenged the aspirations of the Japanese militarists in Manchuria, and in a manner that has a far broader significance than the issues directly involved."

Railway Men in Maine Accept Wage Reduction

Bangor, Me., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Officials, shopmen and clerks of the Bangor & Aroostook Railroad have accepted a 10 per cent cut in salaries and wages, officials announced today.

ADMIT ALIEN MATES, 35 WIVES URGE U.S.

Many Sob as Plea Is Made in House for Revision of Immigration Rule.

(United Press.)

Thirty-five naturalized American women, some of them carrying babies, appeared before a congressional committee yesterday and demanded that the Government grant their alien husbands entry to this country.

Many of them were sobbing as they told the House immigration committee how they had struggled and saved to make homes here and then waited patiently for the husbands that never came. They have saved from $300 to $1,000 and have good jobs.

They were not alone in their efforts to reunite the family.

Representative Emanual Celler (Democrat), New York; representatives of the National Woman's Party, National League of Women Voters and the Y. W. C. A. all appeared before the committee. They appealed for passage of an amendment to the immigration law, embodied in a measure by Representative Samuel Dickstein (Democrat), New York, permitting admittance of alien husbands of American citizens without quota restrictions—a right now enjoyed by alien wives of American men.

Commissioner Hull, of the Immigration Bureau, favored the proposed amendment, but said it should provide penalties for fraudulent attempts to enter under its provisions.

Mr. Celler scathingly attacked the administration's immigration restriction policy. He charged that Government officials had violated the "public charge" provision of the immigration act and "had twisted the statute as they saw fit."

The State Department's chief visa officer, A. Dana Hodgdon, appeared on behalf of the department. He said the Government was construing the "public charge" provision strictly but that worthy cases were given fair consideration to see if they warranted entry on a nonquota basis.

Burch Voices Objection To Tax on Bank Checks

(Associated Press.)

Representative Burch, of Martinsville, Va., who assailed Secretary Mellon's proposal to increase the manufactured tobacco tax, yesterday voiced opposition to taxing bank checks. That also was proposed by Mr. Mellon to the House ways and means committee.

Mr. Burch, who is a banker and business man, said any expense, "no matter how small," would have a tendency to slow up deposits "under present business conditions." "And," he added, "as much money should be kept in circulation as possible."

Head of Closed Bank Held on Fraud Charge

Pittsburgh, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—C. A. Bardolph, president of the closed Franklin Savings & Trust Co., was arrested today on a charge of embezzling $250,000 of the bank's funds. Information against Bardolph was made by George F. Taylor, jr., deputy State secretary of banking.

Bardolph was arrested outside the quarters of the State Banking Department, after he had appeared at a hearing before Taylor into the affairs of the bank. The charge is a general one under the common law and concerns Bardolph's transactions as head of the bank over a period of three years.

Zasu Pitts, Screen Player, Asks Divorce

Los Angeles, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Suit for divorce, charging desertion, was filed today by Zasu Pitts, screen comedienne, against Thomas S. Gallery, former manager of the Hollywood American Legion boxing stadium. The complaint said Gallery left Miss Pitts November 24, 1926.

The actress asked custody of their child, Ann, 9, and and adopted son, Mike Gallery, also 9, son of the late Barbara La Marr, screen actress. The children are with Miss Pitts. Gallery is associated with sports activities in New York.

Merchants Group Scores Mapes Bill

Central Business Men's Association Holds Tax Boost Unneeded.

A report stating that there is no need for the tax increase proposed in the Mapes bill was adopted yesterday by the Central Business Men's Association, which also raised its voice against the plan to cut Fourteenth street through Thomas circle.

The association went on record as being opposed to the Mapes bill, which is now pending before Congress, after hearing the report rendered by a special committee. The proposed tax increase is greater than increases for certain whole States, the report said. It added that the increase would particularly lie on the shoulders of those who are now bearing heavy burdens in an attempt to stabilize conditions. None of the merchants present at the meeting, which was held at 1403 L street, favored the legislation.

The meeting brought out continued opposition to the plan to cut into Thomas circle, it being stated that "certain utility corporations" are really behind the movement to cut through. The association held that the circles and parks of the city are magnets to attract visitors to the city, and that these visitors bring additional business to the merchants. Abolition of these circles would remove the distinction between Washington and other cities, and would hurt business, it was said.

New Chain Stores Report Submitted

Trade Commission Tells Senate After "Loss Leader" System.

(Associated Press.)

The Federal Trade Commission yesterday sent to the Senate the fifth report of a series covering its investigation of chain stores under a Senate resolution.

The report contained no conclusions or recommendations. It dealt with "leaders and loss leaders"—nationally advertised goods sold at reduced prices to attract buyers not only for the leaders but also for other merchandise.

The commission said the statement was frequently made that the common use of loss leaders and extensive advertising have been large factors in the development of the chain store business. Complaints have been made by independent retailers and others that chain stores sell leaders at times at prices below those which the independents must pay. Several chains reported losses of from 20 to 40 per cent on a replacement cost basis in selling the leaders to gain new business.

Army-Navy Union Quiz Date Is Set

Hurley and Adams Will Be Called in House Probe to Open January 21.

(Associated Press.)

The Secretaries of War and Navy are to be called before the House expenditures committee to testify on the proposed creation of a Department of National Defense.

The committee decided yesterday to hold hearings beginning January 21, on bills by Representatives Byrns (Democrat), Tennessee, and Williamson (Republican), South Dakota, to consolidate the Army, Navy and Marine Corps into a single department. The Byrns bill is favored by Speaker Garner and other Democratic leaders, and is opposed by the administration.

Chiefs of the Army Air Corps and Naval Aviation Bureau also are to testify. Hearings on President Hoover's proposals to create an "Administration of Public Works" by consolidating all the building activities of the Government will be considered by the committee after it acts on the defense bill.

Greece Cuts Needs In Wheat Purchase

Proposal to Farm Board Is for 1,000,000 Bushels on Short Credit.

(Associated Press.)

Greece wants to buy 1,000,000 bushels of wheat from the Farm Board. Chairman Stone said this was in the nature of a "trial shipment." The negotiations now under way involve short-term credit.

In earlier discussions 6,000,000 to 10,000,000 bushels had been mentioned. The chairman explained the board was not in a position to extend long-term credits.

"That is what all foreign governments which are making us offers want to obtain," he said. "We are trying to work out short-term credits as we haven't money enough to take up primary loans and carry the buyers over a long period."

WAR DEBTS CALLED IMPOSSIBLE DREAMS

Mason, Philadelphia Banker, Tells League Body They Will Not Be Paid.

Philadelphia, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—War debts and reparations are "Arabian Nights dreams" and they "can not and will not be paid," in the opinion of John H. Mason, Philadelphia banker, who spoke today at the ninth annual convention of the League of Nations Association.

"The stupendous sums of these debts," he said, "are beyond the ability of humans to pay, and I, for one, believe that if they were paid, the nations receiving them would be thrown into more chaotic industrial and commercial conditions than they are enduring today."

Mr. Mason, who is chairman of the State branch of the association, said the world-wide economic situation was being solved badly from a political angle. He pictured the League of Nations as being at the threshold of its "life's test" in the forthcoming disarmament conference.

Strong Defends League.

Charles H. Strong, vice president of the association, and secretary of the New York City Bar Association, defended the league against critics assailing it for its alleged failure in the Manchurian crisis.

"The league acted with restraint and extreme wisdom," he said, "in dealing with one of the most serious problems ever to confront a body of statesmen."

Asserting that the United States had actually "patted the league on the back" for what it had done in the Manchurian question, he added that entry of this country to the World Court on a 100 per cent basis was an object of the association.

Baker Pleads for League.

Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War and a Democratic presidential possibility, in a letter read at the luncheon, wrote: "I am daily impressed with the idea that we ought more and more to argue a sympathetic attitude toward the league, purely as a means of protecting American interests."

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, representative from the Fourth Florida District and daughter of William Jennings Bryan, saw two hopeful signs in the international situation.

"I don't believe women will ever be able to view war and its consequences as men do," she said, "and the will of women is daily growing more articulate. Also, the growing generation realizes clearly the interrelation of all nations."

Condition of Warburg Is Slightly Improved

New York, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—A slight improvement was reported today in the condition of Paul M. Warburg, prominent Wall street banker, who has been ill at his home with pneumonia since Friday.

His condition was still regarded as grave.

CHARLES GATES DAWES.

SOMEHOW artists and sculptors never seem to be able to "catch" Charles Gates Dawes—to faithfully delineate him on canvas or in marble. Why is this so? It is because, in posing for the artist, he relaxes, drops his scrowl, and puts aside his hod-carrier's pipe? Is it because he then forgets the battles ahead of him, and permits himself a reverie.

At any rate, none of the oil portraits or busts that this reporter has seen really are a good likeness of him. They idealize him, wiping out the fighting features that photographs made on the fly invariably reveal.

Dawes is one of the most amazing men in American life. He has put his hand to a half dozen things, and in all he has been successful—yes, even in playing the violin and composing a melody. He has been a banker, general in the Army, politician, and ambassador. One might say that he failed to become President; that he could only become Vice President. The truth is that he sought the Presidency, not for himself, but for his friend, Frank Lowden.

Dawes' crisp, explosive speech was what first made him a national figure.

The Graham committee in the House, right after the World War, was trying to uncover scandals in the financing of the war. Gen. Dawes, called as a witness, was thoroughly disgusted with the way in which the politicians, who knew nothing about the war, were trying to smear President Wilson.

"Hell and Maria!" he shouted.

Then he went on to tell the committee that it made no difference how much money was spent, how much material was wasted; that the only thing that did count in 1917-18 was to win the war.

That broke up the investigation, and made Dawes a presidential possibility. E. T. F.

TWO MEN HELD IN VIRGINIA IN 2 MIDDLEBURG MURDERS

dered because she, too, recognized Crawford.

None of those arrested is a principal in the case, it was learned, but acknowledged having had contact with the hunted Crawford shortly before the crime and immediately afterward.

Fear of Mob Violence.

Fear of mob violence, because of the high feeling engendered in the social colony about Middleburg, is the reason for the secrecy surrounding the identities of those in custody and the places of their incarceration.

Instructions from a "high Government official," it was learned, have directed the Middleburg authorities, in case of the arrest of the suspected principals, to take them to some large jail, preferably in Richmond, to forestall any possible reprisals against them.

A valuable diamond and emerald brooch, which police at first believed to have been stolen, was recovered yesterday by police. Detective Sergt. Murphy said it had been placed in a "place for safe keeping."

Prior to the discovery of the note in the car, the evidence against Crawford had been purely circumstantial and consisted of his alleged robbery of the Ilsley home and the fact that he had been discharged from her employ and had been seen in that neighborhood the night before the killings.

Lieut. John H. Fowler and Detective Sergt. Dennis J. Murphy returned last night from Loudoun County after having spent the day searching settlements there for traces of the alleged murderers. Other than to say "the case looks better now than ever," the detectives were noncommittal.

They declined to say whether anyone was being held in connection with the crime in the Virginia county.

One of the outstanding marks through which police hope to arrest Crawford, is a scar on the back of one of his hands. The scar starts between the knuckle and extends toward the wrist. When Crawford was last seen he was wearing gray chauffeur's uniform, with a back belt on the coat, and a black overcoat. He is about 42 years old, weighs 142 pounds and is 5 feet 1 inch in height. He has broad shoulders and exceptionally long arms.

His accomplice, whose name has not been learned, is about 22 years of age, and has eyes of a peculiar grayish blue. He was wearing gray trousers and a dark, short coat. He wore no overcoat. He walks "pigeon-toed."

Meanwhile, the hunt for the murderers spread into several large cities, with Washington detectives centering their activities in the vicinity of Middleburg, where the slaying took place.

Murphy and Fowler and Commonwealth's Attorney John Galleher have established to their own satisfaction that two men took part in the crime. The identity of the second man has not been established, they said, but it is expected that he will be known today.

marks attributed to him that he was related to the suspect.

Herndon Is Visited.

The vicinity of Herndon, Va., was visited yesterday by the detectives, where, they said, they learned that Crawford abandoned Mrs. Ilsley's automobile near the Highway Bridge at 5:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Brig. Gen. William D. Mitchell, friend of Mrs. Ilsley, spent most of the day in the vicinity of the Ilsley home and refused to admit reporters. Services for Mrs. Ilsley will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Emanuel Protestant Episcopal Church in Middleburg. The body will be sent to Milwaukee, Wis., for burial Sunday.

William C. Thomas, 31 years old, colored, who was arrested early yesterday by Traffic Officer J. P. Comisky and held at the Fourth Precinct, denied to Detective Sergeant H. K. Wilson that he knew anything of Crawford. His arrest followed re-

Prince Georges County authorities yesterday afternoon questioned Howard Turner, of Covington, Ky., in connection with the case. He was said to have told conflicting stories of his whereabouts at the time of the murder.

Camden authorities yesterday questioned two colored men, who were considered suspects, but who were later eliminated when their descriptions failed to correspond with those of the murder suspects.

Dr. Oscar B. Hunter, George Washington Hospital pathologist, and Dr. John A. Gibson, county coroner, said their examination showed conclusively that neither of the women had been criminally assaulted at the time of the crime.

Minute examination of the crime scene and the stolen automobile by Detective Sergeant Fred Sandberg, fingerprint expert of the Metropolitan Police Department, failed to reveal any fingerprints. He was successful, however, in obtaining a bloody palm print which was smeared on a door panel.

In the few hours after the crime, the police learned, at least three persons visited the house where the bodies were later discovered. One was Alex Grason, of Middleburg, who fixed the fire in the furnace; another was Aldrich Sutphin, who works on the Ilsley stock farm and removed garbage from the vicinity of the garage, and William Winkoph, who delivered milk about 8 a. m.

Struck Five Times.

The theory of police is that the murderers entered the house by smashing a glass in a rear door and sprung a lock. Aroused by the breaking glass, Mrs. Ilsley is believed to have moved to investigate the noise and was attacked with the bootjack. In all, she was struck five times.

Mrs. Bruckner is thought to have been attacked when she arose to go to the aid of Mrs. Ilsley. She is believed to have been struck once as she walked across the floor of her bedroom and again after she had fallen across the bed in her room.

Police have been unable to locate a coat, the property of Mrs. Ilsley.

Crawford was released from prison in 1929 after he had saved the life of Capt. C. A. Coleman, a prison camp superintendent, when the latter was attacked with a knife by another convict.

He then worked jointly for Mrs. Ilsley and Dr. Richard Holt, a Middleburg physician, who lived in a small cottage on Mrs. Ilsley's estate. Crawford left Mrs. Ilsley's employ last September, and soon afterward it was learned that several articles had been stolen.

FEDERATED WOMEN MEET IN ALEXANDRIA

Indiana Senator Speaks on Preparedness and Says "We Don't Want War."

Members of the executive board of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, holding their annual midwinter meeting at the national headquarters, 1734 N street northwest, were guests of honor last night at a dinner held in George Mason Hotel in Alexandria, Va., by the Alexandria Cameron Club. Among them were Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis.

Senator Arthur R. Robinson, of Indiana, was principal speaker. The subject of "Preparedness" was the keynote of his talk. Himself a World War veteran, Senator Robinson declared:

"We do not want war. War is such a futile thing, but if we would be true to Washington at Valley Forge, we must be prepared to defend that heritage he gave us."

The board held its first business session yesterday. The meeting will continue through tomorrow. Miss Helen Norris, president of the Cameron Club, presided last night. Invocation was by the Rev. Berryman Green, former rector of Christ Episcopal Church, and former dean of the Episcopal Theological Seminary of Virginia.

An address of welcome was delivered by Mrs. Eleanor Seldon Washington Howard, last child of the Washington family born at Mount Vernon and daughter of Col. John A. Washington, the last private owner of the estate. Col. Washington was the grandnephew of Bushrod Washington, a nephew of George Washington to whom Mount Vernon was willed. Mrs. Howard told of her childhood at Mount Vernon.

Other speakers included Edmond F. Piper, Mayor of Alexandria; former Representative Charles C. Tarlin, of Virginia; John Barton Phillips, of the Alexandria bicentennial committee; Mrs. John F. Sippel, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, vice president.

A corps of cadets from the Alexandria High School served as a guard of honor and the program closed with the singing of "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Banks and Bicycles Stolen From Schools

Three schools reported burglaries to police yesterday. In two of the elementary schools, the savings bank machines, part of the thrift program recently instituted, were taken, while at Eastern High School two brothers, pupils there, lost their bicycles.

The savings banks were taken from the Taylor School at Seventh and G streets northeast and the Peabody School at Fifth and C streets northeast. It was not known how much money the machines contained. The bicycles were lost by Norman and Carl Andress, of 502 E street northeast, when the bicycle room at Eastern High School was burglarized.

Contractors' Wage Policy Defended

Are Not Labor Bleeders, Delegation Declares at House Hearing.

Responsible general contractors are not labor bleeders and are strongly in favor of mandatory prevailing wages on all Government construction work to assure a living wage to workmen and eliminate their "fly-by-night" competitors, representatives of the Associated General Contractors of America yesterday told the House labor committee at its hearings on proposed amendments and extension of the Davis-Bacon prevailing wage act enacted at the last session of Congress.

On the eve of the association's thirteenth annual convention, which is to be held at Milwaukee next Monday and Tuesday, representatives of the contractors promised their hearty support to the extension of the legislation to include all classes of public construction, providing that the provisions of the present act are amended so as to include a predetermination of what is the prevailing wage and a provision for the adjustment of the contract price in accordance with wage fluctuations.

Woman Hurt When Rum Car Crashes Into Auto

A car, which police said contained 71 half-gallons of liquor, crashed into the rear of another machine on B street southwest between First and Second streets last night, painfully injuring a woman.

The man driving the alleged liquor car, John McCauley, 25 years old, of 1242 Eleventh street northwest, was taken to the Fourth Precinct Station by Patsy Monaco, 32 years old, of 418 Seventeenth street southwest. Mrs. Ann Monaco, 32 years old, was treated at Casualty Hospital for shock and possible fracture of the ribs.

Brutality Followed Ohio Prison Blaze

Witnesses Assert Guards Notched Blackjacks to Show Beatings.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Guards at the Ohio Penitentiary "notched their blackjacks" and ruled with an iron hand after the prison fire in which 320 convicts were burned to death, a State Senate committee was told today.

The committee is investigating charges of cruelty at the prison at the request of Warden P. E. Thomas. Testimony charging several guards with brutality was offered by three former guards and by Charles C. Rickett, a construction foreman, employed in rehabilitation work after the disaster of Easter Monday, 1930. Some prisoners substantiated the charges, while others refused to testify.

RETAIL SPOKESMAN AGAINST TAX BOOST

Reduction of Government Expenses Should Come First, House Told.

Retail merchants throughout the country, speaking through the person of Carlos B. Clark, department store executive of Detroit, yesterday told Congress that before it begins consideration of increasing taxes it must reduce government expenditures.

Mr. Clark appeared before the House ways and means committee as the representative of the National Retail Dry Goods Association which is made up of retail department stores and clothing and cloth sellers in all sections of the country.

He derided the so-called slashes in governmental estimates made by the Budget Bureau and warned the committee that the business men of the country would not be satisfied with the cuts in the estimates made by the bureau. These cuts, Mr. Clark said, amounted only to 1.6 per cent out of a total of $4,113,000,000.

Mr. Clark represented 100,000 members who employ 1,250,000 persons and do a business of more than $9,000,000,000 each year, he said in his effort to persaude the committee to give heed to his testimony.

Mr. Clark took issue with the statement made the day before by Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills that the only persons from whom protests against increased taxes had been heard were those whose motives were selfish.

"The taxpayers of this country," Mr. Clark, who is a veteran of several legislative battles in the past, told the committee, "are not going to be satisfied, in my opinion, with a slash in Government estimates of only 1.6 per cent."

Mr. Clark resented Mr. Mills' suggestion that the only criticism of the administration tax plan came from selfish interests and told the committee that the business men he represented would be glad to pay whatever taxes were necessary to meet the emergency, but they first wanted Congress to cut out of the Federal list of expenditures those millions on millions which unduly swelled the total of Government outlay.

Speed in the enactment of a new tariff bill was urged by the representative of the retail dry goods business men.

"The business men of this country," Mr. Clark told the committee, "want this committee to act quick. They want to know what additional burden in taxes they are going to be required to bear."

Suspect Arrested In Beach Blazes

16-Year-Old Boy Is Taken After Incipient Fires Are Found and Checked.

Colonial Beach authorities last night were holding James Bundy, a 16-year-old colored boy, in connection with a series of fires which have broken out in the town during the week.

Tuesday night a fire started in a hotel building, rapidly spread to two others and caused $45,000 damage. All three of the buildings were razed and the entire town was threatened for a time.

The boy was arrested after small fires were discovered in the De Atley Hotel Wednesday night. The first blaze was discovered in a room on the second floor of the hotel by George Stant, proprietor of a store across the street. It was quickly extinguished with small damage. Later a fire which had just been set was found in another room on the second floor. A pile of papers had been ignited beneath a bed.

New Racket Used By Auto Thieves

Part of Parking Ticket Obtains Car From Station, Manager Reports.

A new racket in stealing automobiles was reported to police last night by the operator of an automobile parking lot in the downtown area.

Thomas S. Courtney, manager of the Firestone Service Stores at Thirteenth and K streets northwest, told Second Precinct police that a man appeared at the lot, presented the lower half of a parking ticket and designated an automobile.

The numbers on the ticket were not properly checked, according to Mr. Courtney and when Miss Hetty G. Lawrence, of 710 Emerson street northwest, appeared with the proper check, her car was missing.

TWO HOUSE GROUPS JOIN FOR RUM VOTE

Decide to Back Referendum on State Liquor Control; Wets Challenged.

(Associated Press.)

Representatives of two antiprohibition groups in the House yesterday agreed they should unite in supporting a referendum on the question of State control of liquor.

Meanwhile the Senate manufactures subcommittee heard three members of the House urge enactment of the Bingham bill to legalize beer with a 4 per cent alcoholic content. Opponents of the measure will be heard later.

In a statement last night, Edwin C. Dinwiddie, executive secretary of the national prohbition board of strategy said Alfred E. Smith and John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, had engaged in "repeated misrepresentation" in asserting the American Bar Association had called for repeal and indorsed submission of the prohibition question to the people.

Meetings Planned Today.

Committeemen from the newly formed Republican organization for prohibition reform and the old bipartisan wet bloc approved the referendum proposal. Both organizations will meet today to consider the proposition separately.

The referendum proposal would leave with the Federal Government the power to regulate or prohibit interstate transportation of intoxicating beverages. It would give the States authority to regulate the sale, manufacture and intra-State transportation of liquor.

Before the Senate committee Representative Cooke, a Republican, of Buffalo, said "our prisons can be reduced, our homes divested of stills and breweries, and our children provided with a purer atmosphere in which to live and develop" by passage of the Bingham measure

Representative Baldridge (Republican), Nebraska, testified beer distributed to homes through grocery stores and not served in public places would be of "tremendous benefit" to this country.

Maas Approves Beer Bill.

Saying he did not care for liquor himself, Representative Maas (Republican), of Minnesota, told the committee he was a widower with three young daughters and he did not want the responsibility of bringing them up under "present conditions"

He approved of the beer bill, but said it would be only a step toward a solution.

Dr. Dinwiddie's statement follows in full:

"Repeated misrepresentation of the American Bar Association on the question of prohibition by Alfred E. Smith and John J. Raskob demand refutation in the interest of a fair discussion of the issue.

"Specifically, in a current magazine article, Mr. Smith declares that the American Bar Association, among other organizations named, has 'denounced the eighteenth amendment and has called for its repeal.'

"Specifically, in his report to the Democratic national committee on January 9, Mr. Raskob asserted that the American Bar Association has 'indorsed our recommendations that the prohibition question be submitted to the people.'

Says Bar Failed to Act.

"The fact is that the American Bar Association never has taken action for or against the eighteenth amendment. On the contrary, the association expressly avoided taking any action at its annual convention in Atlantic City, N. J., last September 17. The secretary at that convention read a report of a referendum among members. Of approximately 26,500 members, 13,779, or about one-half, favored repeal of the eighteenth amendment. This report was merely read to the convention.

"The press reported there was only 'scattering applause' and the convention steered clear of even any discussion of the report. No action whatever was taken by the convention on this report. Both officers and delegates avoided bringing the issue to a head for formal action, and the association stands uncommitted. The policy of 'hands off' was understood and prevailed.

"Therefore, Smith and Raskob have incorrectly reported the American Bar Association as favoring repeal or in stating that it has taken any position whatsoever upon prohibition."

Some Few Things Proved By Dissertation on Beer

By JOHN J. DALY

A CORNELL professor describes beer as a good thing for poor people because it makes bad food taste good.

By the same virtue, beer is a bad thing for rich people because it makes good food taste badly.

There are many things like that:

A champagne appetite and a beer income once were held incompatible Nowadays, a beer income like Al Capone's could buy all the champagne in France.

Opposites attract, they say. Gentlemen prefer blondes, but do blondes always prefer gentlemen?

A man is young as he feels, a woman old as she looks. If an old lady looks young and a young man feels old the fact still remains that old men feel young and young women look old—probably because they stay up late o' nights.

Some live to eat and others eat to live. Those who live to eat seldom get enough. Those who eat to live really do not live, being on a diet, since they cannot enjoy the thrills of the cuisine.

The good die young. If that were so, there would be no old folks. Everybody is good when he is young—and asleep. As the young do not die when they are good, they live to ripe old ages and become bad. Whatever good they do, as Shakespeare points out, is interred with their bones. So there is no good, lost on the young and dispatched with the old.

It is like beer. If it makes good food taste badly, then beer is harmful. If it makes bad food taste good, then, beer is a gay deceiver. This, too, makes it bad—fundamentally and morally.

• • • •

AS BEER has no morals, it can be neither good nor bad. As beer, it has nothing but an effect. If the effect is good, it is good beer. As the effect is deleterious when beer makes good food bad, it is, therefore, bad beer. On the other hand, if beer makes bad food good it is good beer, no matter how bad it is. This would seem to put the professor's contention in the category of love's labor lost.

Anyway, who cares if it is bad food, so long as it tastes well, and the beer is good? Much better, this, than good food tasting terribly and the beer bad. If the beer be good let the food be likewise, for bad beer ruins good food—which proves that beer is the superior of the two, making bad food good.

Oh, beer! What a power!

As a matter of fact, the only beer that ever excited any genuine enthusiasm was bock beer—and of that precious little is heard, since they backed bock off the map.

Bock beer signs used to spring up in the spring. They came along with the first blushing violets blooming on the hillside, and with the humming of humming birds in the hummery.

• • • •

ALL the nations rejoiced when bock beer signs appeared. The robins sang their songs of love in the valley, the stock market rose with the sap and the saps with the stock market. Nature thrilled and trilled.

Poetry was in the blood—and in the bock.

> At the Sign of the Bock,
> All the Germans said, "Hock!"
> Took their hands off the lock,
> Blowing foam from the crock,
> Singing songs at the dock,
> At the Sign of the Bock.

Those were what they called the good old days, though really they were the bad old days. Then, beer first established its reputation. It made good food bad and bad food good—just as whisky makes 'em well when they're sick and sick when they're well.

EAST BASKS IN SUN AS COLD HITS WEST

Flowering Plants Present Contrast to Deep Snows in Rockies' Area.

Chicago, Jan. 14 (U.P.).—America's weather scales balanced something like this tonight:

Snow plows snowed in on Rocky Mountain highways; roses blooming at Lakewood, Ohio.

Heavy snow at Portland, Oreg.; temperatures in the 70s at Atlanta, Memphis, and Little Rock.

W. H. Mathews, of De Pere, Wis., eats a head of lettuce planted in his garden last September. Nebraska Game Commission pleads with citizens to leave food on snowdrifts to keep wild birds from starving.

Coatless citizens pluck pansies and pussy willows at New Haven, Conn.; New Mexican Indians almost terrorized by exceedingly deep snow covering their reservations.

Outside activity practically stopped at Lander, Wyo., with 26 degrees below zero. Marietta, Ohioans run second to the Pennsylvanians by reporting the mercury rising to 95 in the sun, sap running, butterflies flittering, snakes skittering and robins twittering.

Southern Californians try to explain the first snow fall in 50 years—Cleveland schoolboys go swimming in Lake Erie with temperature at 70.

Tail end of blizzard heads for Oklahoma Panhandle—housewives work in flower gardens at Dallas, Tex.

California orange belt gets out the smudge pots—convict baseball team at Joliet, Ill., plays ball.

Government weather bureau said that almost unprecedented warm weather prevailed over most of the Eastern half of the country and that unusually cold weather prevailed in the West. They predicted that Midwest temperatures would fall rapidly by morning and that the cold would proceed to the Eastern Seaboard, ousting all freak manifestations of spring by the week-end.

Constable Is Exonerated In Slaying After Chase

A Prince Georges County coroner's jury yesterday freed Constable Roger B. Oursler of all blame in the death of William Kingsbury, colored, bringing in a verdict that the officer fired at the colored man in self-defense. The dead man was shot on the Southern Maryland pike near the District line at the climax of a long chase by the policeman.

To buttress his statements that Kingsbury fired on him first, Oursler brought the bullet-riddled fender and tire of his car into court. Kingsbury's companion in the car, Edgar Lee, denied that either he or Kingsbury had a gun or fired any shots.

Alabama Will Not Jail Soldiers Failing Alimony

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Uncle Sam's soldiers can not be placed in jail in Alabama for failure to pay alimony.

The State Supreme Court so held today in granting Private Lester M. Davis a writ of prohibition against being imprisoned in lieu of payments so long as he remains in the Army. His former wife, Mrs. Dorothy Davis, in obtaining a divorce in the Lee County Circuit Court in October, 1931, was awarded $50 a month alimony, which the records showed was not paid.

Budapest, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—The Hungarian censor today forbade the production of a motion picture adapted from Theodore Dreiser's novel, "An American Tragedy."

Home Brew Taxes Upheld in Michigan

Chancery Master Says That State Can Impose Punitive Levy.

Detroit, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Michigan's stiff tax on raw materials used by home brewers was upheld as constitutional today in an opinion of William S. Sayres, jr., standing master in chancery in Federal Court.

The opinion, which now goes to a three-judge court for action, was given in the case of Standard Brands, Inc., of Cincinnati, manufacturers of a bakers' malt. The three judges—Arthur C. Denison of the Circuit Court of Appeals and Charles C. Simons and Edward J. Moinet, of the district court here—previously had refused to grant the corporation a restraining order against the State.

Sayres held that since a State has the right to prohibit manufacture and sale of materials used in the manufacture of such liquors. What the State can prohibit it can discourage by imposition of taxes, he said. While admitting that some sections of the act "verge on" infringement of the interstate commerce act, he held that as a whole the statute is within the rights of the State.

Dr. McBride and Bishop Thomas Nicholson, of Detroit, are listed as speakers tonight.

The meeting, which starts today, will continue through Tuesday.

New York Rescued By Aid From State

$15,000,000 Is Advanced for School Purposes of Municipality.

New York, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—New York City tonight had been saved, temporarily at least, from financial embarrassment. The State advanced $15,000,000 for school purposes and an additional $1,000,000 was borrowed from the unemployment relief committee, headed by Harvey D. Gibson.

Mayor Walker announced he and Comptroller Berry planned to meet with banking interests shortly with a view to arranging short-term financing.

The city's financial stringency was augmented by the forthcoming maturity on January 20, of $32,000,000 in short term notes, and additional $30,000,000 due soon after February 1. Meanwhile department heads were slashing expenses wherever possible.

North Carolina Chief Asks Rigorous Economy

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Governor O. Max Gardner today told the heads of State departments and institutions the State's financial condition demanded that all operations "not absolutely essential" be discontinued.

The situation is "so critical," he said, that North Carolina "cannot borrow further in New York in 1932." He said plans for the construction of new highways at a cost of $4,800,000 and a new State prison at a cost of $400,000 had been abandoned for the time.

DEMOCRATS LAUNCH VICTORY DRIVE HERE

Passing of $25,000 Goal Is Apparently Assured by Committee Choice.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Washington Democrats, assigned a quota of $25,000 by the national committee, launched their victory campaign in the Carlton Hotel last night under the auspices of a distinguished committee which assured success.

National and local Democrats attended the meeting which was presided over by Col. Arthur O'Brien, who has been a Republican but now is enlisted among the working members of the Democratic party.

The gathering heard Breckinridge Long, Assistant Secretary of State under Woodrow Wilson, jeer at the Republican party's plea for submergence by the Democrats of party principles. Mr. Long flayed the Republicans for the partisanship displayed under their leaders in the Wilson administration, naming former Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and others as exemplifying the violent partisanship of the Republican party at that time when the Democratic party was in control of the Government.

"The plea to set aside partisan activity in the present situation can be answered by the words that the Democratic party and its supporters have always set the welfare of the people of the United States above their own partisan desires, and they do today," Mr. Long said. "But we would like to recommend that practice to the consideration of the leaders of the Republican party."

President Wilson, Mr. Long said, had refused to use the armistice to sway the election in 1918, withholding the terms of the armistice, known on November 2, so that the armistice might not sway the results of the congressional election then imminent.

John F. Costello, national committeeman, and Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, national committeewoman, and others addressed the meeting which was attended by Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson, who was praised by the speakers, William McK. Clayton, one of the veteran Democrats of the District and others, including members of the victory campaign committee.

Personnel of the committee was regarded by observers as assuring oversubscription of the quota alloted the District by the national Democratic committee. Those named on the committee included:

Hoover. First term Presidents who seek a second term are not expected to make an announcement. However, from now on President Hoover's speeches will be regarded as campaign speeches.

Asked to Talk in Chicago.

In this connection the President yesterday was invited to address a Republican rally at a Lincoln Day dinner in Chicago the night of February 12. Illinois is one of the States where the President is described as being unusually weak.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, far and away the strongest Democrat in the presidential race now, is expected to enter most of the State primaries. This was made known at the Democratic gathering here last week. The New Yorker, however, will stay out of States where there are formidable favorite sons.

It was revealed Wednesday that Gov. William (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, of Oklahoma, who is to be much in the limelight here this week, may array himself against Roosevelt in the North Dakota primary.

Smith Urged to Run.

Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, of New York, the 1928 Democratic nominee, is being urged by his friends to enter the Massachusetts primary.

The primary elections in which the Republicans take part follow:

New Hampshire, second Tuesday in March, March 8; North Dakota, third Tuesday in March, March 15; Wisconsin, first Tuesday in April, April 5; Illinois, second Tuesday in April, April 12; Nebraska, second Tuesday in April, April 12; Pennsylvania, fourth Tuesday in April, April 26; Massachusetts, last Tuesday in April, April 26; Maryland, first Monday in May, May 2; California, first Tuesday in May, May 3; South Dakota, first Tuesday in May, May 3; Ohio, second Tuesday in May, May 10; West Virginia, second Tuesday in May, May 10; New Jersey, third Tuesday in May, May 17, and Oregon, third Friday in May, May 20. In New York (district delegates only), April 5.

Whether President Hoover's name is to be entered in all these primary contests is a matter which the strategy board will have to determine.

Governor of Utah Calls Republicans Betrayers

Helena, Mont., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Gov. George H. Dern, of Utah, told guests at a Democratic "victory" dinner tonight the American people have "awakened to the fact that they have been fooled and betrayed by the colossal stupidity and ineptitude of their amug Republican leaders."

He said Democratic victory in the coming elections is certain, and declared Republican pleas for party loyalty will fall on deaf ears when they reach "the seven million unemployed," the farmer and the merchant and the manufacturer.

Josephus Daniels, Hurt In Auto Accident, Mends

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Josephus Daniels, injured in an automobile accident near Atlanta yesterday, rested comfortably tonight and his physician said he should be able to leave the hospital in four or five days.

The publisher of the Raleigh, N. C., News and Observer and war-time Secretary of the Navy, suffered a fractured wrist, a long cut on the forehead and bruises as the automobile in which he was returning to Atlanta from an anniversary celebration of the Berry Schools, at Mount Berry, Ga., was struck and forced from the road by another car.

VIRGINIANS INDORSE BYRD FOR PRESIDENT

Move to Have Democrats Pick Former Governor Is Begun in Assembly.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—The Virginia General Assembly today indorsed Harry Flood Byrd, vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, for the Democratic nomination for President of the United States.

A joint resolution indorsing the former Governor of Virginia was adopted without a dissenting vote after being offered by Senator T. Russell Cather, of Winchester, the home town of Byrd. The House of Delegates, after adopting the resolution, stood and cheered, while the Senate adopted the measure by a rising vote.

The resolution praised Byrd as a leader who made Virginia "a leading example of intelligence and progressive administration."

"If nominated and elected President of the United States of America," the resolution asserted, "he will bring to that office the qualities of clear common sense, assured grasp of perplexing problems, decisiveness in difficult questions, capacity for cooperation with the Congress and other branches, and a spirit of leadership sympathetic with the masses of the people that is just to all men."

The resolution stated that the "American people have lost faith in the ability of the present leaders to guide in the recovery of economic prosperity and the restoration of confidence in the National Government."

Winchester, Va., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Former Gov. Harry F. Byrd, notified today that the Virginia General Assembly had unanimously adopted resolutions indorsing him for the Democratic presidential nomination, sent the following acknowledgement to presiding officers of the Senate and House:

"I appreciate deeply the honor the General Assembly of Virginia has paid me in the resolution adopted.

"When the time comes for the rank and file of Virginia's Democracy to choose a candidate to present to the national convention, my personal hope is that no indorsement will be made merely to compliment a son of Virginia or to avoid a decision as between leading candidates, but that we will be guided solely by our anxiety to adopt the course thought best for our party and the Nation.

"For myself, the only privilege I ask is to labor in the ranks to restore our country to Democratic principles, which today offer the Nation hope for world recovery."

Roosevelt Denies Calling Smith 'Rotten Governor'

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Governor of New York and potential Democratic presidential nominee, labeled as a "contemptible liar" the person circulating a report that he called his Democratic predecessor, Alfred E. Smith, a "rotten governor."

The remark is attributed to Roosevelt in a current issue of a weekly magazine by an anonymous author, who repeated the remark as an unsubstantiated rumor.

night that he had been indorsed as the Democratic presidential candidate by the resolutions committee at the party's North Dakota convention today.

As the governor arrived here from Albany to address the New York victory dinner, he was shown a copy of the dispatch.

"Wel, well!" he said, and his eyes twinkled as he read the report.

Those close to the governor said he undoubtedly would reply as soon as he received formal notification that action had been taken in North Dakota. Gov. Roosevelt's permission is required before his name may be entered in the State primary election, March 15. His friends predicted he would give that permission.

SMITH, QUESTIONED ON PLANS, IS SILENT

Given Tremendous Ovation as Lawyer in Boston Foresees Drafting.

A wild ovation broke loose and Smith stood silent while it continued. When quiet was restored he stood for a moment as if preparing to speak and then took his seat.

He launched immediately into a satirical description of the manner in which he said the Democratic party had functioned between past elections.

Aside from the two terms presided over by Woodrow Wilson, he said, the Democratic party had never functioned between elections. This, he thought, was largely because of discouragement among the rank and file.

"When word flashes over the wire that the party has been defeated," he said, "they all take a walk. The next day some one comes around and closes the headquarters, throws the furniture out of the window and the party ceases to function except for its representatives in Washington, until the January before the next presidential election—three and a half years.

"Then, in a solemn way, they meet to talk about Jefferson, hold dinners, celebrate Jackson's birthday and then all get together and give the convention to the highest bidder. See what a distressing effect this has on the party. And if you have any doubt, get yourself nominated for President and afterward find out what happens to you. I've had that experience."

He described the organization formed after the 1928 campaign, and to those preparations he attributed much of the success of the Democrats in the 1930 elections.

The party entered the 1928 campaign with a deficit from 1924, he said, and to this was added the expense of that campaign and the maintenance of the organization since, and preparations for the campaign about to start.

He referred to the large amount loaned by John J. Raskob, national chairman, and said, "None believes the party should subsist on one man." He said the rank and file should finance the party.

Turning to the coming campaign, he launched into a discussion of platform planks.

"If there was ever a time when the party should give the American people a clean-cut, straightforward, honest declaration of what it intends to do if entrusted with the Government during the next four years, it is this year," he said. Most of the past platforms, he added, have been concerned with finding fault with the other side.

"Let's make a frank, open and honest declaration of what we intend to do with the prohibition law," he said. "We owe it to the country and the people. There is no need of looking to the Republican party. The President is not in accord with his own commission. They don't intend to do anything about it and hope we don't."

"Now, the Republican party is unalterably committed to a continuance not only of the waste of money in a senseless attempt at enforcement, but an economic waste that is growing from the loss of taxation while liquor of all kinds is flowing through every State in the United States.

"There is no question about that, only it requires nerve to admit it. It requires nerve to tackle the problem. And, do not make any mistake, the men on the other side of that problem understand that phase of it just as well as we do.

"But they don't want to see it. They go so far as to say it is not an issue; it is a social question.

"Well, was it an issue in New Hampshire? Was it an issue in New Jersey? Was it an issue out in Michigan? Did the late Senator Morrow make it an issue when he ran for senator in New Jersey? You bet he did, and he came out with a declaration absolutely contrary to the position taken by his chief and the leader of his party at Washington.

"I will go a step further. I think I am right—I am sure I am right. I think that the change in the political complexion in the House of Representatives can largely be attributed to the fact that the people of the country are looking to the Democratic party for relief.

"Now, what do I mean when I speak about a declaration in the platform? I just mean this: That neither of the political parties can hope to give the people any relief unless and until all the candidates of that party are pledged to some definite plan."

ROOSEVELT ATTACKS PRESIDENT'S CRITICS

Deplores Tendency to Blame Executive for Troubles; Lauds Raskob.

New York, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—The Democratic party "can never tolerate abuse heaped against the person of the President of the United States," Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, himself a potential presidential candidate, declared tonight.

"I deplore the tendency to blame all our present troubles on the President," he told several thousand Democratic leaders at the party's New York "victory dinner" in the grand ball room of the Hotel Astor.

"He (the President) is perhaps the victim of a theory which holds that the control of the Republican party reins entitles the holders to use that historic party for the purpose of personal gain.

"He and his associates have perhaps shown incapacity to contribute leadership in the solving of a national crisis.

"The battle of Democracy is pointed not at the rank and file of the Republican party, but at those who today direct its policies. But the battle of Democracy can never tolerate abuse heaped against the person of the President of the United States."

Lauds Raskob's Work.

The governor took occasion early in his address to laud the work of Chairman John J. Raskob in establishing a national committee headquarters in Washington three years ago "for the purpose of presenting to the public information regarding our national affairs."

"To Mr. Raskob," said Gov. Roosevelt, "we owe a debt of gratitude for making this work possible."

In approaching his remarks on party conduct the governor said:

"Campaigns in the United States have at times been won by an appeal to prejudice, by an appeal to ignorance, by the picturing of principles in false colors, by the presentation of candidates dressed in borrowed clothes. Prejudice can not be kept alive if the facts are known; secrets can not be hidden if they are shouted from the hilltops. 'Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make ye free.'

Further Task as a Party.

"Hand in hand with the campaign to spread knowledge and thereby in the long run eliminate prejudice, we have a further task as a party—so to conduct ourselves that we shall never be made the object of the accusation that we have dealt our opponents a blow below the belt. I refer especially and specifically to many men and women in the United States, members of both great parties * * * who have forgotten their sense of fair play and at the same time the fact that their victim of the moment is the President of the United States."

Reviewing tax situations, the governor said:

"The time has come for the 48 sovereignties which have created the Federal machinery of government to say to Washington: 'Let us follow the original principle established in the Constitution in 1787, that the States give to the Federal Government certain specified powers and reserve to themselves all other powers.

"'We * * * must say to each other and to the Federal Government * * * let us establish for times of peace a definite apportionment of the whole field of taxation.

Adequate Sources of Taxation.

"'To the Federal Government we will give adequate sources of taxation to meet the administrative needs of the Federal Government as a government of definite delegated powers. All other sources of taxation we, the States, reserve unto ourselves.

"'When this is accomplished it will be possible for the State sovereignties to scan this reserved field of tax sources and to determine which elements in that field can with propriety and justice be allocated as tax sources to local government.'"

John W. Davis, Democratic presidential candidate in 1924, detailed the objectives of the fund-raising campaign of which the "victory" dinners are a part and said: "Our campaign has no connection, even the most remote, with the aspirations of any possible candidate."

"We are out to fill the war chest—not to choose a commander, dictate strategy or map the battlefield," he asserted.

Praised by Davis.

Praising the leadership of Chairman Raskob and Executive Chairman Shouse, Mr. Davis said, "If this constructive work is carried forward actively in a militant fashion, as it has been carried forward during the last two and a half years, we will score a still greater triumph next November."

Representative Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, majority leader of the House, asserted "We have enacted into law during the present session more major propositions than any other Congress ever enacted in a like period of time during all my period of service in the House of Representatives which extends now over almost 30 years of time."

He praised the Democratic tariff bill, which was passed by the House last week and said:

"We can charge to Republican politics and Republican Presidents and Republican Cabinets the distressing conditions under which we labor now.

Cites Other Problems.

"It is our problem to reopen our factories. It is our problem to restore to our Government bonds the market value they ought to have. It is our problem to save the railroads and banks from threatening ruin and disaster. It is our problem to bring back if we can to this country as many as possible of the 2,200 American branch manufacturing plants now operating back of the tariff walls of other countries utilizing their cheaper labor and using their raw materials.

"Hope for the future depends upon the ascendancy again and the control of our national affairs by the party of Jefferson."

Toastermaster Davis announced gifts totaling $225,000 had been made before the campaign began. He said he had received during the dinner a telegram from Missouri adding $1,000 to their total and one from New Mexico announcing that that State's quota already had been passed and the contributions forwarded to Democratic headquarters.

Eight hundred of those at the dinner signed pledges to aid the "victory drive."

Madrid, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—The government has authorized the sale of four cruisers, three destroyers, one gunboat, six torpedo boats and one submarine, asserting that the ships will be scrapped if there are no buyers.

Smith May Allow Name In State Primary Votes

New York, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—The Evening Post says former Gov. Alfred E. Smith will make no objection to the use of his name in State primaries.

It says Mr. Smith will not commit himself regarding the use of his name for the Democratic presidential nomination but "if anyone should write to the effect that his name will be used if nothing is heard to the contrary, it is understood that nothing will be heard 'to the contrary.'"

DEMOCRATS WARNED OF OVERCONFIDENCE

Shouse Predicts Victory for Party if Enthusiasm Is Maintained.

Chicago, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—A warning against overconfidence was sounded tonight by Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, as he told Illinois party leaders a sweeping national victory was in sight.

"The victory is ours if we hold together and do not let our enthusiasm wane," Shouse said in his address before the "victory" dinner of Illinois Democrats. "If, on the contrary, we take it for granted that we are going to win, if we permit individual rivalries, individual pride of opinion to divide us, I am not so sure."

Overconfidence, Shouse said, was second only in danger to despair—"the peril which appertains to our adversaries."

"Let the feeling once become general in our party that we can elect any candidate on any platform, and we will have taken the first step toward defeat," he added. "Let it not be forgotten that before this we have an election won in January, only to be overwhelmed in November.

Foe Seen Firmly Entrenched.

"These misfortunes were due for the most part to our permitting factional differences to divide us and kill the enthusiasm of the preconvention period. We must not make that mistake again."

The Democratic leader cautioned that victory might not be "as easy as it now seems to accomplish."

"A regime that has held the Government for three presidential terms is firmly entrenched," he said. "Neither the officeholder nor those for whom the officeholders have been doing favors are going to be ousted from their positions of vantage without a struggle, and we know from past experiences that Government beneficiaries, when driven to the wall, can and will fight desperately. They may not love Mr. Hoover, but they do love what Mr. Hoover and his predecessors have done for them."

The responsibility of the Democratic party is a great one, Shouse said, for "we are at a critical period in the world's history and the men who are chosen in November to conduct the affairs of this Government will have the responsibility for bringing us out of chaos or permitting us to slide into still deeper confusion.

Denies Candidate Preference.

"We can afford to have no weaklings either in the White House or at the Capitol," he said. "The best we have is none too wise, too competent, too courageous, for the task that awaits these men."

Shouse said he recognized that political talk now centered on possible candidacies. The national committee was interested in no particular candidate, he added, despite published references to the contrary.

"The so-called Raskob-Smith-Shouse combination for or against a particular candidate * * * is dream stuff, mainly Republican dream stuff," he declared.

Prof. William E. Dodd, head of the history department of the University of Chicago, discussed the history of the Democratic party and branded the protective tariff as "corrupt" and "vicious."

"Half the people of the United States under a discriminatory system cannot buy industrial goods," he said, "and that fact puts millions of city workers out of employment. High and unreasonable tariffs close the markets of the world to American industrial goods, and that has caused thousands of American industrialists to set up plants in other countries. Every industrial people in the world has put up barriers against both agricultural and industrial exports of the United States."

Uninstructed Delegates Favored in Wisconsin

Fond Du Lac, Wis., Jan. 14 (A.P.). Briefly commending the administration of President Hoover "for its efforts to maintain the stability and credit of the United States," the Sixth Congressional District Republican Club today voted to send its delegates to the national convention in Chicago uninstructed.

A resolution condemning Gov. Philip La Follette for "playing politics" with relief legislation and commending conservative Republican members of the Legislature for opposing the governor's program was unanimously adopted. Another resolution urged resubmission of the eighteenth amendment.

Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross Takes Slap at Hoover

Tampa, Fla., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, former Governor of Wyoming and vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, tonight charged President Hoover had refused to acknowledge the gravity of business depression until the Nation "was engulfed in acute distress."

Speaking at the "Victory dinner" of Florida Democrats, Mrs. Ross said the Republican party had failed to give relief in a national emergency and had fallen down on its campaign promises.

Hoover Asked to Speak At Chicago G. O. P. Rally

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover was invited yesterday to address a Republican rally at a Lincoln Day dinner on February 12 in Chicago, where the party's convention will be held.

Allen Gilbert, chairman of the celebration, and William D. Saltiel extended the invitation. Gilbert said he had suggested that Chicago would provide a suitable spot for a political statement from the President. He added Mr. Hoover had promised to answer within a day or two.

ECONOMIC ILLS LAID TO REPUBLICAN RULE

Senator Lewis Tells Democrats in Ohio Administration Is at Fault.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Two Middle Western Democratic senators tonight blamed the Republican administration for the Nation's economic troubles.

The Democratic party will ask the voters for victory in the forthcoming presidential election so it "can rout from power the syndicate of special interests that has taken possession of the Government," Senator James Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, declared at a "Victory dinner" here of Ohio Democrats.

American prosperity, he claimed, was destroyed by the raising of "a tax barrier against the nations of the earth under the guidance of a senator from Pennsylvania."

Senator Robert J. Bulkley, of Ohio, held the Republican administration at fault for failing to recognize the business depression until only a few months ago, and expressed belief that it may be necessary for the Federal Government to go to the help of local communities in solving unemployment relief problems.

Picturing the Nation as prosperous, and with the richest treasury on earth, when the Wilson administration left office, Senator Lewis said that after ten years of Republican rule poverty is rampant, unemployment is widespread, the finances of city, county and State governments have withered, credit is dead, business is paralyzed, finance and banking palsied and the wealth of American manufacture is "escaping to Canada and constructing enormous factories."

These conditions, he said, were brought about by the "deliberate perversion of the banking system of America, violations of the law by those in control of the Federal agency of banking."

THE RAIL WAGE CONFERENCE.

Railroad executives and union leaders are engaged in a momentous conference in Chicago. Regardless of what decision is reached the consequences of this gathering will have a far-reaching effect upon economic conditions throughout the country. More than 6,000,000 persons are dependent upon the railroads for their livelihood and 1,500,000 investors in railroad securities are involved. Thousands of banks, insurance companies and business enterprises are also watching with anxious eyes for a satisfactory agreement at Chicago.

This conference is especially significant because it resulted from the initiative of the railroad brotherhoods. Nearly 2,000,000 railway workers have authorized their representatives to negotiate with the executives on wage reductions and kindred subjects. They have manifested a laudable disposition to cooperate in restoring stability to the Nation's transportation system. Realizing that the carriers are in difficult circumstances, they have agreed to accept personal sacrifices for the general welfare. Indications are that the executives are deeply appreciative of this attitude and that in turn they are ready to make concessions to relieve the unemployed.

Neither employes nor investors could profit from disintegration of the great transportation systems. Railroad credit must be maintained. Equipment must be replenished and normal improvements made. Apparently there is no way in which the carriers can secure immediate funds to strengthen their financial position and to defray the expenses of upkeep, except by a moderate cut in wages. Under the circumstances a 10 per cent reduction in wages is regarded as a move toward stability.

The unions will agree to accept a lower pay scale only if they are granted compensating advantages. Nearly 700,000 railroad men are without work. The brotherhoods insist that a considerable share of the $250,000,000 that would be saved by the proposed wage cut be spent to reemploy railway men who are now idle. This would stimulate repair work; more materials would be ordered from other industries and a considerable factor in economic recovery would be set in motion.

The conference at Chicago has an opportunity to give impetus to the cooperative spirit in such a way as to encourage business and restore confidence in the whole country. With industry and labor pulling together it should not be difficult to rout the depression. No doubt the delegates are aware of the fact that their deliberations will be the signal for a step backward toward deflation and uncertainty or a step forward toward confidence, cooperation and prosperity.

A CENTURY OF PROGRESS.

The bill providing for Federal participation in the "Century of Progress" exposition at Chicago next year has been favorably reported to both houses of Congress. The sum required for the Government's building and exhibit, as estimated by a committee appointed by the President, is $1,725,000.

Two years ago Congress requested the President to invite foreign governments to participate in the exposition, and a proclamation to that effect was issued. Foreign governments and many American States have made reservations of sites and are formulating plans for their exhibits, but they can not be expected to push this work forward so long as there is delay on the part of the United States Government itself. Wholesale and timely participation by the nations and States of the Union depends upon the early enactment of the bill which has just been reported.

The City of Chicago is financing this exposition. No money is asked from the Government. In order to make the exposition a complete picture of progress it is necessary that this Government and foreign governments should set forth the splendid panorama of world advancement since the City of Chicago was born. The indomitable spirit of Chicago, in taking the lead in this enterprise in behalf of all civilization, commands the enthusiastic support of Congress and the Government departments. By systematic and ingenious methods of exhibition a microcosm of human progress during the last century will be spread before the visitor to Chicago next year. Now, on the eve of a burst of energy and development such as the world has never before experienced, it is incumbent upon Congress to provide for an adequate exhibit at Chicago of the progress and activities of the United States Government during the last century.

FOR HELP, NOT A DOLE.

Two kinds of relief are proposed in Congress. One contemplates appropriations for direct cash benefits and expenditures for unproductive improvements. The other calls for appropriations to extend assistance to industry and commerce, with a view to a restoration of normal activity and employment.

The scattering of vast sums of Federal funds in the form of doles, or in giving employment for the building of unnecessary and unproductive improvements of any kind, probably would result in a sudden spurt of business and a temporary synthetic appearance of prosperity. It would not be lasting and it would not be real. Billions of dollars in bonds for such forced uses could not be floated except at a higher rate of interest than is carried by other Government issues. The resulting reaction in the market value of existing bonds would be prejudicial to the many institutions and individuals who hold them, and the question even arises as to whether the splendid credit of the United States might in a measure be jeopardized by such an issue in addition to all the other demands which the Federal Treasury must make upon the funds of the public.

In sharp contrast, other bills that are being considered by Congress, with admirable promptness and lack of partisan bias, are of an entirely different character. They do not propose to distribute funds to serve a single purpose and there end their usefulness, leaving the Government and the taxpayers saddled with increased debts. The banking measures and the National Reconstruction Finance Corporation are being established to help banks and legitimate industry in a normal, rational manner with a view to restoring the activity that alone means permanent welfare for all interests and all citizens. The Government can not undertake to become an almsgiver or even a banker for every individual, but it can lend assistance to the credit institutions of the country, to the railroads, to agriculture and large employers of labor. It will be done in a logical manner through established channels, and this effort will make for permanent restoration and stabilization of business. Credit will be afforded revenue-producing and labor-employing enterprises, which is a very different thing from distributing public funds as a gift or burying them in unproductive works. The credit of the Nation likewise will be strengthened instead of weakened, and the taxable income of the country will be increased.

A few opponents who disparage the importance of these finance measures try to stigmatize them as benefits designed merely to help banks. Banking credit is only as strong as the confidence of depositors. A Federal credit judiciously applied to aid industry will release ten or twenty times the amount in private funds. No direct Government aid could hope to extend directly a fraction of the assistance that can be rendered by helping business to help itself. The very prospect of the efficient aid of the Reconstruction Corporation has cheered the business world and given it a prospect of new life.

Added to the activity of the National Credit Corporation there is increasing evidence that the Federal Reserve system will join forces behind the liberal credit policy. Whether its lead in cutting the bill-buying rate in New York presages a reduction in the rediscount rate has not been announced, but it is anticipated in financial circles that the great resources of the Federal Reserve will be counted in the stand that will be made against further ruinous deflation. The various necessary elements in a comprehensive scheme for the expansion of credit, the restoration of confidence and a general improvement of conditions is taking definite shape.

EXPERTS VS. POLITICIANS.

Experts of the Bureau of Efficiency have begun a study of the Mapes tax bills designed to saddle upon residents of Washington the burden of maintaining the National Capital. The bureau is well versed in the financial affairs of the District. In the past it has manifested a disposition to deal with the relations between the Government and the Capital from a comprehensive viewpoint. Its present study will unquestionably be an important factor in the Senate District committee's effort to deal fairly with local taxpayers.

The fact that the committee referred these bills to the Bureau of Efficiency for study is ample evidence that it considers the investigation by the special House committee as discriminatory and biased. The sham arguments and the misleading facts submitted by the Mapes committee have already been exposed by dozens of citizens' organizations, by independent experts and by unbiased members of Congress. No one can forecast what the conclusions of the Bureau of Efficiency will be, but unless the attitude of that agency has changed since it last studied this subject it will not produce a set of juggled figures that would help to throttle the Federal City by denying it proper support from Congress.

The people of the District welcome an investigation into this subject. They will not seek to avoid payment of their just share of maintaining and developing the District. But they object most strenuously to the high-handed methods used by the House in passing these bills and to the puerile conclusions reached by a hostile committee of politicians. The Bureau of Efficiency has an opportunity to put the controversy over fiscal relations on a solid basis once more. By officially exposing the fallacies of the Mapes report and the tax bills that grew out of it the bureau can perform a national service.

LAVAL FORTIFIES HIMSELF.

Premier Laval's game of political jugglery is safely concluded and he again heads the French cabinet. Having precipitated a crisis for purposes of his own, he has proved to be master of the situation, and apparently has obtained everything he sought, except the aid of Edouard Herriot, the radical leader. Furthermore, M. Laval has enhanced his reputation as a strategist.

The chief purpose of Premier Laval's resignation seems to have been to replace the veteran minister of foreign affairs, Aristide Briand. It is well known that M. Briand is in ill health, but there are stronger reasons why Premier Laval wished him to step aside. M. Briand is the foremost advocate of European peace through the process of coddling Germany. In view of the recent attitude of the German government toward the payment of reparations, the Briand policy of cooperation is not in harmony with French sentiment. Premier Laval has himself stepped into the role of foreign minister, and a stiffening of the policy toward Germany at the Lausanne conference may be expected.

There was no occasion for the whole cabinet to resign, except to soften the ousting of M. Briand. The Chamber of Deputies had not expressed lack of confidence in the Laval cabinet. But the death of Andre Maginot, minister of war, furnished an excuse for the general shake-up, and M. Laval took full advantage of it. The assignment of former Premier Andre Tardieu to the war portfolio is taken as a move to strengthen France's resistance to disarmament at the coming Geneva conference. In view of the uncertainty in Europe and the recalcitrant attitude of Germany, M. Laval is marshaling his forces to deal with any contingency.

The attempt to bring the Radical Socialists into the cabinet was obviously a political move. M. Laval was desirous of strengthening his position in the chamber, and it may be assumed that he was not averse to mitigating the opposition of the radicals in the forthcoming election. But the Radical Socialists would rather take a chance of crushing M. Laval under an avalanche of ballots than to cooperate with him.

M. Briand has been asked to participate in the cabinet as a minister without portfolio, but that request is doubtless a gesture of respect to the venerable statesman and a bid for the continued support of his followers. There is no question that M. Briand's mild policy of dealing with Germany is not in keeping with the course Premier Laval intends to pursue.

THE BICENTENNIAL FUND.

The Senate committee on appropriations has voted a further cut in the allotment of funds for the work of the National George Washington Bicentennial Commission. The House bill reduced the appropriation to $250,000. With this amount the commission can carry out its Nation-wide work upon a somewhat reduced scale, but without vital curtailment. Now the Senate committee proposes to lop off another $50,000. This is too drastic a cut.

Congress contemplated a fitting country-wide observance of the Washington anniversary this year, and appointed a national commission to organize the work of preparation throughout the Nation. Never before in the history of the country has such widespread interest been developed in a celebration of this character. Patriotic exercises will be held in every city and hamlet. The commission headquarters is one of the busiest places in Washington. It receives no less than 7,000 letters a day asking for literature, suggestions and help of various kinds in connection with the staging of commemorative exercises.

The Senate committee's proposal to cut down the appropriation for the commission is a move to nullify the work that Congress has already ordered. The fund as fixed in the House bill is the minimum under which the commission can operate to carry out work already under way. There is no intention of making further expansion, but the celebrations throughout the various States literally run into hundreds of thousands, and their success depends largely upon the coordination of effort that has been effected through the national commission. The Senate should see its patriotic duty clear to restoring the George Washington fund appropriation to $250,000.

AN EMPIRE PASSES

From the Los Angeles Times.

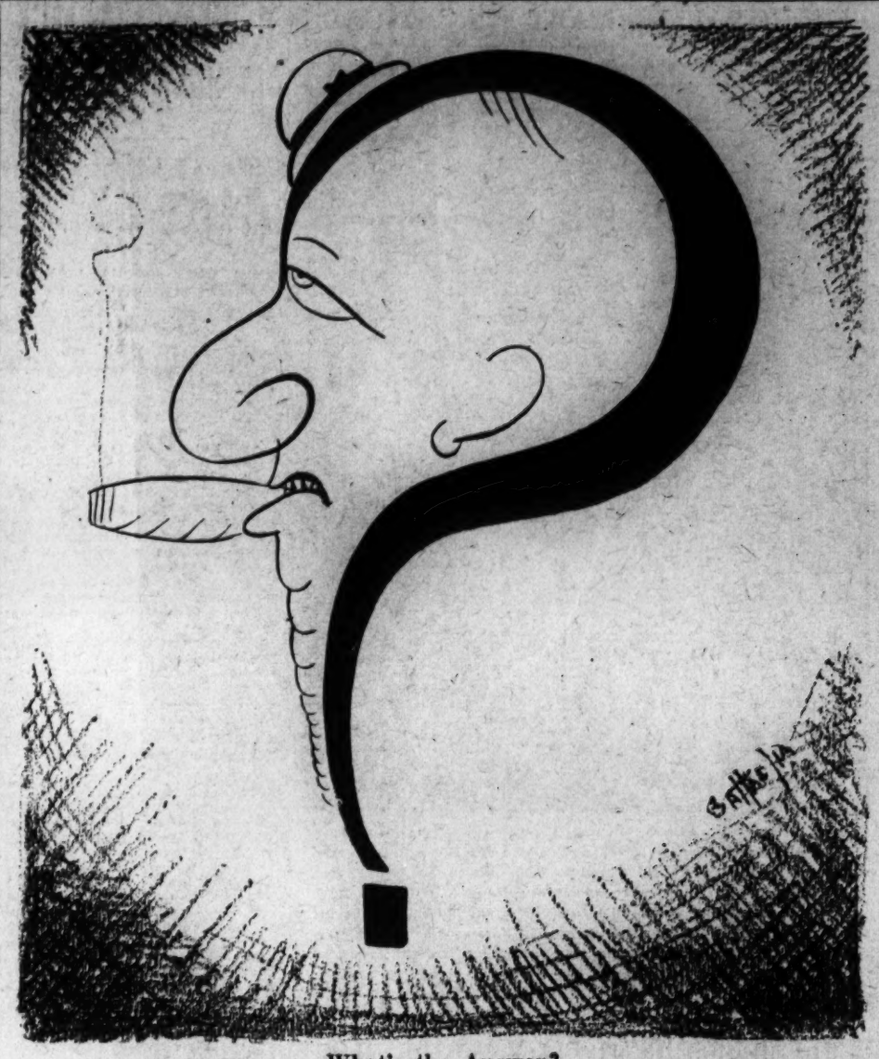

King George has signed the statute, already passed by both houses of Parliament, conferring practical independence on the former British Dominions. His purely perfunctory act breaks officially the links of empire in a vast domain that at one time covered nearly one-fourth of the land surface of the globe. Canada, South Africa, the Irish Free State, Australia and New Zealand are now as free from legislative enactments at Westminster as were the American colonists after the victory at Yorktown.

India still remains for the present in statu quo, but economic pressure promises before long to liberalize the rule in that turbulent land. Of the once famous red line that carried the union jack around the world, only a few scattered outposts are left—British Guiana, British Honduras, the Falkland Isles, Jamaica, Trinidad, Barbadoes, the Bermudas, still colonies held in the Western Hemisphere, some trading ports and coaling stations like Hongkong and Singapore in Asiatic waters and one or two Mediterranean islands.

Allegiance to the British crown yet remains, through which the Tory diehards in England are granted the satisfaction of still being able to talk about the British Empire. But to the mass of the English people and to the world at large this has now been merged in the finer title of the British Commonwealth of Nations. Nor is England itself likely to lose anything but the tinsel of a glamorous past by wisely taking this inevitable step. Independence by peaceful agreement is a better procedure for ending imperial sway than independence by rebellion and bloodshed.

Sentiment between the dominions and the mother country is a power to be reckoned with—as the kaiser found to his cost in 1914. And that sentiment will not be weakened by England's concession to the growing strength of her overseas dominions. King George has done more than officially sign a status-of-equality bill for a new British Commonwealth. He has also signed the death warrant for military imperialism. Never again will world opinion permit a Caesar or a Napoleon or an Alexander or a Cortez to "wade through slaughter to a throne and shut the gates of mercy on mankind."

The last of the empires has signed up for democracy.

THE OLDEST LOUISIANIAN.

An enormous cypress tree estimated to be 1,300 years old and measuring 16.175 board feet was cut recently in the Amite River swamp in Livingston Parish, Louisiana, reports Extension Forester Robert Moore, of Louisiana State University. The tree had a merchantable length of 86 feet 8 inches, was 92 inches across the stump and was sound throughout. The age was calculated by counting the annual rings.

Workmen of Equal Skill Get Unequal Results If They Use Different Material

By ROBERT QUILLEN

WHEN physicians first used anesthetics to lessen the agony of child birth, they were denounced by clergymen and threatened by devout officers of the law.

Looking back at such follies after generations of progress, we find it difficult to believe that sane men could have been guilty of such stupidity; but as a matter of fact their minds functioned precisely as ours do and their opinions were products of sound and logical thinking.

They believed in the Bible. They believed, for so they had been taught, that the clear mandate of Holy Writ required women to suffer in child birth.

This being true, it followed with inescapable logic that any effort to lessen the suffering must be an evasion of God's law and therefore deliberate sin.

Their reasoning, as you see, was flawless. The only fault was in the premise. They reached a wrong conclusion because they began with a wrong assumption.

What was true of those benighted old-timers is equally true of men today.

When Dwight W. Morrow accepted the post of Ambassador to Mexico, his first act was to consult every available source of information and learn as much as he could about the Mexican people and their problems.

He climbed high because he was usually right, and he was usually right because he got the facts before forming opinions.

It is customary to say that the followers of a demagogue politician are stupid. That, however, fails to explain their error. Sound and flawless reasoning impels them to follow him. If he tells the truth—and they believe he does—common sense requires support of his cause.

The people are wrong when they believe him, but it is clear and logical thinking that leads them on in support of error. You also would follow—if you believed him.

The wrong opinions people have are not caused by inability to think. Their thinking is like yours. They are wrong because they got the wrong facts on which to base their thinking.

Failure to get the facts explains nine-tenths of the crowd's follies and failures.

Men who win are those who get the facts before they permit an opinion to form. Once an opinion has jelled, no array of facts can wholly undo it.

The only way to keep free of home-made ignorance is to avoid opinions as you would a pestilence until you have assembled the material to build good ones.

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Supporting the Program.

Kansas City Star.

The American Congress usually rises to its responsibilities in real emergencies. In keeping with precedent the Senate, by an overwhelming vote, has approved the bill creating the reconstruction finance corporation, which is the administration's chief "war measure" against depression and for the strengthening of credit and rehabilitation of business. In similar fashion Congress approved almost identical bills in the Wilson administration in 1917 and 1919. It is expected that the House, after a few days' debate, will follow the Senate in approval of the finance measure.

It is indicated that the other financial proposals of the administration will be favorably disposed of. Also, Congress is showing a strong disposition to follow President Hoover's admonition to cut Government expenses deeply and to keep down appropriations as a big contribution toward the balancing of the budget. Even the administration tax measure, designed to raise approximately $1,000,000,000 in additional revenue, will be accepted without very marked change, it is now believed.

Dawes Places Himself.

Springfield Republican.

Gen. Dawes is still unquestionably a power in the Republican party of Illinois. Four years ago he was desired by many as a presidential candidate, but he gave sincere backing to his friend, former Gov. Lowden, who sought the nomination on an advanced program of farm relief. At the age of 66 Gen. Dawes is even less keen than he was at the age of 62 to be President of the United States. His gesture to Mr. Hoover means that the renomination of the incumbent of the office will be facilitated in every possible way so far as the State of Illinois is concerned, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick to the contrary notwithstanding.

One Supply That Never Fails.

Kansas City Star.

Two candidates for President, one a Republican and the other a Democrat, have served notice that they will enter the May primaries in Ohio. Neither is widely known or holds public office. One is an employe of a toothpick factory in Minnesota. He now is incapacitated from a minor accident, but expects to be out soon and to make a vigorous campaign. This is the kind of alertness that spells success. One can not tell what vast possibilities are enfolded in the forthcoming months. But one can be ready and, when the voice of opportunity and obligation calls, respond like a true soldier and a man. Whatever else comes, the Nation should not lack for candidates.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Suggests That Deadlock in Democratic Convention Will Eliminate Al Smith.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In your issue of January 11 Mr. Oates, of Buffalo, would have us believe that he has become so accustomed to voting for Alfred E. Smith that he deprecates the possibility of having to vote for any one else for President, in the coming election. Five times for governor and once for President is habit forming, to say the least; but the present Governor of New York has a strangle hold on the nomination—his friends say—and Gov. Ritchie of Maryland is equally strong with his friends, so that with the two-thirds rule in the convention it is likely to be "hoss-and-hoss" with them for several ballots. Then, maybe, Mr. Cox, of Ohio (from where dark horses have come, sometimes) may enter the lists and ride away with the banner.

Mr. Smith may be able to name the nominee, but he knows that he could not be elected himself, and so will "play chess" with other figures. He remembers 1928, when his feelings were sadly lacerated during the campaign, and when the ax fell in November he expired, so far as the Presidency is concerned. The general public does not want him in the White House, and emphatically said so, and knowing that it will have a good deal to say again, it may be wise not to bet on him who lost when his party went into debt a million and a half to elect him, and could not.

Pore Alabama Boy Suggests Titles of Nobility for Government Employes.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I wonder if there is room in your columns for a few words from a pore boy down here in the sticks? I have wrote some several letters to the local papers in my time and there is them who think some of my articles right sharp. But with all them congressmen and senators and other Government employees up your way I guess I wouldn't hardly get to first base when it comes to being fast on my feet.

For instance, in tonight's Birmingham Post I see where the expenditures committee sidetracked all bills in the House aiming toward a cut in governmental salaries. Now, Mr. Editor, having had my own salary cut from a normal three hundred to an average of sixty-eight dollars a month during 1931, I want to say that this salary-cutting business is plenty painful and Uncle Sam's Boys sure proved to me that they were the brains of the nation when they refused to give it any personal consideration.

The only thing that has me worried is the clause in the Constitution forbidding the formation of a class of nobility. The old idea seemed to be that no one class should be given all the breaks. But since us common people are going to look up to Government employees anyway so long as they have got all the cash money, I say let Congress go ahead in its usual big-hearted way and give them their rightful titles.

Give Work Now to Paperhangers, Painters, Carpenters, &c.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There are scores of jobs waiting to be done in the spring. I have some papering to be done at my house, but instead of waiting until spring I am trying to have it done now. The need for employment is immediate and if the proper campaign were carried on I know that it would do good. For instance, a friend of mine knows a number of paperhangers, painters and other workmen of similar nature who are trying to work three days a week—some of whom have not worked for months, and hardly any have even the funds to bring their lunch.

Of course, I think those applying for work should also try and meet the effort and make their work as reasonable as possible. I understand the plan is being thought of by the charity workers of the District, but now is the time it should be done.

Let everybody who has repair work to be done do it now.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

REAL PEOPLE.

The backbone of the Nation is the happy-hearted throng
Or ordinary people who go swinging right along.
They live in modest houses and they work from day to day And the papers never notice what they do or what they say.
For they're always keeping busy at life's commonplace affairs,
Planning futures for their children and what golden dreams are theirs!

They are settled in their habits and their views of wrong and right;
They are simple folk and friendly and they're often home at night.
They keep little backyard gardens and the mothers stitch and sew,
And the fathers all are saving for some joy they want to know.
They deal with hurt and sorrow with a faith they've learned to hold,
And they're patient with their children and they're mindful of the old.

They are honest with their neighbors, and they're honest in their play,
They are fond of mirth and music in a simple sort of way.
They believe in God and serve Him,
and you'll notice as a rule
They always send their children to a nearby Sunday school;
And in spite of all the sneering of the scornful and the base,
The simple, sturdy people are the backbone of the race.

BANKING INSTITUTE LEADER HERD HERE

Untiring Study dvocated by R. W. Hill, o New York, at Annua Dinner.

Continued stud through life was advised as a sureway to success by Richard W. Hill, ew York, national secretary of the erican Institute of Banking, at the annual educational dinner of Washington Chapter of the institute last ght at the Raleigh Hotel.

Richard A. Norris, chairman of the local education committee, presided and chapter officers, educational committee members, committee chairmen, governors, members of the faculty and consuls were in attendance.

In commenting on the educational work of the local chapter for the first semester, which has just been completed, Aubrey O. Dooley, president of the local organization, highly commended Mr. Norris and his committee for the splendid results brought about through their efforts during the fall term.

Special Tests Planned.

Mr. Norris reported that eight of the ten subjects conducted during the fall term have just been completed. The total enrollment in those eight subjects was 256, 240 of this number qualifying for the final examinations, and 229 of them taking them. Special examinations in four subjects will be held during the next two weeks for those who were unable to take the regular examinations.

This will result, according to Mr. Norris, in establishing a record for any one semester in the history of the local chapter.

Mr. Dooley said that some modification in the second semester educational program was necessary, and the committee, after careful study, has decided not to conduct classes in the subjects of bank organization and operation, and negotiable instruments during the next semester. The group of study courses to be offered local bankers during the next term will consist of commercial law, which will be conducted by Bolitha J. Laws, former assistant United States attorney for the District of Columbia and member of the New York and local bar; credit management, by Harold W. Burnside, assistant cashier, Riggs National Bank; analysis of financial statements, by James Daniel Cushman and William Gordon Buchanan, instructor at Georgetown University; money and banking, by Joseph Donohue, former instructor at Catholic University and member of the District of Columbia bar; trust functions, by Theodore Cogswell, register of wills, District of Columbia and member of the local bar.

Public Speaking Class.

In addition to these the class in public speaking under Dr. George Farnham, former lecturer in public speaking at George Washington University, and the class in debate under Prof. W. Hayes Yeager, instructor in debating at George Washington University, will be continued during the second semester.

Indications are that the local chapter of the institute will be able this year to establish a new class mortality record, which means that the highest percentage of students enrolled will successfully complete the work. Officials of chapter feel that such a result will be the best evidence of the thoroughness and high quality of work under the institute's enlarged educational program.

The local chapter's membership is now 623, as compared with 654 this time last year and 634 at the same time two years ago.

Union Sympathizers Battle British Police

Great Harwood, Lancashire, England, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—A crowd of about 3,000 persons came into conflict with mounted police today when they attempted to rush a group of cotton workers.

A bus brought to Great Harwood a number of operatives who have been working in a Blackburn mill at terms which do not meet with the approval of the local union. When the occupants alighted the crowd booed and hissed them, and moved forward menacingly. The police rode their horses into the demonstrators three times, knocking several to the ground. It was more than an hour before the streets were cleared and order was restored.

MELLON AID IN LOAN DENIED

the members of the committee and for anybody who wants to see it."

The senator, author of the resolution by which the hearings are being held, turned to his colleagues who were listening intently at the duel between him and the Assistant Secretary of State and then said complainingly:

"I can not understand this at all when Mr. White on his own initiative refuses to disclose a document which he can not withhold from this committee one-quarter of a second."

However, it seemed likely last night that Mr. White would stand by his guns and refuse to give up the telegram except on the conditions usually exacted before diplomatic documents are ever revealed to senators.

The sudden trend in the investigation of the foreign loans floated by American banks took on unusual proportions when it became known that two members of the committee, Senator William H. King (Republican), of Utah, and Senator David I. Walsh (Democrat) of Massachusetts, intend to question the State Department representatives at greater length on certain features of the financing of Cuban government loans in the United States.

Chilean Envoy Implies Bribery.

The implication of bribery and gratifications in the disposition of foreign bonds in the United States was the subject of a formal letter from the Chilean Ambassador to the United States, Don Manuel Cruchaga. Ambassador Cruchaga forwarded a letter to Secretary Stimson in which he requested that the chairman of the Senate finance committee, Senator Reed Smoot (Republican), of Utah, be requested to make a "thorough inquiry as to whether any special premiums or favors of any kind were given to any of the Chilean officials in charge of, or under whose authority negotiations were conducted for flotation of loans in the United States."

The distinguished Chilean Ambassador recalled the revelations of "bribes" to officials of Latin-American governments which have been brought out at the hearings to date, and then said:

"In view of the very general nature of the accusations, which injures the traditional pride of my country in the honesty of its officials, and due to the fact that on the previous occasions, when I had the honor to serve as ambassador before your excellency's government, it was my duty to sign four loan agreements with banking houses of New York City, I have been instructed * * * to ask for a thorough inquiry. * * *."

White Flanked by Experts.

The hearings occupied most of the day in the Senate finance committee, with Assistant Secretary White flanked by his colleagues, Herbert Feis, the economic adviser to the Secretary of State, and the assistant adviser, Frederick Livesy.

The former assistant chief of the division of Latin-American Affairs, Freeman Matthews, was on the stand in the early part of the day. Youthful Mr. Matthews testified regarding the memorandum circulated in the Department of State which Senator Johnson was greatly interested in, because it purported to have a bearing on the granting of the last payment on the Colombian loan.

Senator Johnson had brought out that the reluctance of the National City Bank to grant the last payment on its loan to Colombia because of improper budgetary requirements, caused Secretary Stimson to circulate an oral request throughout the State Department for records of every controversy in which the City Bank had ever been engaged.

Mr. Matthews admitted, after some relentless questioning, that he had "dug up" some other facts regarding the bank, and these were revealed by him as concerning some aspects of a Brazilian financial deal and another operation involving the Republic of Haiti, in both of which the National City Bank had been active.

Barco Controversy Explained.

The controversy about the Barco concession was very fully explained by Mr. White, who ve a remarkable exhibition of memory by reciting dates, facts and figures under the severe eye of Senator Johnson without once referring to any notes. Mr. White took exception to the sequence which Senator Johnson professed to see in the granting of the City Bank's loan to Colombia so soon after the Colombian government had reassigned the Barco concession to the Carib syndicate and the Gulf Oil. The Barco concession had been the subject of considerable litigation, and President Olaya soon after his election to office had requested George Rublee, international lawyer, adviser to the late Dwight W. Morrow and one time mentioned as a possible successor to Mr. Morrow as American Ambassador to Mexico, to adjudicate it. Mr. White said:

"The last time the State Department took any action with regard to the Barco claim was August, 1928. Then it was that we took up with the then President Abadia the matter of the cancellation of the concession. March 3, 1931, the Colombian Congress approved the terms of a settlement arrived at by Mr. Rublee, acting on behalf of the Colombian president and the concessionaires. Mr. Rublee was also acting as adviser on petroleum legislation at that time. On the 20th of June the decree was officially signed by the president and became law."

Called Valuation Fantastic.

The valuation which was put on the Barco concession by Colombian authorities ran as high as $2,000,000,000. This figure Mr. White characterized as "fantastic."

The chronological development of the Barco claim was thoroughly gone over by Mr. White, Senator Johnson had questioned Mr. Matthews:

"Did not the first request for State Department action in the Barco matter come from Mr. Olds, former Undersecretary of State and at the present time member of Sullivan & Cromwell, attorneys in the Carib Syndicate?"

Mr. Matthews could not throw any light on this phase of the case and Mr. White, in his statement, did not touch on it either. The repeated requests of President Olaya for payment of the final $4,000,000 on the Colombian loan were all conveyed to officials of the National City Bank, Mr. White declared:

"However, with regard to one cabled request Mr. Lancaster, the City Bank official handling the loan, informed me that bankers had been successful in expanding their underwriting group and that Lazard Brothers, of London, and Lazard Freres, of Paris, had come in with them making it conditional that their payment of the $4,000,000 be only paid after an anterior claim of a British oil company against the Colombian government had been met."

White to Resume Stand.

When further representations were made to the State Department, Mr. White "acting solely because of the State Department's desire to carry out the arrangements between a foreign country and an American banking concern," again telephoned to the New York banker and finally succeeded in receiving assurances that the bank had cabled its representative in Bogota that all "differences had been agreed" and the money was sent and assurances were given that the other credits would be renewed.

The hearings will be continued again today when the Assistant Secretary, Mr. White, will again testify.

U. S. Aid to Private Shipyards Is Urged

Admiral Rocks Tells House Group Navy Building Work Is Needed.

(Associated Press.)

A plea for support of an industry that could do much to help the United States in war time went yesterday to the House naval committee.

Rear Admiral George H. Rock, chief of the Navy's construction bureau, testified before the committee that approval of the pending $616,250,000 building program would tend to prevent "disorganization of private shipbuilding yards."

He described the help these yards could supply in tme of emergency. Just now, the admiral testified, they have hardly enough work to last the rest of the year. But if the program is not approved by Congress he predicted many would not be able to maintain skeleton staffs.

Admiral Rock suggested some of the 120 new ships the program would authorize should be built outside navy yards, but opposed the provision in the bill stipulating that the division should be half and half. "Unless the work is spread to private yards, however, those yards will not be in a position to do their work in time of emergency except at an almost prohibitive cost," he said.

Suppress Polish Papers For Comment on Trial

Warsaw, Poland, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Several provincial newspapers were suppressed today for publishing a report that the verdict of the trial court at Brest Litovsk, where ten deputies and former deputies were sentenced to prison terms yesterday on charges of sedition, was not unanimous.

The published reports, which brought the suppression ban, said three of the judges voted to acquit all of the eleven accused. The same report was published in Warsaw newspapers. Government papers, however, defended the verdict, declaring the activities of the ten convicted constituted a "real menace."

Cardenas Off To U. S. Soon

Madrid, Jan. 14.— (A.P.) —Juan Cardenas, recently appointed Ambassador to the United States to succeed Salvador de Madariaga, has been ordered to proceed to Washington as soon as possible from Tokyo, where he is now stationed. It was believed that he could start within a few days.

UNMASKED MEN ROB 2 OKLAHOMA BANKS

Posses Hunt Gangs for Looting Castle and Paden Houses of $2,500 Each.

Castle, Okla., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Posses searched eastern Oklahoma tonight for unmasked robbers who today looted banks at Paden and Castle, ten miles apart, kidnaped officials of each bank and escaped with approximately $5,000. Machine guns were used by the robbers at Castle.

Shortly before the robberies, which officers said apparently were executed by different gangs, the National Rating Bureau of New York notified the Oklahoma Bankers Association that daylight holdup insurance rates for the State had been doubled, effective January 11. The increased number of robberies was given as the reason.

Efforts to capture Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd, the most sought criminal in the State, were redoubled after he was identified by witnesses as one of three machine gun robbers who looted the State Bank of Castle. The Castle robbers forced two bank officials and two customers to accompany them to the outskirts of the city as protection against gunfire.

T. Elliott, cashier, and H. H. Gray assistant cashier, and Glenn Dill and George Morzett, the captives, were released unharmed.

While officers were trailing the robbers, three unmasked men looted the First National Bank of Paden, of $2,500, kidnaped C. L. Sutherland, assistant cashier, and escaped. Mr. Sutherland was released at Boley, 6 miles away, and hitch-hiked back.

Two of the robbers forced Sutherland and four customers to lie on the floor while the other obtained the money. The customers were locked in the vault, but released themselves immediately.

Although three men were involved in each robbery, their descriptions differed, the method of robbery was different, and the automobiles used were not of the same make, Okfuskee County officers said.

Grandson of Queen, Bus Driver, Succumbs

Salamanca, Spain, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Juan Truebay Munoz, 45, a bus driver and great-grandson of Queen Maria Christina, widow of Ferdinand VII, of Spain, died of pneumonia here today. He inherited the title of Duke of Riansares from Fernando Munoz, Queen Maria Christina's last husband, but forfeited it because he was unable to pay the titular tax.

He was employed in driving a passenger bus between Salamanca and Piedrahita when he was taken ill.

Employers Act In Wage Row

Stockholm, Sweden, Jan. 14.—(A.P.)—Employers in the engineering and iron manufacturing industries today declared a lockout affecting 91,000 men, to begin January 24 unless a dispute over wages is settled on the terms which already have been accepted by the employers. These terms include a cut of 8 per cent in pay by the hour and 12 per cent in piecework pay.

TRADE STANDS STILL IN INDIAN REBELLION

Sporadic Outbreaks Against British Rule Continue; Schoolboys Fined.

Bombay, India, Jan. 14.—(A.P.)—While Great Britain is temporarily victorious in the "non violent" struggle, Nationalist India is smouldering with bitterness and is threatened with commercial ruin of her own design.

Since Mahatma Gandhi was snatched from his bed and imprisoned two weeks ago the government's repressive ordinances have temporarily throttled the civil disobedience campaign without major disorder, but business has almost come to a standstill.

Sporadic manifestations against the British continue. A volunteer of the Nationalist Congress broke a leg in a daring attempt tonight to haul the Union Jack which flies from the top of the congress headquarters, now in the possession of the police.

As he was climbing to the flag, he was seen and challenged by a sentry. One of his legs was fractured in his attempt to escape. He was arrested and then taken to a hospital.

Of minor interest today was the imposition of a fine of 25 rupees each on four boys under 10 years of age who had urged that their school at Surat be closed in protest against Gandhi's incarceration. A 9-year-old boy was sentenced to four years in the reformatory several days ago for picketing British stores.

The headquarters of the local branch of the Nationalist Congress at Lucknow was closed by authorities and 40 persons, most of them volunteers, were arrested. Nationalist organizations in the Bengal district to the number of 272 were outlawed by officials at Calcutta.

Putting patriotism above their monetary losses, Indian merchants here declare they will not rest until their apostle is released from Yeroda prison, the ordinances are repealed and the Nationalist demands for independence are granted.

London, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Three committees born of the round table conference left today for India to conduct preliminary inquiries in connection with establishment of constitutional government there.

Prime Minister MacDonald went down to the station to see them off and shortly after they had left, Sir Samuel Hoare, secretary for India, told correspondents that the government's strong-arm policy had suppressed disorder and dissolved the threat of anarchy throughout the country.

"I knock wood as I say it," he said, "but we are maintaining law and order. As long as we are responsible for India we are determined to govern. I hope India will like us the better for it."

Attempts to revive the boycott are only half-hearted, he asserted, and he described the whole noncooperative movement sponsored by Mahatma Gandhi as "out of date."

PLAN FOR ABOLISHING EIGHTH DISTRICT HIT

First Official Action Against Proposal Is Taken in Fairfax County.

Fairfax County yesterday took the first official action protesting the abolition of the Eighth Virginia Congressional District, as suggested in the General Assembly of Virginia, Wednesday.

Under the last United States census, Virginia is only entitled to nine representatives in Congress. Under the old census they had ten. It now becomes the duty of the State Legislature, which opened its biennial session Wednesday, to redistrict the State, eliminating one district.

The present Eighth Congressional District includes the City of Alexandria and the Counties of Arlington, Fairfax Fauquier, Loudoun, Prince William, Culpeper, Stafford, Orange and Louisa, and is represented in Congress by Howard W. Smith, of Alexandria.

The suggestion made before the General Assembly would abolish the Eighth District and incorporate the City of Alexandria and the Counties of Arlington, Fairfax, Prince William and Stafford into the First Virginia District, which embraces practically all tidewater sections, including Newport News. The balance of the counties in the Eighth District would be included in what is now the Seventh Congressional District.

Board Meeting Called.

The Board of Supervisors of Fairfax County learned of the proposal soon after it was made, and Chairman W. F. P. Reid immediately called a special meeting for yesterday morning.

A resolution was adopted requesting the Assembly to preserve intact the present lines of the Eighth District and to only add to it if necessary adjacent counties to give it the population as required by law. A copy of the resolution was ordered sent to State Senator John W. Rust and Delegate Edmund H. Allen, asking them to do their utmost to preserve the present line of the Eighth District and have it perpetuated by the necessary additions.

The reasons for this action which were incorporated into the resolution included a reference to its relations with the National Capital and Federal Government.

It stated that a great increase in population was expected within the next several years and it was vital that the relations, rights and interests of the people of that district be looked after by a representative in Congress intimately acquainted with these relations with the Federal Government, the proper conduct of which are of far-reaching importance to the entire people of the State.

Claims in Resolution.

The resolution read: "In the opinion and judgment of this board, such action would be a flagrant disregard of the rights, interests and welfare of the people of the Eighth Congressional District, and would make it practically impossible for us to select a representative in Congress from northern Virginia and would leave us dependent upon a representative from a section remote to northern Virginia who would not be familiar with and identified with the interests, rights and welfare of the people of northern Virginia. Such proposed redistricting would likewise throw more work upon one representative than he could properly and efficiently handle."

Another resolution adopted by the supervisors protested the establishment of convict road camps in the county as proposed by Gov. Pollard in his message to the State Legislature.

The resolution stated that the Fairfax County supervisors were unalterably opposed to any legislation whereby the county would be compelled to establish and operate within its borders or with any other county or counties at any place a convict road camp.

Views on Reorganization.

During the discussion of the governor's message concerning the reorganization of county governments, it was brought out that Fairfax County is practically operating under a county manager or engineer system of government. Only slight changes would be necessary to conform with the proposed system.

The board voted to lease the rear portion of the old county poor farm which has been empty since the establishment of a district poor farm with adjacent counties, to the State highway department for the establishment of a road camp and repair shop. The State plans to build a road along the east side of the farm to its camp occupying approximately a half acre, in the woods on the rear. The farm is located on the Little River turnpike about a mile west of the town of Fairfax.

It was voted to ask the permission of the Fairfax County Circuit Court to use a portion of the county building fund for the erection of stone retaining wall and laying a sidewalk on the south side of the county courthouse grounds. The wall and walk along Payne street would be done in conjunction with the program of the State highway department's plans to widen the street as a part of the State highway through the town of Fairfax.

Maryland Police Shake-Up Denied

Capt. Johnson Asserts Transfers Are Mere Matter of Routine.

Capt. William McK. Johnson last night said that a number of changes ordered in assignments of the Maryland State police was not an unusual shake-up, but merely the periodic transfer of policemen.

Capt. Johnson's statement spikes rumors that a wholesale shift was anticipated, with plans for moving each of the men to a new station before February 10. No changes at all are expected in at least one substation, the new Station H, at Waldorf, Md., he said.

Three changes at the Laurel post, Station A, are understood to be among those which have been or will be ordered. Corpl. D. R. Peterson, formerly in command of the station, will be sent to Frederick, being replaced by Corpl. Louis Bloom. Private W. L. Smith, now stationed at Laurel, is to be sent to Chestertown, Md., although the name of the man who will relieve him was not given.

Span Crash Cause Is Undetermined

Maryland Engineers Are Unable to Find Base of Sligo Collapse.

Maryland State roads engineers who investigated the crash of the Sligo Bridge on Carroll avenue, Takoma Park, Md., which took three lives Tuesday have not been able to determine the cause of the collapse, according to Maj. E. Brooke Lee, commission member.

The bridge probably had been greatly weakened by the blasting being carried on by the workmen who were demolishing it, Maj. Lee said, but the engineers were not able to determine just how much the weight added to this span by the cutting loose of this part of the bridge from the south end of the bridge contributed to the disaster.

Mapes Bill Is Hit In Indian Spring

Citizens Write Letters to Members of Congress Opposing Measure.

Opposition to passage of the Mapes bill is urged in letters sent to the Maryland members of Congress by the Indian Spring Park Citizens Association through the secretary of the association, N. R. Robinson.

The letters state that the association has a membership of more than 100 property owners in nearby Maryland and urges that the members of Congress oppose passage of the bill. The letters state that the association believes "The Mapes bill is in our judgement the most distressing and unwarranted bill that has been 'passed' by the House of Representatives in many years," and "We cannot conceive that the United States Senate will allow any such hardship to be imposed on the residents of the District of Columbia and nearby Maryland and Virginia. When this drastic bill comes to the Senate we bespeak for it ample hearings and we believe you will be anxious that opportunity be given every citizen who opposes it to be heard."

Letters were sent to Senators Millard F. Tydings and Phillips Lee Goldsborough and in addition the letters to Representatives Stephen H. Gambrill and David J. Lewis assert that the bill was railroaded through the house with undue haste and bias by a group opposed to the District and its environs.

PASTOR, LOST IN FOG 24 HOURS, RETURNS

Rev. Charles Kelser, Former Capital Cleric, Back in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—The Rev. Charles Kelser, pastor of the Emmanuel Methodist Protestant Church, returned home tonight, after being missing for 24 hours. He said he had been lost in the fog and had walked almost to Wilmington, Del., and back.

"I set out for a short walk after prayer meeting last night," he said. "I walked a way and turned back, but the fog was so thick I lost my way.

"I must have lost my sense of direction. At dawn I saw a roadside sign that said I was almost to Wilmington. I had no money in my pocket, and I tried to get a lift. Nobody would pick me up.

"So I walked home. I walked a while and then sat down. Then I walked some more. I finally got here.

"I never lost my knowledge of what was going on. I was just lost in the fog. There's nothing wrong with me but blistered feet."

Mr. Kelser came here from Washington.

Mr. Kelser for many years was pastor of the Mount Tabor Methodist Protestant Church at Thirty-fifth street and Wisconsin avenue northwest, and left here last June to take over the pastorate in Philadelphia. He made his home here with his wife, Mrs. Madeline Kelser, at 2288 Thirty-fifth street northwest.

Mr. Kelser's mother, Mrs. Josie Kelser, and a brother, Maj. Raymond Kelser, both reside in Washington. Mrs. Kelser lives at 1508 Kearney street northeast, and Maj. Kelser lives at 1408 Meridian place northwest.

District's Officials Are Mostly Absent

Illness and Out-of-Town Business "Orphans" Many Desks.

Out-of-town business and illness almost emptied the District Building of officials yesterday. There was no member of the Public Utilities Commission at his desk as both Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick and Maj. D. A. Davison were away and the third member has not been confirmed yet.

Daniel E. Garges, secretary of the Board of Commissioners, was at home on account of illness. Maj. John C. Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner, has been away on account of illness for more than six months. Capt. Hugh P. Oram, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, and Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, chief engineer of the Highway Department, were attending the American Road Building Convention in Detroit. M. C. Hazen, District surveyor, was also absent.

In other District government departments, Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, and M. O. Eldridge, assistant traffic director, were also out of the city.

New Insurance Act For District Asked

Companies Incorporated Here Would Have to Center Work Here.

Corporation Counsel William W. Bride yesterday submitted a bill to the District Commissioners providing for a radical procedure with regard to the incorporation of insurance companies in the District of Columbia. Under the terms of the measure every such company would be required to maintain its principal office and records in Washington.

Under the present law an insurance company which is incorporated in the District does not have to keep any office here. As a consequence the District Insurance Commissioner is often put to great expense and trouble when he investigates such an organization.

The Commissioners are expected to act favorably on the measure today and to send it to the Capitol.

Play Tournament Scope Is Enlarged

Wider Variety Is Decided Upon in Contest to Open February 27.

The committee in charge of the 1932 one-act play tournament to be conducted from February 27 to March 12, inclusive, has changed the rule that all plays to be entered must be o fthe time covered by the American Colonial or Revolutionary period.

The rule was changed, as it was found that it worked a hardship upon some of the groups in the city which already had plays for the tournament.

The committee hopes that many groups will voluntarily select plays of the period originally designated, as such a selection would seem fitting in the bicentennial year.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

by leasing the entire adjoining building, long occupied by Saks & Co., as an addition to its present store!

BEFORE this year of 1932 passes on, Kann's will become a much larger store! It will extend well around the corner on Seventh Street, adding 37,500 square feet of floor space to the more than 3 acres it already occupies! It will add a number of new departments and enlarge many that are now much in need of space! It will have entrances on all four sides of the block and become the truly metropolitan store that befits its unique location, facing on the Nation's foremost thoroughfare!

—Saks & Co., for years one of Washington's leading stores for men, is going out of business. Culbertson on Contract

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

BEATING THE ODDS

LONGFELLOW once stated, "Never give up; 'tis the secret of glory." The Bridge player who finds his pleasure in battling against seemingly insurmountable odds, using as his instrument the pasteboard representations of armies, is merely picturing the struggle of life itself. When a player has overcome what at first appeared to be insuperable difficulties and triumphantly achieves his end, he has a right to a measure of satisfaction.

In the hand below, my friend, Dr. I. H. Shelly of Philadelphia, playing in a duplicate game at the Wissahickon Bridge Club there, found plenty of obstacles in the way of the achievement of his contract.

North and South vulnerable.
East and West not vulnerable.
South, Dealer.

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♡	Pass	5♡(1)	Pass
6♡(2)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—North's hand does not have a suit with which to force. His hand contains magnificent support for the proposed trump suit and in addition 3½ honor-tricks. While not quite strong enough to bid for the Slam, it does justify a Slam try by overbidding the game.

2—While South's Opening bid was made on a four-card suit, his hand does contain additional values over those required for an Opening bid, even though vulnerable. He, therefore, accepts his partner's invitation to try for the Slam bonus.

West, with tenace holdings in clubs and spades, selected as his Opening lead the eight of diamonds. This trick Dr. Shelly won and then proceeded to lead five rounds of hearts and two more rounds of diamonds, carefully watching West's discards meanwhile. He had correctly analyzed the lead as probably locating both black Kings in the West hand. On the first 8 tricks West was forced to make four discards and he chose as his discards two spades and two clubs. The Ace of spades was then played from the dummy and the spade suit returned, but Dr. Shelly refused to put up the Queen. West won and as his hand contained nothing but clubs, he was forced to lead a club which was won in the Dummy Hand. Another club was led which South won with the Ace and cashed the Queen of spades, making his contract and the Small Slam. Dr. Shelly had discarded a club from his own hand on the fifth round of hearts. Against this line of play West had no defense, as had he held three spades, the club suit would have been led after hearts and diamonds were exhausted, the first trick won with the Ace and the suit immediately returned. West would then have been compelled to lead a spade from his minor tenace.

Thus, through the combination of three plays—a squeeze, a duck and an end play—the contract was made.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Question: What is a double finesse?

Answer: A double finesse is a finesse against two outstanding higher cards. (Example: A Q 10 A J 10) (K J) (K Q).

Art Interprets the Mode

New York, Jan. 14.

EXTRA! EXTRA! EXTRA! Famous expert states that housework makes your hands lovely.

Not handing myself any titles or anything this morning, wot? Just the same, I am entitled to a couple of bouquets, so there—says I and so will you.

First of all, I can hear you say "Yeah?" (if you are a "yeah-yer"). "How does she know?" And I answer you by saying, "by actual experience." Nif that isn't plain enough, I'll say right out loud that I have been doing my share of housework lately—and discovered a few things about that old-fashioned can't of housewives on how you can't do this and that and be this and that "while you are doing housework, you know, my de-ah."

Now it's my turn to oh-yea-yh you. Because you not only can, but it's easier to be beautiful if you are a housekeeper than it is if you are a secretary or say, journalist.

How? Why? Because hands in the soapy suds that you use for washing dishes are also having the dirt and old dead particles of skin and cuticle soaked out of them; because you do wear rubber gloves while scouring the pots and pans, and you learn to like it—and the rubber gloves further draw out the old skin and cuticle; because the knowledge that you are doing housework and that you must have lovely hands for bridge and any other social art causes a bright woman to take extra care of her hands—and this is all that hands ever need to make and keep them lovely—a wee bit of extra care.

And then what about that washing out of your silk undies? What wouldn't a professional manicurist give if she could get to your hands after this washing. And lastly, that jar of hand lotion—glycerin and rose water is old and tried—that you have everywhere where you will be putting your hands into water. If you weren't doing the housework you wouldn't use so much hand lotion—and if you don't use lots of hand lotion, you will not have and keep always and 'way into your advanced years, hands that are pink tipped, like lotus buds that float. • • •

And 'member the open meshed fabric gloves that were so smart this summer? Mine now do what no other cosmetic bed-gloves ever did—they adorn my hands at night, after I have rubbed just a little skin food into them and well into the cuticle of my nails, and they don't interfere with my sleep and dreams of how to make all women lovelier.

Watch for more about this—there is something about housework making hair lovelier, too, honestly, and complexions.

Molyneux is a name synonymous with conservative elegance the world over. Being one of the mere handful of Haute Couturieres, Molyneux does not have to go in for the spectacular to be noticed, and noted. Therefore I have sketched one of the evening coats from this famous house today, which is a masterpiece of conservative elegance and not at all spectacular, though it would scarcely pass unnoticed in a chic gathering. Black fox trims it, and the cloth is lame (lahmay) in beige, gold and a touch of black in the design.

Whaddya mean you can't make something without a pattern? Awite, awite, cut yourself a pattern then, from this week's illustrated leaflet with its comprehensive sketches and directions for making a lingerie ensemble out of a yard and a quarter of material! Just you make that pattern in unbleached muslin, though, so you can try it on, which you can never do with a paper pattern! And then use the muslin for polishing and dust cloth—(yeah, housework on my mind today!) Better send that stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this leaflet telling you how to make a chemise and pantie-shorts out of a yard and a quarter of material—for the two together, yes—just to see if you can't actually make them, and well, from my directions.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

PSORIASIS TREATMENT.

FOR years I have advised people with psoriasis elsewhere than on the face to let well enough alone. Genuine psoriasis is a matter of no great importance. It never endangers life or causes any symptoms nor inconvenience. It is without significance. Its presence does not indicate any infection, nor any constitutional disease. It causes some itching, but not much, and few people are perfectly comfortable in all directions. Psoriasis of the face interferes with good looks enough to justify considerable trouble and expense in trying to get rid of it.

The second reason for the advice is that treatment is so unsatisfactory. I have known of a few persons who have been cured, but there are not many, and those were exceptional in one way or other. One man of whom I know had had a widely diffused psoriasis for years. He is well fixed financially and not very busy. He has spent a great deal of time and money seeking relief. Eventually he found that if he would go to Arizona and there take sunbaths until his entire body was tanned to a mahogany brown, his psoriasis would disappear. When he gets well bleached out it tends to return, whereupon he drops his work and goes back to nature in Arizona.

This is one case only, but many similar observations have been made. It is known that people who live in the tropics have very little psoriasis. And among those who live farther north the skin trouble is worse in the winter and early spring, and is better in the summer. These observations led Dr. S. Monash to try viosterol He gives a reasonably full dose of this drug daily for two months and then interrupts for, say a month or two, and then repeats. So far he has seen cases of psoriasis clean up nicely and he has not observed any ill effects from this treatment. He thinks it advisable to use ointments on the psoriasis patches in addition to the viosterol internally.

This is far from being a solution of the psoriasis problem. Not many people are sufficiently anxious to be cured to keep up any treatment for several months. In the second place, psoriasis ointments are messy. In the third, not enough cases have been cured or improved by this treatment to make it certain that viosterol will prove of service in treating psoriasis. If viosterol is a cure, then the light cure should work even better. There are ways of taking light therapy short of going to Arizona.

CRAMP IN FOOT.

Mrs. S. P. writes:

1. I am 51 years old. The veins in my feet have been aching lately and I fear varicose veins. Will you kindly tell me how I can prevent them?

2. I get a cramp in my right foot while I am sleeping. Has my diet anything to do with it? I eat very moderately. I am 5 feet 2 inches and weigh 135 pounds. I am otherwise in very good health. I do not work hard and am not on my feet much except when I market every day.

REPLY.

1. Do not wear tight garters or other tight bands, nor corsets. Avoid heavy, manual labor; all pressure on leg, abdominal, or pelvic veins; phlebitis; excessive hours "on the feet." Nothing you write indicates any special danger of varicose veins.

2. Not much, if anything. Some advise more meats and less sweets. The best single method of preventing such cramps is to keep the feet and lega warm.

ABSCESSED TEETH.

D. M. writes: Does any one know what causes abscessed teeth? Up until the time I was 25 years old I had a good set of teeth and now I find I must have four removed because of abscesses.

REPLY.

Abscessed teeth is a loose term and may refer to either one of two conditions. If you are subject to gumboils or to abscess of the gums the cause is infected root canal, and the only permanent cure is removal of the bad tooth. Keeping the mouth as clean as possible with germicidal mouth washes may help. So may eating fruit in abundance. But the overshadowing cause is a bad tooth.

If you have apical granuloma, usually called apical abscess, the condition, the cause, and the effects are different. In this disease there are no gumboils. When teeth are removed for apical abscess, the symptoms for which relief is sought are neuritis or rheumatism. If the teeth are removed, it is in the hope of relieving these symptoms and not because of local trouble.

PROBABLY IS LUMBAGO.

G. C. writes: Every morning when I get up I have a pain in my back around the left kidney. After I am up for about an hour it goes away.

REPLY.

The probability is that you are subject to lumbago or rheumatism of the muscles of the back in the lumbar region. Lumbago is more amenable to treatment than is rheumatism in general. It is often cured by change in some habit, removal of some simple cause, and the use of simple domestic procedures.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

MISERY AHEAD!

DEAR Frances McDonald: I sincerely hope you can find time and space to answer this through your very helpful column, since it concerns a friend of mine who, in my judgment, needs some of your good sound advice.

She is a young woman of 22, well thought of in her community and has a good position. She lives with her parents, who are of very modest means, and pays them board. She has brothers and a sister who have happily married, also brothers and sisters who are single. She had never kept company until three or four months ago, when a man of more than 40 years is attracting her to such an extent that now they are considering matrimony. Her father, after having learned something of the past life of the man, flatly forbids his coming to see his daughter, and now she is going out in her own car and keeping hours with him in homes of the community, hours as late as midnight and more, as they did in her home.

This in a nutshell is the past life of the man, and would you please advise if he is a fit subject to marry this girl? He is a divorced man. Other men broke up his home and then his wife sued for divorce, winning the suit on false charges. She gained custody of the four children and considerable alimony, which he paid for awhile. He was broke often, the expense of court &c., except a limited life insurance. Her threats to increase the alimony beyond his ability to pay forced him to skip. He is under an assumed name. His former wife and children are living in their home, which is heavily mortgaged by relatives of this man and he sends these relatives money so they will not foreclose and throw his children out of a home.

He is a man of very high character and has qualities of a very fine disposition, but is he in a position to offer a clear title sufficient for a young girl if he can't satisfy the court order that he is now evading? He has told this girl his life's story; still she is madly in love with him. Are her parents justified in their stand, to not permit his coming to see the girl? He is industrious and tries to work to every advantage to get ahead, although at present his possibilities seem a bit limited.

Please favor by a reply in your column that fathers might know how much responsibility to assume.

CLEAR TITLE.

The father was tactless in being so high-handed. He should have spoken to the man and asked him as a man whether he felt it honorable to inflict his misery upon a young girl. Then if the man was even half the man you credit him with being he would have faded out of the picture—and spared the girl much heartache.

No man living under such a cloud as an assumed name always indicates, has any moral right to engage the affections of a young girl. Secondly no honorable man ever does so. Thirdly we venture the guess that he is far less the hero than you picture. For it is a very definite type that, finding himself unable to support one wife and family, slips on a brand new name and seeks another wife and another family. These injured innocents appear before us in court day in and day out. We can recognize them on sight now. They can not pay the sum ordered by a lenient judge for the necessities of life for their children, but they can take young women to dinner and shows.

This man is right now hovering in the shadow of the jail. If discovered he can be clapped behind the bars—which we have come to believe is the very best place for men who must drag women and children into misery regardless. If the girl is above the moron in intelligence she should see that she will be annexing only plenty of misery and a hit-run husband in pursuing her present dubious romance. The father of the girl can do nothing—except turn the man over to the authorities—which he should do without delay.

Very Rev. James H. Ryan, rector of the Catholic University of America, came this cordial acceptance: "I am very happy to accept this office, realizing that such a contest will go a long way to promote knowledge of the life and activities of George Washington, as it will inspire patriotism in the contestants. I think that The Washington Post is doing a real public service by initiating the George Washington Essay Contest."

Among the students who sent in essays yesterday were Vernon E. Heaton, 12 years old, 103 Washington avenue, Alexandria, Va.; Millard G. Wyant, age 12, Vienna, Va.; Janie Young, age 12, 1104 Third street northeast, and Pauline M. Wyant, age 14, Vienna, Va.

The specimen essay published today deals with the character of George Washington.

THE MAN HIMSELF

By .....

"Men living in Washington's time have commented that none of his portraits have resembled him. One of the earliest of these describe a handsome youth of nineteen 'full height of six feet two inches.' Slender and blue eyes, an abundance of brown hair and a clear, ruddy complexion. His manner self-considered, his speech is described as being well-controlled. George Washington is described as being as straight as an Indian, measuring six feet two inches in his stocking feet and weighing a hundred seventy-five pounds.

"When George Washington was nearing his fifteenth year one writer described him as a remarkable man. In later years 'the President, in his person, is portrayed as tall and thin, but erect.' George Washington himself realized the effect of varying moods upon his face. The personality of George Washington, his dignified bearing and thoughtful consideration not only endeared him to his friends but commanded the admiration and respect of his opponents and enemies, and even his false friends, for with such all public men are burdened. He was always remarkable for his firmness and directness, yet at all times courteous and in every sense of the word a true gentleman.

"In his days, when the principal sport was fox hunting, he dressed himself in the colorful and attractive riding garments of the period, which he wore well. This was his favorite pastime, but next to his fondness for horses, dogs and the chase, he found amusement in dancing and enjoyment, in surveying, the latter being in the nature of sport as well as a profession. In later life he enjoyed the theater, but his chief interest was centered in home life, with the companionship of his old friends and new ones and with his well-chosen library. He termed this last pastime 'the most favorite amusement of my life.'

"In his dress, as in all other matters, Washington was most cautious. He always chose garments which were fitting for the occasion on which they were to be worn in the fashion of the day. In this respect, as in others, his personality was so commanding that all else did not seem to exist.

"During his later years Washington is described as he came in from the farm as 'dressed in a plain blue coat, white waistcoat and black breeches and boots. He came in again with his hair neatly powdered, a clean shirt on, a new plain coat, white waistcoat and white silk stockings.'

"It seems somewhat strange that writers as well as artists have almost invariably disregarded the pox marks with which the face of George Washington was slightly marred. But they were thinking of the awe-inspiring air and manner and the superior character of the man himself."

Contestants are urged to read The Washington Post daily in order to keep up with the developments in the contest and new instructions for those participating in it which appear from time to time.

The Washington booklets distributed by The Washington Post through the courtesy of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission are growing in popularity as the contestants learn how useful they may be in preparing their essays. Cut out the blank in today's Washington Post and send it in. You booklet will reach you in short order.

Among the applications received yesterday for the booklet were those from Margaret Mills, 612 Twenty-third street northwest; Edith F. McChesney, 3421 Wisconsin avenue northwest; Louise M. Lentz, 4700 Connecticut avenue northwest; Henry Thomas, 121 Preston avenue, Cherrydale, Va.; Dorothy E. Parish, 14 Sherman avenue, Hyattsville, Md.; Ruth L. First in the Hearts of His Countrymen

MAMMOTH WREATH TO HONOR WASHINGTON.

What is believed to be one of the largest floral wreaths ever made will be placed at the base of the George Washington Monument in Baltimore as part of the bicentennial program to be held in that city. The wreath, it is said, will be 25 feet in circumference.

The Washington Monument in Baltimore, standing in Mount Vernon place, is the oldest outdoor monument erected to the First President.

CHOATE'S ESTIMATE OF WASHINGTON.

"Others of our great men have been appreciated—many admired by all. But him we love. Him we all love. About and around him we call up no dissentient and discordant and dissatisfied elements, no sectional prejudice nor bias, no party, no creed, no dogma of politics. None of these shall assail him. When the storm of battle blows darkest and rages highest, the memory of Washington shall nerve every American Army and cheer every American heart. It shall relume that Promethean fire, that sublime flame of patriotism, that devoted love of country, which his words have commended, which his example has consecrated."

What Today Means to You

"CAPRICORN."

IF January 15 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., from 4:15 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 10:30 p. m. to 11:35 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9:35 a. m. and from 2:30 p. m. to 4 p. m.

The influences in operation on January 15 appear to be fortunate in nearly all respects. Young people, especially women, will have friendships thrown in their way, which might be turned to advantage. The man of business may, with safety, attempt the extension of his interests.

Children born on this January 15 will have temperamental dispositions, and it is never known how they will react to anything. They will be full of vim and "go" and will always want to be on the move. They will be fairly thorough in their work, but will not have the patience for details.

Born January 15, your work, whatever it may be, is the controlling factor in your life. If you be a man, you seldom discard your business mentality, and it is hard for you to adapt your mind and conversation to subjects on which you do not generally hold forth. You do not like to meet new people or to be drawn out of your shell. You know little about the art of leisure, and one seldom glimpses your holiday self.

If you be a woman, you live intensely. You throw your whole being into whatever you are doing at the moment. You extract much from life, and you put much into it. You are hearty in your pleasures, extreme in your griefs and thorough in your work. You are not miserly and spend what you have to spend without regret or worry—now and then you are even a little reckless. You are affectionate and demonstrative. You are outspoken, and friend and enemies alike know what your true feelings are.

There is a likelihood of more than one love affair or marriage. The position of the stars favors your material welfare more than the affairs of the heart. Considerable travel and changes of environment are shown. Legacies are shown from unexpected quarters.

Successful people born January 15:

Philip Livingston, statesman, a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

Marshall Lefferts, president of first telegraph company in United States.

Constance F. Runcie, composer.

Moliere, French dramatist.

Ivor Novello, film artist.

Frances L. Mace, poet.

THE MARTHA WASHINGTON GERANIUM.

THERE were an unusual number of Martha Washington geraniums sold during the past holidays, so for the benefit of those who have received these plants and may not know how to care for them I am again going to explain the care they must have to keep them in a state of health. The pelargonium domesticum, of which the Martha Washington geranium is the most familiar example, is a close relative of the common geranium.

The Martha Washington geranium does not produce as many flowers as the common geranium, but the trusses are larger and more gorgeous. As a rule, these plants are grown so they will bloom in May or June, but they may be had in bloom at any season provided they are started sufficiently early.

When the plants which you have just received have finished flowering, you must remove the old flower stalks and set the plants outdoors in the sun, provided your plants keep blooming until May. While outdoors give them a little water, which will enable them to ripen their wood and have a much-needed rest.

In September prune them, removing all soft or weak shoots. Then before cold weather repot them in smaller-sized pots. Be sure, when repotting, that you shake all the soil from the roots. After they have been transplanted, they must be thoroughly watered and placed in some shady place until late in the fall. About the end of October they may be brought into the house. In early January they should again be transplanted.

From the time you bring them indoors until you repot them in January, give them only a small amount of water. As they begin to grow pinch the ends out of the shoots in order to have the plants become shaply. It is well during this time to remove any weak shoots that may develop. In February cease pinching them back.

From their final transplanting until after they have bloomed, they will require liquid manure about once in three weeks. (This phase of their care is unlike that of the common geranium.) While developing buds, the plants must be given all the sun possible. Keep them in a southern window and water them every day.

A soil composed of good garden loam, sand and manure in equal parts suits them best.

Martha Washington geraniums are almost sure, while they are in the house, to be attacked by red spiders or aphids. A weak solution of nicotine will soon route these enemies.

(Copyright, 1932.)

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed stamped envelope is supplied.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

INNOVATIONS THE 1932 AUTOMOBILE DESIGNERS FORGOT.

PSYCHIC STEERING: No more bothering with steering wheels! In the smagtest 1932 models the steering post and wheel are eliminated. The driver, by means of a clock-like contrivance on the dashboard, "sets" the car for wherever he wants to go—and the car goes there automatically. Radio waves cause it to give a wide berth to interurban buses, fire automobiles, ambulances, one-armed drivers and drunks returning from Lithuanian picnics.

Doing away with the steering wheel and the personal element in car operation, this device obviously does away with back-seat driving. It is the outstanding hit of the year.

Synchro-Braking: For years one of the great annoyances of motoring has been the control of brakes by hands and feet. The nerve strain imposed by constant application and release of brakes has been tremendous. All this is now happily a thing of the past. The brakes on this year's cars are operated by the "synchrometer," which, through highly sensitive plates, detects the presence of animate and inanimate objects ahead and controls the car accordingly. Presence of a red light, a motorcycle cop, a pedestrian in the street, a dog or a stalled car is instantly registered on the "synchrometer" and the brakes applied.

* * * *

Wizard-Parking: At last the great problem of what to do with the car while you go chopping in the city center is solved! The sensation of all automobile shows this winter is the so-called "accordio-zippo" construction which enables the owner to fold or roll up his car when parking space is at a premium. All that it is necessary to do is to remove three small cotter pins and pull a zipper located just under the hood. The engine can then be folded up and carried under the arm, while the body of the car can be rolled up and stood against a lamp-post, building or tree until the owner comes out.

* * * *

"Cellophane" Finish: You all know the effort it takes to keep the surface of an automobile looking new and shiny. Every car owner has been through the ordeal of trying to keep the original finish looking good. Your days of concern are over! In twelve of the new models the bodies are wrapped in sixteen layers of "cellophane." As soon as one layer gets dull, scratched or spotted, you pull it off and, presto!—you have a fresh one! Could anything be sweeter?

* * * *

"THE Registero-License Plate:" No more laborious unscrewing of old license plates and affixing of new ones every year. No more waiting in line for plates. By this device, you merely ascertain your new registration number, and ring it up on your plates, a la cash register. Neat idea, wot?

* * * *

"Repeater Fenders:" No more worries over smashed fenders! No more concern over sideswipings! No more trips to the repair shop after a fender has been torn off! The best 1932 automobiles are equipped with spare fenders which are ejected and replaced like safety razor blades. Once something has happened to an old fender you eject it and insert a new one by the mere pressing of a button under the seat. Will wonders never cease.

EUROPEANS DRAW UP REPARATION FIGURES

Germany Contends She Has Paid $9,199,000,000 Since Armistice.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Paris, Jan. 14.—European participants in the World War are drawing up varied reparations balance sheets with which to confront Germany when she faces the former allies once again at Lausanne on January 25.

Confused from the beginning, the "reparations muddle" as it often is called, is anybody's guess and each country is preparing its own figures.

Since the armistice Germany has paid $4,829,000,000, if the figures of the reparations commission are accepted, but Germany maintains she has paid something like $9,199,000,000. The truth is that no official statement exists. The figures of the reparations commission, which died with the birth of the Young plan, never were official, but were accepted by the allies as the most accurate available.

Busy Preparing Totals.

On its side, the German government is busy preparing totals and the indications are these will be considerably higher than $9,000,000,000.

France and Belgium contend they have not been paid enough to cover the actual damage to property by the German armies.

Belgium says she is still $100,000,000 short, and her 1931 budget shows $670,000,000 expended for rehabilitation of damaged areas as of December 31, 1931, while only $570,000,000 was received from Germany as of June, 1931. This does not include any expenditure except for actual repairs to damaged property, the budget report says.

France says it is even worse off. Germany still owes the French $2,659,000,000 for reconstruction, the 1932 budget shows. As of April 1, 1931, France paid out in repairing war damages $3,915,000,000, and there remained $200,000,000 to pay.

Reconstruction Expenses.

The totals for all reconstruction expenses are $4,115,000,000, but on April 1, 1931, only $1,256,000,000 in German cash and kind had been registered in the treasury.

Great Britain's policy since the war has been to ask in reparations and other debts only as much as she paid to the United States in reimbursement of war-time loans.

No invading armies destroyed her property and England's interest in the reparations has been confined to getting enough money to pay her debt to America.

Until the Hoover moratorium put a temporary end to all payments, the British empire was receiving 23.05 per cent of all the cash and kind which Germany paid.

Italy Paid in Goods.

On the lower side of the continent Italy maintained a front during the war and as a result Germany has paid Italy about $285,000,000, three-fourths of it in goods, and most of that in coal.

The original claims of the allies, mostly of France and Belgium, amounted to a huge sum in the neighborhood of $100,000,000.

The reparations commission asked the governments to lay their claims before it and when this was done the commission approved bills for slightly more than half that amount.

Germany protested and the commission set the total of all payments at $53,809,0000,000.

The Dawes plan did not set a total, but the Young plan calls for payment of about $26,546,000,000, or half of the total which the original commission decided Germany ought to pay.

effort that may be made in this direction. They feel that if the first appropriations bill goes safely through unamended as to pay cuts, the crisis will have been passed.

No one has come forward in the House to say definitely that they will introduce such an amendment, although several have indicated they would vote for the rider if advanced. Three of the four proponents of pay-cut bills in the House have definitely announced that they will not take the "rider" method.

An effort to commit the House civil service committee to a policy opposed to salary reductions will be made by Representative William I. Sirovich (Democrat), New York, at the organization meeting of the committee next week.

He plans to put forward a resolution placing the committee on record against any movement, suggestion or proposal having pay cuts as an objective.

Representative Lamar Jeffers (Democrat), Missouri, chairman of the committee, said the question of pay cuts is not before the civil service committee. Mr. Jeffers, who has taken no stand on pay cuts, would not undertake to predict what action the committee would take on the Sirovich resolution.

RICHARDSON ORDERED TO SIFT LAWS AND CRIMES IN HAWAII

Senate pressed forward on Capitol Hill, and while a demand came from Honolulu for "outside counsel" to prosecute four Americans accused of murdering the alleged assailant of Mrs. Thomas H. Massie.

On the equities of this case, which brought conditions of reported lawlessness to concentrated attention were, cross-talk continued today between men in the Capitol and leaders in the Pacific territory.

A House committee ordered sent to Attorney General Mitchell a report demanding steps to insure "a fair trial" to Mrs. Granville Fortescue and other Americans accused of the killing of Mrs. Massie's alleged assailant. Another resolution for investigation of the government of the Territory was introduced by Representative Gibson, of Vermont.

Without touching the merits of the Massie case, Attorney General Mitchell emphasized that "cases of the type which have recently attracted public attention are not within the jurisdiction of the United States District Court, nor of the United States attorney."

Regarding the weight of evidence required in certain criminal cases, in Hawaii, also, the Attorney General suggested study. Criticism has been heaped on the circumstance that Hawaiian laws prevent conviction for assault solely on evidence of the prosecutrix. A jury disagreed in the trial in which Mrs. Massie testified to the alleged assault. Mitchell said:

"I can understand the reason for requiring corroboration as to the fact that force was used, but where the fact is properly established it is not so clear to me that corroboration of the testimony of the prosecutrix should be required as to the identity of the offender."

The directions were in a letter to Richardson. Mitchell sent a copy of them to Secretary Wilbur, suggesting that they be transmitted to Gov. Judd of Hawaii since the territorial Legislature soon will convene "and some of the matters mentioned * * * may be considered."

Richardson said tonight he would leave early next week to take charge of the investigation. He expects to sail about January 29, probably on the President Lincoln. This vessel is scheduled to arrive at Honolulu on February 4.

About half a dozen Justice Department men will go with him, Richardson said. He could not furnish their names.

Honolulu, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Promising he would ask the territorial Legislature to make the crime of rape punishable by death or life imprisonment, Gov. Lawrence M. Judd today answered congressional charges that he and other officials were responsible for a crime crisis here following attacks on women.

Meanwhile, messages of sympathy from prominent persons in the United States to Mrs. Granville Fortescue, who with Lieut. Massie and two enlisted Navy men are charged with the murder of Joseph Kahahawai, one of the five natives accused of attacking Mrs. Massie, were made public. Mrs. Massie is Mrs. Fortescue's daughter.

Names of Sympathizers.

The names and the messages as announced by Montgomery Winn, of defense counsel, were:

Mrs. Eva Stotesbury, of Philadelphia—"Dear Gracie: This brings you my love and heartiest sympathy and also my admiration and respect for your magnificent courage in this overwhelming misfortune. I would have done the same thing in your place and so would any other good mother. If there is anything I can do for you or yours, count on me."

Mrs. Breckenridge Long, of Baltimore—"Love and sympathy."

Joseph Patterson, of New York, newspaper publisher: "Admiration and sympathy."

Mrs. Cornelius Bliss, New York: "Dearest love. Thinking of you constantly."

Katherine McCook Knox, of Washington, daughter-in-law of the late Philander C. Knox, statesman—"Watch the sun break through the clouds. Browne and I send all our love."

Thomas Corcoran, Washington—"If we can be of any help, please advise us."

Turner Johnson McKenzie, Chevy Chase, Md.—"Read of your trouble this morning. My father, Representative Johnson, is doing all he can at the Navy Department. Is there anything else I can do? If so, please cable immediately. Will be glad to hear in any way?"

U. Grant Smith, Diplomatic Corps, Washington—"Your friends stand with you."

Mrs. Edward McLean, wife of the Washington publisher and neighbor of Mrs. Fortesque—"Dearest Grace: You have all my love and sympathy. If there is anything in the world I can do, don't hesitate to call on me. Devoted love."

Gilbert and Elsie Grosvenor, Chevy Chase, Md.—"Dearest love and sympathy. How can we help?"

May Wilson Preston, New York illustrator—"Love and sympathy is very strong here. Keep up your courage, dear."

Trial Preparations Made.

First preparations for the trial of Mrs. Fortescue and the Navy men got under way when a panel was drawn from which the jury will be selected. The 26 men in the panel included 6 Chinese, 3 Japanese, 5 Hawaiians, and 12 whites, the latteer including 2 Portuguese.

On the eve of organization of the grand jury, City and County Attorney James F. Gilliland asked for "outside counsel" to prosecute the murder case and the four remaining men accused of attacking Mrs. Massie.

Gilliland said outside counsel would be necessary "due to intermingling issues in both cases that will create an embarrassing situation in my office."

Despite the urging by Lieut. Massie of an early trial for himself and co-defendants on the murder charge, Deputy Prosecutor Griffith Wright announced the case would not go before the grand jury until next week. Wright said his investigation had not been completed.

Judd Cables Explanation.

Gov. Judd cabled a detailed explanation to Secretary Wilbur of the Interior Department regarding the congressional charge involving Ahakeulo. The congressional committee had reported Judd pardoned Ahakeulo in the first attack case "on the theory that his services were needed as an amateur boxer" in New York.

Judd said the original case was one in which six boys were charged with attacking a Chinese girl in 1929 and Ahakeulo had demanded a separate trial.

The governor's report quoted the trial judge, A. M. Cristy, as saying the evidence showed the girl in the case had been free to leave the scene of attack and had not done so, and that the five were convicted of a lesser charge of assault with intent to ravish. Judd said he granted the parole in the case only after the prison board had made a favorable recommendation and after an investigation and personal interview with the prisoners.

Huge Bank Total Of Sheriff Bared

$2,000,000 Deposited by Former Official Revealed in New York Quiz.

New York, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—A day of sensational testimony and sometimes bitter argument before the Hofstadter legislative committee, was climaxed this afternoon when bank transcripts were read into the record showing that former Sheriff Charles W. Culkin deposited $2,073,383.18 gross, in five accounts from 1925 through 1931.

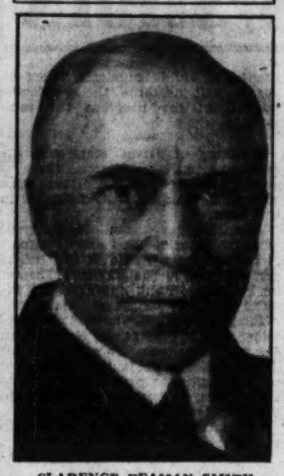

Before this happened, however, there were two other major developments. State Senator John A. Hastings was cited for contempt by a strictly party vote, but he countered immediately with an appellate division order staying the effect of the resolution until tomorrow, when an appeal will be heard by the full bench.

The Democratic minority, protesting against an attack on Culkin by Counsel Samuel Seabury, in which the latter characterized Culkins' acts as embezzlement and grand larceny, claimed that every sheriff for 25 years had followed the practice of using interest on litigants' money as their own.

Coercion Is Denied At Heflin Hearing

Employers Assert They Did Not Force Votes for Bankhead.

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 14 (A.P.). Employers who were charged by former Senator J. Thomas Heflin's election contest witnesses of forcing their workers to cast ballots for Heflin's successor, John M. Bankhead, in 1930, denied the charges today and said the men voted as they chose.

Other witnesses for Bankhead denied charges of ballot box stuffing and furnishing liquor to election officials. The reputations of some of the Heflin witnesses were assailed.

R. A. Sandsing, mine superintendent of the Alabama Fuel & Iron Co., said he knew of no company employe who failed to vote as he chose. He said he had heard nothing of a report that the company claim agent had gone through the mine instructing the workers how to vote. He said he did not tell his crews they would be discharged if they failed to vote the straight Democratic ticket and denied his superiors had directed him to tell the miners how to vote.

SYMPHONY CONCERT DELIGHTS CHILDREN

Prominent Part Is Taken by Brasses; Boys and Girls Applaud Heartily.

The brass instruments of a symphony orchestra were explained delightfully to an audience of eager children at the fourth concert for children and young people of the National Symphony Orchestra in Central High School auditorium yesterday afternoon by Hans Kindler, conductor of the organization. The concert was given under the management of Mrs. Wilson-Greene.

Hundreds of boys and girls applauded heartily when Conductor Kindler told them of Chopin's life and explained his music in relation to Poland as a preface to playing the "Polonaise," by Chopin, in a most acceptable manner by the orchestra

Then came the chance to tell the youthful audience about the brasses in Bach's "Choral," which emphasizes this part of an orchestra so much.

The next number was "Asa's Death" and "Anitra's Dance" from the "Peer Gynt Suite," by Grieg. Then a boy piper dressed in Highland kilt and costume marched on the stage and played lustily away to the keen enjoyment of all. The youthful Rob Roy took three encores before his audience would settle down to the task of singing "Au Clair de la Lune."

Mr. Kindler raised a laugh in announcing the last number on the program, "Espana," by Chabrier, by saying its composer was from the place the "best wives in the world come from."

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

AFTER all is said and done, and a great deal has been said and almost as much done, when even so technically proficient a playwright as Eugene O'Neill undertakes the colossal task of concocting such ponderous, overlength dramas as "Strange Interlude" and "Mourning Becomes Electra," he merely essays the hazardous chore of delivering himself of a dramaturgic freak. It is a job which, I imagine, the author must approach fired by a keen enthusiasm to subject himself to a withering demand upon his ingenuity and a gruelling test of his powers of concentration.

In view of the inhibited scope of the present-day theater, it is not surprising that O'Neill is the only one who has had the temerity and the patience to attempt so mammoth a project, of which the final result necessarily must be so uncertain. That he has clicked twice in such rapid succession is one of the miracles of the present era in the playhouse.

For, whatever the merit of the work, such expansive tragedies as the trilogy current at the National impose a hardship upon both players and public second only to that which the playwright himself undergoes in the preparation of so complex and difficult a script. Sustained effort through fourteen acts is not a frolic for even the most gifted of our mimes. Nor is a period of more than six hours required to view the Thespic curiosity—that adds the purchase price of a dinner to the unavoidably high tariffs occasioned by three plays in one at a single sitting—an agreeable or convenient hurdle for the average playgoer in these times of economic stress.

There is, however, no other possible way in which "Mourning Becomes Electra" might have been presented. To have followed the original plan of devoting three consecutive nights to the trilogy, presenting one play each night, would have been no less than fatal to the success of a marathon melodrama that under existing conditions creates a profound impression in the consciousness of any thoughtful spectator.

Under the one-play-a-night plan, Walter Abel would not have appeared at all until the second night and Judith Anderson would not have found it possible to divulge the full comprehensiveness and superb power of her performance in the role of Lavinia until the third. It is probable that many of the first night attendants never would have gone back and that the cumulative effect of a drama that builds consistently would have been wholly lost.

So what?

So nothing, except that Eugene O'Neill has demonstrated a prodigious capacity for capturing public imagination and has achieved sheer personal triumphs with two multiple-act plays that nobody would have given a Chinaman's chance until "Strange Interlude," by one of those amazing reversals of every rational expectation, demonstrated how wrong the most astute observers of public trends in the theater can be.

No other living playwright could have done it.

A new firm has made its appearance in San Francisco. It is the partnership of Kurtzman and Waite, experts in advertising and publicity in all of their complex ramifications. The firm name should have a familiar ring.

Charles Kurtzman, it will be recalled—or maybe not—was formerly personal representative of Harry Arthur, general manager of Fox Theaters, and more recently managing director of the Roxy Theater in New York. Edgar Waite, contemporaneously, was in charge of advertising and publicity for the local Fox house accompanying Mr. Kurtzman into the Roxy Theater in the same capacity when Sam "Roxy" Rothafel relinquished personal direction of the magnificent New York "cathedral" bearing his name.

A vast number of friends in the East will wish the boys luck in their new project, for the successful pursuit of which each is particularly well equipped by experience as well as ability and temperament.

On January 23, at the RKO-Keith Theater, Washington picture patrons will have opportunity to estimate the degree of success with which Pola Negri's return to the talking screen has been negotiated by the brilliant Polish emotional star whose American career was initiated in a blaze of glory by her magnificent performance in the role of Du Barry in First National's imported production of "Passion," directed on the other side by Ernst Lubitsch.

A week from tomorrow the RKO-Keith screen feature will be "The Woman Commands," in which Negri is the star. It is upon the reception accorded this picture that her future as a star of the articulate screen depends.

Bernice Claire, herself a screen luminary while musicals were in vogue, will headline the vaudeville portion of the program the same week.

Speaking of screen stars who are appearing on the boards, there is good news in store for picture fans who enjoy viewing their favorites in the flesh.

Arrangements have been made whereby Maurice Chevalier, originally booked for a single Sunday night performance at the National Theater on February 7, will appear twice, instead of only once on that date. Although E. M. Newman, the travel talker, will appear at the National on Sunday afternoon, February 7, his pictorial European jaunt will be over in ample time to permit Chevalier to appear first at 6 p. m., with a second performance to follow at 9.

In condensed form, for pasting in the hat:

National Theater, February 7, Maurice Chevalier, at 6 and 9 p. m.

Leonard Bergman, a nephew of the late A. L. Erlanger and well known in Washington, has been named general manager of the Erlanger theatrical enterprises, according to announcement made last night through the National Theater, affiliated with the Erlanger interests.

Mr. Bergman was treasurer of the New Amsterdam Theater in New York for sixteen years and subsequently became manager. He resigned before his celebrated uncle's death and tried independent producing with "The Rap" and "Peter Flies High."

Mrs. Harriet Hawley Locher, formerly director of the public service and educational department of the Crandall and Stanley Co. theaters in the Capital, is hostessing for the Warner Brothers at their invitational previews of their celluloid contributions to the George Washington Bicentennial Celebration.

Either the refrigeration plants have all gone boom or the boys have fallen down on the job. For the last couple of days I have gone up and down F, Ninth, Thirteenth and Fifteenth streets and not a picture house has a sign out front announcing an inside temperature "20 degrees cooler than the street!"

Could I interest you in a tall, cold glass of orange juice—or something?

MAN, 77, CONVICTED IN HARLAN MURDER

Jury Fixes Hightower's Sentence at Imprisonment for Life.

Mount Sterling, Ky., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—A jury of Blue Grass farmers and a barber today convicted William Hightower, 77-year-old Evarts coal digger, of concealing the death of a Harlan County deputy sheriff and fixed his penalty at life imprisonment.

The verdict was the second conviction obtained by the Commonwealth in the prosecution of 30 strikers on charges of murder and conspiracy growing out of the slaying of Jim Daniels, a deputy sheriff mine guard, in a gun battle between strikers and officers.

W. B. Jones, secretary of the Evarts Local, United Mine Workers of America, was previously convicted on a similar charge and also sentenced to life imprisonment.

Prisoner Proves Stoical.

Both Jones and Hightower were ordered to appear Monday before Circuit Court Judge Henry R. Prewitt for formal passing of sentences and at that time the judge is to rule on their motions for new trials. Both men have asked under the paupers' oath that the county pay the costs of the appeals and the county will offer its objections to that at Monday's hearing.

Hightower, a grizzled old Spanish-American War veteran, who can neither read or write, received the jury's verdict with stoical calm. No perceptible flicker of emotion passed over his wrinkled countenance, and he had no comment to make until some time later, when he tersely commented, "I ain't gone to Frankfort yet." The State prison is at Frankfort.

Jury Out Nearly Three Hours.

Beside the defendant in the courtroom was his 27-year-old mountain wife, who, a few minutes after the verdict was read, began crying copiously.

Kentucky law does not permit bonds after conviction and pending appeal, and today Hightower was placed in a cell in the county jail adjoining Jones.

The case went to the jury yesterday. The jurymen deliberated 2 hours 45 minutes in all and took one ballot today. And they fixed his punishment at life imprisonment.

The cases of Jones and Hightower, along with those of eight other union workers, were brought here on a change of venue from Harlan County, but yesterday Judge Prewitt remanded the remaining cases back to Harlan.

Experts in Weather Bureau Develop Vital Plane Devices

Two major points in the advancement of aviation—points that will affect fliers and air enthusiasts in general throughout the country—have been scored by the Weather Bureau. It was disclosed in recent announcements from the Department of Agriculture.

One is the new electrical wind vane, developed by B. C. Kadel, chief of the instrument division, which now is in the process of distribution. The other is in the form of a device for recording the temperature, pressure and humidity of the upper air. This instrument, known as an "airplane meteorograph," was developed by W. R. Gregg, chief of the aerological division, and has for its purpose the making of records for research and forecasting. It is expected to be an invaluable aid in charting the upper regions.

The wind vane, an aluminum device with electrical attachments, will now enable watchers of the weather along the airways of this country to sit comfortably indoors without missing the slightest shift in the direction of the wind, whereas formerly frequent trips outdoors were required to determine the wind's direction.

The vane is mounted on the roof, with electric wires running down to where the observer sits comfortably in a room below. When the vane swings to the North an electric current passes down one of the wires to the lamp that spells "North." When the vane points to the South the former circuit is closed and another wire and lamp come into the picture; and so on for all four points of the compass. Often, of course, two lamps are lighted at the same time, indicating that a "Northeaster," or some other two-direction wind, is blowing.

The outstanding feature of the new wind vane, Mr. Kadel points out, is the extreme simplicity of its design, which makes possible its construction at about one-fourth the cost of those installed at the larger Weather Bureau Stations, where more elaborate wind measurements are taken. Observations made with this vane, supplemented by velocity and other data, are transmitted by wire and radio at stated intervals over a wide network to guide pilots in taking off and landing.

Rail Wage Scale Parley Is Delayed

Restriction on Authority of Line Chiefs Cause of Postponement.

Chicago, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Restrictions on the authority granted nine railway presidents to negotiate wage cuts and unemployment problems with the unions caused a delay today in the opening of their conference here.

Nearly 200 union men, fully vested with authority to "negotiate to a conclusion," gathered in the Palmer House and awaited the presidents. Twenty minutes later Daniel Willard, head of the employers' group, arrived and said he was sorry, but the meeting would have to be delayed.

"It seems there is some sort of restriction in the authority granted us by some of the Western lines and by one far Eastern road," Willard said. "I'm sure it is only a technicality and that the roads did not quite understand what it was we wanted. I will try to reach them by telephone and have the whole matter straightened out by tomorrow morning."

Heiress Gets 20 Years For Killing Sweetheart

Flint, Mich., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Miss Helen Joy Morgan, 27-year-old heiress, was convicted today of second-degree murder for the slaying last April 23 of Leslie Casteel, her garage mechanic sweetheart, and immediately was sentenced to serve from 20 to 25 years in prison. Judge James S. Parker of the circuit court, in passing sentence, recommended 20 years.

Miss Morgan, who screamed denials of prosecution charges at the close of the trial yesterday, remained calm as the sentence was pronounced. Her mother, who has been her constant court companion, also was unmoved.

Educator Found Dead.

Derry, N. H., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—The body of Carl Cotton, head of the Derry Academy and superintendent of Derry, Londonderry and Windham Schools, was found on the floor of his office today, a rope around the neck. Police said they were informed a man had visited Cotton's office, which is located in the town hall, shortly before his body was found by Miss McIntosh, a town nurse.

Grace King, Author, Dies at Age of 80

Writer Sought to Rescue Landmarks of Old New Orleans.

New Orleans, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Miss Grace Elizabeth King, 80, New Orleans author whose death had been expected momentarily for several days, died here today.

Miss King, internationally known as a writer, had laid many of her plots in the old French quarter of New Orleans, which she sought to preserve from the encroachments of the commercial district.

In recognition of her literary ability she was made a fellow of the Royal Society of England and was awarded the palms of officer of public instruction of France. Expressions of regret at her passing were received from close friends and authors from far and wide.

Wife of Captain Found Dead in Leavenworth

Leavenworth, Kans., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—The body of Mrs. Louise Dowering, 28-year-old wife of Capt. Benjamin Dowering, Coast Artillery, was found hanging from a bathroom fixture in their quarters at Fort Leavenworth yesterday.

Announcing the death today, the post adjutant said Capt. Dowering discovered his wife's body suspended by her "coolie coat" after his return from classes at the command and general staff school. Post officials expressed a belief that she had committed suicide. Mrs. Dowering had been in ill health. She came to the fort from Delaware December 22. Capt. Dowering came here from Virginia.

Food Poisons 22 Y. W. C. A. Girls.

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Twenty-two girls at the Y. W. C. A. residence here were recovering today from food poisoning. All the girls, the residence matron, and a negro janitor were violently ill, physicians said. Dr. J. Mott Rawlings said he believed botulism was responsible.

Firemen's Insurance Seeks Wider Powers

The old Firemen's Insurance Co., of Washington and Georgetown, incorporated here in 1837, would have its charter broadened to permit insurance of many types of risks, in an amendment proposed in a Senate bill introduced Wednesday by Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah.

Capitalization would be fixed at $1,000,000 under provisions of the bill, with 50,000 shares of stock outstanding, at $20 par value.

SLUGGER TO RETURN CONTRACT REDUCING 1931 WAGE BY $10,000

Would Take $80,000 for One Season or $70,000 for Two.

Cites No Reduction for Fans; Ruppert Unperturbed.

By GAYLE TALBOT.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Baseball's greatest wage earner, Babe Ruth, cast a withering glance today at a contract calling for $70,000, a reduction of 12½ per cent from last year, stuffed it back in his pocket and hurried out to get in a few rounds of golf.

The big fellow is a holdout again. He doesn't like Col. Jacob Ruppert's offer for 1932. He's going to stand firm for $80,000 for one year or $70,000 for a two-year contract.

"No, sir, I won't sign that thing," said the Babe, stabbing the papers with a stubby forefinger. "I think I'm worth the other $10,000 after the season I had. They're making a joke of this cutting business."

He was standing stiff-legged before a window of his Riverside drive apartment, studying the figures on the soldiers and sailors monument across the way. Somehow, the scene appeared to muster his martial spirit.

Cites No Reduction In Admission.

"Where do they get all this cutting?" he demanded. "If they keep it up, pretty soon the public's going to want its cut, too. Then where'll they be? I haven't heard of them reducing the admission prices.

"Nope; I'm not going to call Col. Ruppert about it. I'm just going to send this contract right back."

What about the length of the contract? Would he sign for one year at $80,000 or demand another for two years at that figure? That called for reflection.

"Well, you might say two years at $70,000. That sounds all right, doesn't it?"

By that time the big home run knocker had climbed into his overcoat, slung a bag of clubs over his shoulder and was heading for the great outdoors, impatient to swing at a golf ball. Contract troubles slipped from his mind as he steppepd into the sunshine.

"Boy, what a day for golf!"

Col. Ruppert Shows No Alarm.

The owner of the Yankees, meanwhile, had adopted his usual philosophic attitude where the Babe and money matters are concerned. They've always gotten together before, he reasons, so why get excited. Informed of Ruth's demand, Col. Rupert said:

"I do not think we can do better than a one-year contract at $70,000. I haven't talked with Ruth yet, but we will discuss the matter, and I am sure we can reach an agreement quickly. We have never had much trouble doing so before."

The amount offered Ruth is the same he received for the three-year period from 1927-1929. For five years before that he had received $52,500 annually. The last two seasons he has received $80,000. His salary checks for the last ten years have amounted to more than $600,000.

Ruth Points to 1931 Average.

In view of the general reduction of salaries in both leagues, Yankee officials consider their offer to Ruth more than fair. He, on the other hand, points to the fact he enjoyed one of his best seasons in 1931, tying for the home run leadership and batting .373, second only to Al Simmons, of the Athletics. He is in fine condition for the coming campaign and feels he is due another big year.

The Babe's chagrin at being asked to take a 12½ per cent cut should draw a laugh from several of his contemporaries. Bill Terry, of the Giants, is faced with a 40 per cent reduction; Hack Wilson, of the Cardinals, a 75 per center, and the end is not yet.

BABE RUTH.

C. U., IN BEST FORM, WINS BY 38-32

St. Joseph's Quintet Bows to Improved Play of Cards.

By JACK ESPEY.

PLAYING by far the best basketball any Catholic University quintet has exhibited on the home floor in three years, Coach Forrest Cotton's Cardinals last night dealt St. Joseph's of Philadelphia a form-spilling defeat by a score of 38 to 32 before a small crowd in the big Brookland gym. The result gave Catholic its fourth victory of the season, thus balancing its records of wins and losses and equalling the total number of triumphs registered by the Cardinals last year.

The Philadelphians, conquerors of Pennsylvania last week by a score of 26 to 17, underestimated the strength of the Cardinals and started their second-string combination. The Cardinals, using a new line-up, with Dick Galiher at center and Tony Cannizzaro at forward, secured a 6-point lead on the visiting substitutes and outplayed the regulars, who strove desperately, but futilely, for 34 minutes of the contest to compensate the error.

St. Joseph's, however, kept the home team always in a state of anxiety; for with Jim Osborne and Phil Zuber performing heroically on the offense, the Quaker City outfit was ever a threat. Osborne, one of the trickiest basketers to appear here in many moons, amassed a total of eight field goals, while his pint-sized running mate at forward acted as the hub of the passing and created innumerable openings for shots.

Catholic Starts In Front.

Catholic took the lead in the first minute on a successful charity shot by Ed White and yielded the advantage only for a moment when Scully shortly thereafter whipped the netting from long range. Galiher, whose ability to cage free tosses and to secure the tap in the center duel against Smith, stamped him as outstanding, then gave the Cardinals a lead they never relinquished by sinking a pair of charity flips.

St. Joseph's regulars entered the fray with the Cards holding an 8-to-2 advantage, but while they showed a decided improvement over the form of their predecessors, the home club bettered its own shooting and widened its lead to 27 to 15 at the termination of the first half.

Midway in the period Osborne scored three goals in rapid succession with a major league brand of feinting and "cutting" for the basket that left the opposing guard helpless. Then a rally engineered by Sheary, Galiher and White, all of whom holed the leather from long distances, offset Osborne's work and almost changed the battle into a rout.

Led by Osborne, St. Joseph's came back in the second half with a rush and pulled up to within 4 points of a deadlock at the half-way stage, but Catholic then mired a judicious "freezing" act with some fast dribbling to remain in the van until the final whistle.

5,000 Watch Giant 'Steal' Mat Show

Pinetzki, 280 Pounds, Sits on Foe After 2½ Minutes.

Steele Beats Freeman; Dusek, Szabo, Wilson Winners.

By BOB CONSIDINE

A MAN so tall he almost seemed to violate the District's 13-story building law thundered his size 15 feet across the local rassling scene last night, and left in his billowing wake a mighty impression on 5,000 mat fans, a 2½ minute victory over a serviceable plow-horse named Don De Laun, and the memory of one of the strangest scenes ever enacted in local sports.

Leon Pinetzki was the giant, a 35-year-old Pole who succeeded Ferenc Holuban as the best wrestler in Europe about two years ago. He was tracked down in an elephant hunt not long ago, and was led, with ears flapping, into the Auditorium last night, where his enormous bulk drew an incredulous "Gosh!" from the largest crowd ever to pack the Auditorium at a series of rasslefests in which Jim Londos was not at stake.

Pinetzki on Scene.

Pinetzki, whose only coherent group of approximately English words is a guttural "No sprikum Onglaesh" came out of his corner, after the usual banalities in the middle of the ring, waving the greatest bit of armreach in this not always sane world of sports. A little over eight feet stretches from the tip of his middle finger to the tip of the other. He stood in the center of the ring, the hot arc-light above giving him a free singe, and covered De Laun in a corner!

De Laun, a 225-pound infant, leaped high into the air, seizing Goliath around the neck. The giant stood up straight, causing De Laun's feet to go off the ground and walked him over to corner of the ring, where he sat him up on the top rope. His strength appeared unbelieveable. He spun De Laun about like a kid and a top.

Proving that he no spika our lovely langwitch, and no knowa how ve run things here, Pinetzki threw De Laun after two and one-half minutes—an unprecedented state of affairs. He used no hold, no airplane spin, no back drop; nothing but the simple expediency of pushing De Laun over and sitting on him.

It ran away with the show, which was headed by Ray Steele and Herbie Freeman. Form held true here and Steele won at 37 minutes. Freeman showed more aggressiveness than he has ever displayed here, and roughed the favorite from the start. He held a 5-minute headlock which looked pretty painful, and caused Ray to hit the mat on several flying mares with force enough to wake up several of the marathon dancers down stairs.

Steele's Spin Beats Freeman.

Freeman turned a proposed airplane spin of Steele's into a near-victory toward the end. As Steele wove him around in the air, Freeman tossed the big German off his balance and flopped on him, but Steele came out of it, threw a succession of elbow jabs to the cut-glass jaw of the challenger and ended it with another airplane spin.

Sandor Szabo made for Jim Corrigan's bad legs from the opening whistle, and after 33 minutes of orthodox wrestling had the collegian hopping around on one stem. A double wrist lock and back drop finished Corrigan.

Rudy Dusek earned himself the usual combination of boo and cheer as he dumped Cy Williams after a rough-and-tumble 27-minute brawl. The show was opened by the omnipresent Doc Wilson, who weaved and bobbed about the upholstered chassis of Benny Ginsberg for 26 minutes before destroying the motzalite with what is known, and wholesalely respected, as a flying tackle.

Howard U. to Play Hampton Here Tonight

Howard University court tossers will get into action tonight on their own court, when they meet a fast quint representing Hampton Institute in their first contest of the season. The game will be the only one in regular schedule played by the Bisons at home until they meet Lincoln on February 12. It will prove a try-out of Coach Young's new system, emphasizing the passing attack.

Strayer Five Bows To Potomac State

Capital Five Loses, 24-23, After Leading, 18-14, at Half-Time.

Strayer College's five bowed to Potomac State from Keyser, W. Va., by a 24-23 score last night in Central High gym when Offutt and Fronhart of the visitors registered four points in the last two minutes after the visiting team had trailed from the start.

Strayer entered the second half on the better side of an 18-14 count but, as in its game with Columbus last week, failed to maintain its first-half pace. When it endeavored to freeze the ball, the Potomac defense cracked through and gained possession to initiate successful scoring plays.

Pete Loftus, with five field goals, performed most effectively for Strayer. Offutt, Slate and Moline carried the burden for the invaders.

Schmeling-Walker May Meet in Chicago, Joe Jacobs Declares

New York, Jan. 14 (U.P.).—The proposed Max Schmeling-Mickey Walker heavyweight championship bout may be held in Chicago, Joe Jacobs, manager of Champion Schmeling, said tonight.

While no decision has been made on the matter, Jacobs explained, promoters and city officials in Chicago are showing more interest in obtaining the event, than those in any other city.

When the Boxing Commission in Chicago was informed today that the proposed Schmeling-Walker title bout, planned for Miami, February 25, had been canceled, a spokesman for the commission immediately telephoned Jacobs that every effort would be made to bring the bout to Chicago. Jacobs said the Chicago spokesman seemed confident that the necessary $200,000 could be guaranteed Schmeling for risking the title.

HAMAS TEST TONIGHT FOR LOUGHRAN

Philly Star Aims to Start Comeback in Garden Match.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Tommy Loughran, knocked down and outpointed a month ago by a fighter who wouldn't have laid a glove on him in his salad days, starts a comeback campaign in the battle pit of Madison Square Garden tomorrow night against Steve Hamas, rugged young Penn State graduate, who is just coming up the fistic trail.

In the campaign which had put him back in the forefront of the heavyweight picture with clear-cut victories over Max Baer, Ernie Schaaf, Victorio Campolo and Paulino, Tommy ran into the wild swinging King Levinsky, of Chicago, December 18 in the Garden and was bounced all over the ring. He was practically out on his feet at the final bell.

Regards Defeat as Accident.

Loughran thinks that was just an accident and readily accepted the match with Hamas, hard hitting although unpolished youngster. Hamas has left a string of groggy opponents behind him in a professional campaign now only a little over a year in duration. The experts who saw Levinsky park a roundhouse right on Tommy's chin several times, believe the Phantom of Philly has come back farther than he thinks and will have a hard time holding off Hamas for ten rounds.

Loughran is expected to weigh in at around 182 or 183 pounds, with Hamas 8 or 9 pounds above that figure.

Washington and Philly De Molay Fives Battle

With a team composed of former college players, the Philadelphia chapter of the De Molay will invade this city tomorrow night for a tilt with the Washington chapter at 8 o'clock in the Tech High School gym. The Quakers are leading the Philadelphia Independent League, and in addition have bowled over many teams not in the league. Washington, while not enjoying the best of success, is represented by a capable team comprising Nathan Cohen, Robert Dugan, Warren Hayes, Hugh Dougherty, Clint Layer, Norman Sweeney, the Trundle brothers and Ben Katzman. The latter also manages the team.

MONTE WEAVER SIGNS.

Monte Weaver, young hurler the Nationals obtained from the Baltimore Orioles near the close of last season, returned his signed contract to President Clark Griffith yesterday. He is the fifth Washington player to sign.

$15,000 Open Lead Taken By Diegel

Home Pro Sets Agua Caliente Record by Round of 68.

Guest Trails by Two Strokes With 140; Morrison Slumps.

By WILLIAM WARNE.

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Led by Leo Diegel, entrants in the $15,000 Agua Caliente golf tournament today burned up the 6,838-yard course, playing havoc with par and bringing the scores for the first two rounds of play down below anything done in the two previous meetings for the world's richest golf prize.

Larrupin' Lou was laying them close to the pin and sinking putts all over his home course. He went out in 35, one under par, and came back with a 33, three strokes below perfect figures, for a 68, a new course record. That figure, coupled with the 70 he made yesterday, set Diegel two strokes in front of Charley Guest, his nearest competitor for the $5,000 first-place money.

Guest, nicknamed "The Béau," who registered from Deal, N. J., blasted his way to a 69 today for a total of 140 strokes for the 36 holes played.

Runyon Ties Mark With 68.

Within half an hour after Diegel posted his 68, his record was tied by Paul Runyon, the White Plains, N. Y., professional who formerly held the North and South match play championship. But his brilliant card of 34—34 gave him no better than a tie for sixth place in the standings when coupled with the 76 he took yesterday in the rain, wind and mud.

"The "great mudder," as Big Fred Morrison, of Culver City, Calif., was promptly dubbed yesterday when he finished the first round in 69, found the course more difficult under a brilliant sun. He was 2 over par today with a 74, and his 143 total gave him no better than a tie for fourth place, despite the fact he was still 1 under par.

After matching Diegel's 70 yesterday, Gene Sarazen, the husky veteran who won the first Agua Caliente tournament in 1930, made ever par today, 72, to fall into third place, two strokes behind Guest and four behind the "Larruper."

Sarazen set a course record, 68, for the first round of the initial tournament. That tournament, however, was played over a course with a shorter No. 1 hole and a par 71. In fairness to that excellent performance, however, it must be pointed out that the greens are in much better condition this year despite the soaking they got yesterday.

Bracketed with Morrison in fourth spot tonight was Harry Cooper, of Chicago, who on his first sortie out of his native State, Texas, as a youngster, won the first Los Angeles open in 1926. Steady golf was the keynote of Cooper's play, as he had a 71—72.

Walter Hagen, the veteran, hit his stride with a 70 today. His 74 yesterday placed him in the 144 tie with the rising young Runyon. The Haig's putter was working well.

Chisox Mail Contracts; Frasier Given Raise

Chicago, Jan. 14 (U.P.).—The Chicago White Sox mailed out their 1932 contracts to 31 players today. President J. Louis Comiskey revealed that Vic Frasier, young right-handed pitcher, had been given a substantial increase in salary, and that Lu Blue, first baseman, did not receive a cut. Nothing was revealed about the other contracts.

Magnates' Wage-Cutting Is Cheapening Show for Fans Paying Same Prices

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.
Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—The baseball magnates, proprietors of the national game, are not showing much of that fighting, never-say-die spirit which they demand so much of from their athletes when they conspire to hammer down the salaries and the morale of their players by the use of the boycott, as they are doing now. The conspiracy is an old one, of course, having been written into the rules of the industry and the players' standard form of contract many years ago.

But hitherto the conspiracy has been invoked only in individual cases. This year it is being used against the whole body of the players with the conspicuous exceptions of a few individuals who were seriously underpaid last year and whose pay is still short of their turnstile power. There has been no more insolent announcement by any employer in the entire course of the present depression than the one from Charles A. Stoneham, owner of the New York Giants, that if his first baseman, Bill Terry, does not accept the salary which he, Mr. Stoneham, offers him, he, Mr. Stoneham, will drive Terry out of baseball, which is Terry's profession.

It would be quite all right of Mr. Stoneham to refuse to reemploy Terry, owing to a disagreement on the terms of hire, except for the fact that under the baseball conspiracy Terry can not obtain a job with any other firm. This is the industry which has the effrontery to represent itself from time to time as the great, characteristic American sport.

This is a strange industry, the beautiful industry, which mooches and panhandles and chisels its way along, living entirely on publicity and never spending a minimum for advertising, although it receives thousands of linear miles of publicity from newspapers all over the country every year.

Auto Industry Is Contrast.

I have visited the automobile show in New York and have noted that the manufacturers of passenger cars, far from curtailing the customer's dollar's worth this year, have decided to woo him with a bigger dollar's worth than ever. There never have been so many comforts and luxuries in the automobiles as there are this year, and the engineers have built in devices in practically all cars which would have been unobtainable in any machine five years ago. This improvement cost them large sums of money, and yet there was one car on the second gallery, typical of the enlarged dollar's worth, in which all the expensive new improvements, such as shatter-proof glass and painless gear-shift, have been incorporated at a price about 25 per cent below the price of the same brand in 1928.

The baseball magnates have not reduced their rates of admission by so much as a dime, except to offer synthetic double-headers which generally consist of one fairly good ball game and one terrible one, the players being weary in the first half and tired in the second. And they have now undertaken to drive out of baseball all the star players who refuse to accept reductions arbitrarily decided upon by the magnates them-

AMERICAN U. WINS SIXTH STRAIGHT

Eagles Draw Away Near End to Beat St. John's, 19-17.

COACH WALTER YOUNG'S American University basketers celebrated their return to their home gym after a victorious three-game invasion of Virginia, to chalk their sixth consecutive win of the season, by downing the St. John's College, of Annapolis, conquerors of Washington and Lee and V. M. I., in a thrilling encounter, 19 to 17.

Both teams started cautiously, but Capt. "Red" Olsen broke the deadlock after five minutes with the most brilliant shot of the fray. From that point on Oscar Sells, elongated center of the Youngmen, took complete charge of the offense for his teammates, contributing three field goals at vital moments, in addition to adding 5 points from the charity stripe.

Bob McCartee, local boy of Tech High fame, was outstanding for the visiting team, in addition to playing a great floor game, contributing 6 points to lead his mates in this respect.

Despite the hectic fray, the original starting line-up of the victors played the entire game.

In a preliminary encounter the Sniors defeated the Frosh, 19 to 17, in an extra period, to take the lead in the Interclass League at American University.

Harvard Daily Raps Casey's Boxing Post

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—The Crimson, Harvard undergraduate daily, in an editorial today expressed concern at the appointment of Eddie Casey, Harvard football coach, as a member of the Massachusetts boxing commission.

The editorial branded professional boxing as a "well-controlled racket" and said it would be hard for many to reconcile the fact that "Harvard's name and the name of her head coaches will be mentioned continually with professional boxing, which is today less an athletic virtue and more a well-controlled racket."

Levinsky on Trial In Paulino Match

Chicago Boy, With Punch in Both Hands, Faces Rugged Foe Tonight.

Chicago, Jan. 14 (U.P.).—For all his clownish capers, King Levinsky threatens to develop into a dangerous contender for the heavyweight championship because he has what most of the other heavyweights haven't—a punch in either hand.

Levinsky, born Harry Krakow in New York City and reared in Chicago's tough Maxwell street district, will receive a test tomorrow night against Paulino Uzcudun, rugged Basque, which will go a long way toward determining the Chicago Hebrew's future in the heavyweight division.

The two heavyweights most dodged by contenders and best equipped to give any rising youngster the acid test are Tommy Loughran, boxing genius, and Paulino, rough, rugged and hard to fight because of awkward style.

Levinsky, after losing his first bout with Loughran, floored the former light-heavyweight champion three times in a recent bout in New York and won the decision.

G. U. Is Host To Brooklyn Marvels

Brilliant St. John's Team Invades Tech Gym Tonight.

G. W. Five to Meet St. Joseph's; C. U. Faces Villanova.

THE busiest night of the basketball season to date for Capital collegiate teams appears on the calendar tonight, when no less than four games will be played on local floors while Maryland meets Washington and Lee at Lexington.

Georgetown is matched with the crack St. John's College team from Brooklyn, this game starting at 8:30 in Tech High School gymnasium following a preliminary between the Georgetown freshmen and seniors. George Washington is dated with St. Joseph's College, of Philadelphia, in the G. W. gym, at 2010 H street northwest, the opening whistle being scheduled at 8 o'clock at the conclusion of a preliminary between the Colonial Frosh and Tech High which begins at 6:45.

Catholic University, returning to action after a tussle last night with St. Joseph's, engages Villanova at Brookland at 8:30, while Bliss and Strayer clash at Silver Spring Armory in a Washington Collegiate Conference contest, also at 8:30.

St. John's Uses Pro Style of Play.

Having built up a fine reputation in the East over a span of four years it is probable that St. John's, of Brooklyn, will prove the biggest drawing card of the invading teams. The Brooklyniets, who are finished exponents of the famed professional style of basket ball, have lost only two games in two years, during which time they have played 31. They were beaten last year only by New York University and suffered their first loss of the current campaign last Saturday night when they bowed to City College of New York in an overtime game on the latter's court.

Georgetown, like its foe, a believer in the pro court style, is ready to put forth its best efforts, realizing that a victory over St. John's will mean added prestige. In order to acquaint his men with some of the characteristics of the visitors, Coach Freddy Mesmer scouted the Brooklynites last night when they met Loyola in Baltimore.

Neary, Giant Center, Is Star.

Outstanding among the St. John's players are Capt. Thomas Neary, a 6-foot-2 center, who weighs 200 pounds; Nat Lazar, a speedy forward, and Irving Smith, a smart guard. These men are classed with the finest college basketers in the game and are especially noted for their ability to pass and shoot.

Georgetown's line-up will be composed of Capt. Dick King and Bill Connors, forwards; Jim Murphy, center, and Tommy Carolan and Joe O'Neill, guards. Carolan, on past performances, rates first among the Hilltoppers.

George Washington, which has run roughshod over three teams thus far, expects to encounter plenty of opposition from St. Joseph's, which recently defeated Pennsylvania on the latter's court. Coach Jim Pixlee has been drilling his charges hard the past three days with a view to perfecting their passing game, in which there has been too much fumbling to suit him.

Colonial Line-Up Listed.

The Colonial line-up will be as follows: Forrest Burgess and Wick Parrack, forwards; Ralph Hertzler, center, and Wayne Chambers and Arthur Zahn, guards. St. Joseph's is expected to employ the same five who started last night against Catholic.

Catholic expended a lot of energy against St. Joseph's and may feel the effects of it tonight in the Villanova cash. The Wildcats annually produce a strong floor squad.

Maryland is seeking its first victory of the campaign tonight at Lexington against Washington and Lee. Defeated in its first two games by a total margin of 3 points, the College Park quintet meets the Generals in no pleasant mood.

Bliss, winner of its only previous game in the conference, is favored in the game with Strayer at Silver Spring Armory.

Y. M. C. A. Faces Tests In Handball, Wrestling

The handball team of the local Y. M. C. A. will invade the courts of the Germantown Y. M. C. A. tomorrow afternoon for a match against the crack Philadelphians. The match will consist of six singles and three doubles.

Washington will be represented by Channing Walker, Perrie McLean, captain; J. B. Payne, Paul Pearlman, G. J. Newman and E. C. Wallis. Doubles teams are McLean and Walker, Woodward and Vineberg and Payne and Pearlman.

While the handball men are away the local Y. M. C. A. wrestlers will be playing hosts to the Hagerstown Y matmen, beginning at 8 o'clock. The Washington team will be Johnson, 115 pounds; C. L. Payne, 125; M. McGrath, 135; S. Wisooker, 145; P. Brothers, 155; R. Whitworth, 165; D. Armstrong, 175, and Capt. J. Ballard, heavyweight.

Legion Baseball Clubs Hold Meeting Tonight

Plans for the organization of the American Legion Baseball League will be made at a meeting to be held tonight at 8 o'clock in Room 227 of the Transportation Building, Seventeenth and H streets northwest. Members of the Legion or managers of boys' baseball teams desiring to enter the league are requested to attend. Matters of vital importance to the circuit also will be discussed at this time. Daniel H. Pratt, director of athletics, who will direct the league this year, will preside.

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE baseball rebellion gathered force yesterday with the refusal of Babe Ruth to sign a one-year contract for $70,000, although the Babe makes a concession of $10,000 by his offer to accept the Yankees' terms on a two-year basis. Ruth will also accept $80,000 for one year, he says.

The Yankees are virtually forced to treat Ruth considerately. Not that they are grateful for the labors of the Bambino in the past which helped them to share in five world series in the past eleven years, but because the intracity competition for patronage with the Giants is so intense that the Yankees need every drawing power at their command to compete with Stoneham's club.

The Yankees during Ruth's tenure have made great inroads upon the support of the Giants despite the fact that ten years ago Gotham was solid for Stoneham's teams. There still are thousands who follow none but the National League, and the swing back to the Giants would assume threatening proportions if the Yankees' roster failed to include Ruth next year.

Even with the remote possibility that Ruth's hold-out tactics would see him cut adrift from the Yankees, Col. Ruppert would boast a home-run king in Lou Gehrig, who tied the Babe for the honors last year, but Gehrig is not to be mentioned in the same inhalation with Ruth as far as drawing power is concerned.

Gehrig has already accepted terms for 1932, but compared to Ruth he is a colorless performer despite his rollicking home-run wallops that have lifted him to the station of crown prince of swat. Ruth striking out is a better show than Gehrig connecting for a homer with the bases full, the fans will testify.

It has been Ruth's presence that has swung New York patronage over to the Yankees more than any other factor. The Babe showed little signs of slowing up last season, tying for the home-run honors and being second only to Al Simmons in the batting averages. Aside from what his absence would cost the Yankees in attendance, the team's line-up without the Bambino in his familiar spot in third place in the batting order would virtually doom the club's pennant hopes which are high indeed this year. Ruth is in a fine spot to hold out for a two-year contract.

Those chuckles heard in the neighborhood of Philadelphia are not the echoes of the mummers' parade but merely the laughter of Al Simmons, Jimmy Foxx, Mickey Cochrane and Chuck Klein. They are greatly amused at the wage-cutting tactics of the big league magnates which seems to be general among both major circuits.

While Bill Terry is being subjected to a 40 per cent slash in his 1932 contract and Hack Wilson is panic stricken at a reduction that calls for a 73 per cent loss, the quartet of Philadelphia players, three of them A's and Klein, of the Phillies, are not one whit perturbed.

You see, each of the four last year signed for three seasons at a satisfactory and stable salary before the policy of reentrenchment set in among the club owners and hard times in the baseball business means little to them. They will have no contractual worries for two more years and by that time, according to Roger Babson, the much-maligned depression is certain to be outmoded. Lucky lads.

Ryerson Scores Upset Victory in Florida Golf

Coral Gables, Fla., Jan. 14 (A.P.).—J. B. Ryerson, Cooperstown, N. 12,000 WATCH FLYING HEELS SCORE IN HIALEAH INAUGURAL

Track Opens Amid Pomp And Color

Don Leon Breaks on Top, Is Beaten by 2 Lengths.

Vanderpool, Favorite, Disappoints by Running Last.

HIALEAH PARK, Fla., Jan. 14 (A. P.).—Joseph E. Widener's dream came true here today when the magnificent new course which serves as the home of the Miami Jockey Club opened to a glorious welcome, approximately 12,000 enthusiastic patrons of Florida racing responding to the call. Ideal tropical weather, a brilliant program and the pomp of inaugural ceremonies made it a truly festive occasion.

Flying Heels, 5-year-old representative of John J. Curtis, garnered the gold and glory that went with the winning of the Hialeah Inaugural Handicap, six-furlong dash for 3-year-olds and upward that featured the card. The son of Flying Ebony beat R. W. Collins' Don Leon by two lengths in handy fashion, while Mrs. G. W. Loft's Mabla took third position, another length back. The winner paid $8.40 for $2 and covered the six panels in the fast time of 1:11 1-5. The winner earned $2,490.

Throng Disappointed By Vanderpool.

The big crowd was bitterly disappointed at the failure of the favorite, Vanderpool, which was carrying William M. Moore's silks for the first time. Vanderpool, held at odds-on, finished last, but was the victim of very bad racing luck. Jockey Marinelli did not get the colt to running until a furlong had been covered, and when he moved up threateningly at the far turn was sharply cut off, with Panetian the apparent interferer. So bad was the jam that Vanderpool was not persevered with thereafter and was eased up with no chance.

Don Leon broke on top when Starter George Cassidy said "Come on!" with Leros, Knight Commander, Flying Heels and Vanderpool following. Mabla was in a jam right after the break and lost much ground.

Flying Heels was sent to the front quickly by Jockey A. Snider, but Leros hung to him tenaciously in the early running. The latter stopped early under the terrific pace, and Don Leon assumed the runner-up position as they approached the stretch. Mabla, after being blocked on the inside, came around the outside, turning for home, and began to make up ground fast. Flying Heels shook off Don Leon through the final furlong, and drew away, but Don Leon was under a drive to stall off Mabla.

Beauty of Track Surpasses All.

The new Hialeah Park, amazing in its exotic beauty and modern completeness, stood today as a gigantic shrine of which all turfdom should be proud. It was the unanimous opinion of critics qualified to know that no course in the world surpasses the home of the Miami Jockey Club in beauty, comfort, appointment and equipment. The birthday of this gorgeous fairyland comes only after the expenditure of $1,500,000, and more to follow; two years of planning, many months of construction work, and a political racing war.

The most attractive features of famous European courses have been brought to Hialeah. Here can be found a balcony such as that at Autueil, a corridor fashioned after a hallway at Longchamps, and a lounge room resembling the one at New York's own Belmont Park. Even the totalizer giant robot, which may eventually revolutionize the pari-mutuel betting system, is here for its first American trial.

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)
—Hialeah Selections—
By J. B. SNODGRASS

HIALEAH PARK, Miami, Fla., Jan. 14.—Hialeah Park started its 39-day racing season auspiciously. Especially popular with the large crowd at the opening was the Australian totalizator in operation. This device may revolutionize pari-mutuel betting in this country. The racing was on a par of Eastern racing at its best, with the exception of some of the classics in the East which crown champions. Hialeah Park should add materially to the attractiveness of the winter season at Miami.

Featuring the program today is the allowance race, fifth number, at 6 furlongs, for older horses. JUDGE SCHILLING, withdrawn from the inaugural yesterday, stands out in this event. Thrown in with the feather of 114 pounds he should lead all the way. The Adolph Spreckles horse finds the conditions all favorable for his best speed. THAIS, a very fast filly of C. V. Whitney, should be the contender, if in condition. PETO, also withdrawn from the inaugural yesterday, has a chance on best form, and should at least collect third money.

FIRST RACE—SONNELLI, a disappointment in Maryland last fall, may have improved during the winter, but he does not have to be at his best to win at 6 furlongs. He was several times beaten as a favorite in Maryland, after fast running in New York. He has the speed if his jockey can get him away. JACK CAMPBELL, a recent winner and in top form, should be the contender. PATRICK CALLAHAN has a good record at Tropical Park and can hold the others safe.

SECOND RACE—BACCIOCCO is selected. This horse lowered two records at Tropical Park, was the first horse there to win three races, and should beat TOMBEREAU on condition, but the latter is believed to be the better with equal training. The race appears between these two. CLEAN PLAY has a chance, but likes distance.

THIRD RACE—ELLICE is best in the Summer Skies Purse. FRENCH LASS is the obvious contender. RACCOON, from the Brookmeade Stable, may need additional preparation, but has plenty of speed. ROYAL RUFFIN wants a longer route. ELLICE was second to LEROS, her stablemate, in her last start at Tropical Park, in which a track record was set.

FOURTH RACE—Mrs. John Hay Whitney's BROADWAY LIGHTS should win the fourth. This 3-year-old ran well in Maryland, and has been well conditioned for this engagement. JUNGLE BOY is the probable contender and ran well at Bowie, finishing third to Chosen Pal. LAST ATTEMPT should hold the others safe.

SIXTH RACE—FREDERICK, possessing unusual early speed, is selected to win. BAY ANCON, which has been a sensational 3-year-old at Tropical Park, is the contender, and FREDERICK must be up to his best to beat him. THURSDAY is very fast, and if in top form has a chance to win the major portion of the stake, but is placed third.

SEVENTH RACE—MONTANARO is selected in the seventh. He has had winter racing at New Orleans and should dispose of his field in the mile and a furlong gallop. GAY BIRD, winner the other day at the other Miami track, is rated next best, with the improved SCARLET BRIGADE holding the others safe for third. It is noticeable that horses that have been racing all winter have an edge on higher class horses that have been shipped down to Florida from the East.

SONG HIT drew away before they had gone a sixteenth. Wells permitted him to race at top speed all the way and struck him with his whip a couple of times at sixteenth pole to keep him going. RABBLE, always a forward contender, but never able to improve his position. CATHERINE FOX closed stoutly under punishment and was wearing RABBLE down. MISS IDA made a very wide turn entering home stretch.

SECOND RACE—Two furlongs. Purse, $1,300. Special weights. Key West Purse. For maiden 2-year-olds, colts and geldings. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:04½. Off at 3:09. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHILTENNY, $8.20, $6.10, $4.90; TRY SWEET, $13.40, $7.10; SEYMOUR, $7.10.

CHILTENNY, quick to find his stride, carried BRACER and TRY SWEET along at a fast clip, hung on gamely when put to a drive and passed the tiring pacemakers last hundred yards. TRY SWEET broke fast on the outside and ran a steady race. SEYMOUR outlasted REVONAY. The latter reared just as the barrier was sprung and broke in the air. UNSWEPT, green at the barrier, broke very slow.

THIRD RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $1,300; allowances. Hollywood Purse. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:40½. Off at 3:42. Winner, S. L. Burch's br. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PLAYFOLE, $5.60, $2.90, $2.10; DOCTOR SYNTAX, $2.60, $2.20; UNENCUMBERED, $2.20.

PLAYFOLE, breaking rapidly, went to the front with a rush and opened up a long lead in early stages. She raced in hand all last half and appeared to be only galloping at end. DOCTOR SYNTAX, hustled along entire journey, but never able to improve his position, was driving hard to stall off UNENCUMBERED. ELPUMA was under hard drive to stall off ON SIR.

FOURTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,500. Tamiami Claiming Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start poor. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:12½. Off at 4:14½. Winner, G. W. Ogle's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PRINCE TOKALON, $4.60, $3.20, $2.60; MERIDIAN QUEEN, $12.30, $5.40; IMPISH, $2.90.

PRINCE TOKALON, trailed off the pace until making turn into home stretch, where he went around MERIDIAN QUEEN, easily disposed of latter in stretch run and drew away without effort. MERIDIAN QUEEN hustled to the front and set a rapid pace, but weakened when the winner challenged. IMPISH broke very slowly, gradually improved his position and made a bold challenge at top of home stretch, but flattened out when the final test came. He was probably short and race should improve him.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $2,500 added. Hialeah Inaugural Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:46½. Off at 4:51½. Winner, John J. Two-dollar mutuels paid—FLYING HEELS, $8.40, $3.40, $3.50; DON LEON, $9.20, $5.90; MABLA, $4.60.

FLYING HEELS forced a fast pace and raced LEROS into submission first half mile, shook off opposition in stretch run and had a bit left at end. DON LEON, on inside entire journey, saved ground at the turns and was driving hard to stall off MABLA. Latter, crowded back at start, raced into a pocket when Stevens attempted to go through on inside at turn out of back stretch, and was then taken extremely wide. She covered lot more ground than any horse in the race. VANDERPOOL, in a jam at turn out of back stretch, was pulled up.

SIXTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won ridden out; place, driving. Went to post at 5:18. Off at 5:20. Winner, Kitrane Stable's b. g. (3), by General Lee—Waterloo. Trained by L. Burch. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $100. Time, 1:39 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SOUTHCO, $4.80, $3.90, $3.80; NIGHT EDITION, $5.40, $3.20; DON TASKER, $17.10.

Bejshak rode a patient race on SOUTHCO, rated along on back stretch and, when he made his move rounding the far turn, went to the outside, gained steadily, and shook off NIGHT EDITION in stretch run. Latter hung after making his effort at top of home stretch. DON TASKER, sharply cut off at sixteenth pole, where Mann attempted to come through on inside, was then taken back and closed stoutly on outside, unseated his rider after the finish and ran away a mile. PHANTOM ROCK and MAKE SPEED were used up making the pace.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:48. Off at 5:53. Winner, W. Hinphy's b. f. (4), by Messenger—Brocatelle. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $100. Time, 1:53 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—OUTBURST, $8.60, $8.40, $4.30; VACATION, $61.20, $15.30; BATTLING ON, $3.60.

OUTBURST got clear of early crowding, reached a forward position after five furlongs, gradually wore down leaders and stood drive gamely to hold VACATION safe. Latter, rated close to leaders for seven furlongs, moved up fast last quarter mile and overtaking BATTLING ON in stretch, was next best. BATTLING ON had no excuse, was rated with leaders clear of interference to stretch, where he tired under the weight. SOUR MASH closed ground steadily after a slow beginning.

LEWIS FACES NEW TEST IN FIRPO

Baltimoreans' Streak Threatened in Next Nursery Show.

PATSY LEWIS, left-handed Baltimore slugger, who has been wading through the ranks of preliminary boys at Alexandria fight shows of late, will meet his hardest test of the current season next Tuesday when he will engage Young Firpo, former all-Navy lightweight champion, on the Herman Weiner-Marty Gallagher card in Portner's Arena.

Lewis' latest victim was Billy Eschinger, of Washington, whom he floored in the second round of a scheduled four-rounder. Eschinger fell beneath a terrific one-two to the head and his finish was assured when he struck his head on the unpadded floor of the ring outside the ropes. Eschinger previously had knocked out Sailor Oden in one of the most torrid slugging bouts ever witnessed in this vicinity.

Firpo Threatens Lewis' Streak.

But Firpo, in the estimation of the management, will stand up with Lewis for the scheduled six rounds next week, and possibly will end Patsy's winning streak if he has not gone back. Firpo, a Filipino attached to the Cumberland, docked at Annapolis, won the all-Navy lightweight title in 1928.

An indication of Firpo's ability may be gleaned from the fact that he fought to draw decisions with Sailor McKenna, recognized as the best 135-pounder in the Capital area, and Ray Bowen, another local scrapper. He also has twice met Arthur DeBeve, former French lightweight champion, losing both times on close decisions.

The ticket sale for next Tuesday's show opened yesterday and found a brisk demand awaiting. The Weiner-Gallagher main bout of ten rounds fairly bristles with possibilities of exciting action.

Weiner, considered an in-and-outer for several years, owns a devastating left hand which recently floored Reds Barry, pride of Washington, for a count of nine. Only a remarkable comeback by Barry plus the latter's wide lead gained early in the fight prevented the husky Baltimorean from getting better than a draw decision.

Gallagher, who defeated Barry last October at Fort Washington, is expected to offer Weiner more resistance for that left hand than did Barry. However, Gallagher is not rated as fast as Barry and the question is raised as to whether he can elude Weiner's wild rushes. When the Baltimore puncher opens up the throttle and piles into his foe shooting his southpaw hook, the opponent usually gives way, or goes down—and out.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

PETE ROBINSON was born in Springfield, Mass., and has been a "living skeleton" since birth. Many doctors have examined him, but not one has yet been able to give a satisfactory explanation for his lack of flesh.

Robinson is an expert harmonica player, and has appeared in side shows for years. He recently entered the movies and will be seen in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Freaks."

Ten-year-old Lester Perkins, Ogunquit, Me., has lived for 18 months with a bullet in his heart.

Magna Mater Scores In Jefferson Sprint

Jefferson Park, New Orleans, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Magna Mater, a 3-year-old filly with a liking for heavy going, won her second race over the Jefferson Park oval today, leading a field of platers home in the 6-furlong feature.

Jockey J. Battista got the O. Viau color bearer away well and rated her along in second place for the first part of the journey. She dropped back in third place as Bright Knot moved out in front, with Wise Seller running second. Midway in the stretch, however, Battista let Magna Mater out a notch, and she got up in time to beat Bright Knot by a nose, with Wise Seller third.

Magna Mater had finished last in a field of nine the last time out, with the result she was made an outsider in the wagering, paying $18.40 for $2.

The daily double combination of Night Cry and Smoldering paid $98.80 for $2.

SALARY CUTS CHEAPENING BASEBALL

Pegler Says Owners' Action Is No Help to Game.

selves. If Bill Terry, for instance, is driven out of baseball by Mr. Stoneham, and if the salaries of the other players are reduced 40 per cent, the show value of the Giants will be depreciated. Thus the customers will be offered less show value for their money but at the price which they were asked to pay when money was plentiful with one and all.

If the automobile industry were given the same amount of free reading matter in the papers, the stuff probably would be pretty dull, but, then, a good deal of the baseball stuff is pretty dull and laborious reading, too. The automobile publicity would deal with cogs and other mechanical parts. In baseball, however, most of the athletes are only cogs, and Mr. Breadon, of the St. Louis firm, who is the leader of the low-pay movement now in progress, always keeps a large supply of spare parts in his service stations, or branch stores, in the minor leagues.

If a player on the Cardinals grows too expensive or begins to limp, Mr. Breadon gets rid of him as unfeelingly as he would dispose of an undesired part in his own car and picks another player out of stock to replace him. It is all so mechanical that actually the Cardinals are very much like an average good automobile, and I imagine that a writer with a fancy for mechanical subjects could write as entertainingly about a certain automobile all year long as we sport writers, who happen to be sport fans, write about the ball clubs.

Baseball Business Nonessential.

There are so many hundreds of players that most of them have no more individuality than so many automobile parts. Nowadays Mr. Breadon does not deal with and in men. He deals in pitchers, right-handed or left-handed; in catchers, shortstops, and so on, just as an automobile man deals in pistons, pinion gears and hub caps.

The baseball business is so nonessential and contributes so little to the industrial turnover of the community that I should think the magnates would sometimes consider what a special advantage they enjoy over industries which yield a far greater return in general prosperity with no free advertising.

The automobile industry employs a thousand men to every one employed in baseball, and with the same publicity would employ thousands more. But the baseball magnates, their publicity undiminished and their receipts well maintained, thanks to this assistance, have cut their personnel about 12 per cent and are reducing the pay of the survivors even more, all to the detriment of the customer's dollar's worth. Far from installing free wheeling, they are planning to take out the self-starter and hand the patron a crank.

EASTERN AND WESTERN CLASH

Business and Central in 2d Game

Guyon's Five Seeking 16th Win in Series Battle Today.

Stenogs Slight Favorite; Contest Holds Much Interest.

STANDING OF THE TEAMS.

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Eastern	1	0	1.000
Tech	1	1	.500
Central	1	1	.500
Business	1	1	.500
Western	0	1	.000

THE high school boys resume play this afternoon, in Tech's big gymnasium, scene of the high school basket ball series race. Eastern, seeking a firmer hold on first place than its one victory warrants, is to play Western, perhaps the weakest team in the series. Business, whose spectacular play has earned it a large following, plays Central in the second game.

Tech High, which drew a bye in the series today, takes on stern competition this afternoon in the George Washington University Freshmen, at G. W. In other games Gonzaga plays Devitt, at Gonzaga tonight; St. Alban's drops down to Swavely, at Manassas, and Loyola, of Baltimore, is the guest of Georgetown Prep. The St. John's-Leonard Hall game, scheduled today, wil be played tomorrow.

Eastern Team Rests For Game Today.

Seeking to avoid a repetition of last year's physical inability of the Eastern team to play its punishing schedule, Coach Guyon yesterday canceled the scheduled Eastern - Maryland Freshmen game, in order to place a fresher group on the floor against Western today. The game will be played later in the season, when series worries are over.

With Ben Zola slated to stick as close to Tony Latona as that forward's uniform, Eastern appears headed for a fairly decisive victory today. Western's chief threat is the blond Latona lad, and there is no more energetic guard in the series than Zola. With Latona taken care ahead of time, at least on paper, Eastern's own outstanding marksmen should put their team ahead from the start.

Business-Central Promise Thrills.

The Business-Central game probably will be the more spectacular. A popular favorite, Business will find its hands full today against Central, a team which is still to be respected in the series. Central's inability to puncture Tech's zone defense last Tuesday will hardly loom today, for business is not wont to play this style of game.

Central seems best in a rough-and-tumble, man-for-man style of play, best exemplified by its captain and forward, Bill Burke. The game looms as a toss-up, with the odds slightly in Business' favor—provided Central assumes an early lead and sets the stage for a patented Business comeback.

Second place in the series standings awaits the winner.

Bethesda High Routs Rockville Five, 38-12

Bethesda-Chevy Chase High's basket ball team took its second successful step in the direction of Montgomery County championship yesterday by defeating Rockville High decisively, 38 to 12. The winners will play Damascus today and next will meet the dark horses of the series, Takoma-Silver Spring.

Emerson Five Scores Over Training School

Emerson Institute won its first victory of the basket ball season yesterday, when the Maroon tossers won a decisive 38-16 victory over National Training at the Training School.

The winners led from start to end. By half time the score stood 16-13, and thereafter the Emersonians gradually widened the breach, largely because of the splendid shooting of Rabbitt and Whalen.

MIRACLES OF SPORTS. —By Robert Edgren

TECH STARS OF TRACK MISSING

Hardell Is Rightfully Pessimistic About 1932 Chances.

TECH HIGH, winner of five consecutive high school track championships, between 1924 and 1928, when the squad had to practice on the Monument Grounds and other borrowed fields, faces another poor year now that it is established in the most modern school in the city.

Not even in the mile relay is Tech expected to prove potent this year, having lost Reichman, Achstetter and Moorhead, three of the four runners of the last two years. Livingstone is the remaining boy, and is expected to have as his teammates this year Tech's all-high football ends, Meikeljohn and Wohlfarth.

In the group of 50 or so boys who have reported to Coach Hap Hardell he has found little in the way of genius, but, he believes, the early foundation of another great Tech team. Among the new boys he likes the looks of Marvin Chapman, high jumper and Moorhead Smith, a hurdler.

Hardell picks Central to win the title this year, but Eastern will give them more of a battle than they expect. Tech and Western will fight it out for third place.

Tech is training indoors and will not go outside until early spring. It plans no active indoor season. It will be able to use its cinder track and jumping pits for the first time, this season, work not having been completed on these facilities last year.

Hitting the Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

THE official program, as announced yesterday, for tomorrow's opening of the new bowling stadium at Convention Hall, the first of its kind in the East, if not in the entire country, comprises matches that not only blend color with skill, but into which there enters a keen rivalry. The leading bowlers, both men and women, will help launch the new venture.

Ray Barnes, of Baltimore, and "Red" Megaw, Temple star, will inaugurate the festivities at 2:30 p. m., when they hook up in a five-game singles match. Immediately following this, Ollie Pacini will join forces with Megaw in an attempt to conquer Barnes and Ray Von Dreele, also of Baltimore, in a double match. As a chaser, Pacini and Von Dreele will try conclusions in a second singles contest.

Megaw and Pacini, who have earned an enviable reputation as a doubles team this season, are especially anxious to win from the Monumental City pair, as earlier in the season Barnes and Wesley Askew defeated the locals and doing so established a new record for five games. This is the only defeat the Washington duo has suffered and victory tomorrow will be balm for the wound.

Starting at 8 o'clock, the following matches will be rolled: Nick Rinaldi, of Lucky Strike, vs. Ouncie Harrison, of Arcadia; Lorraine Gulli and Billie Butler vs. Margaret Leaman and Evelyn Ream; Nick Altrock vs. Mike Martin; Sam Rice vs. Lorraine Gulli.

Miss Pashell, of Construction, led the Veterans' Bureau Ladies' League in scoring at Arcadia, rolling a game of 118 and set of 290. Her team toppled the pins for a game of 454, and the Nitwits cashed in on their set of 1,306.

Herndon's 136 game and Bascom's 356 total for three copped the bacon in the War Department loop at Arcadia. Construction made off with the team game laurels with 577 and tied with the Firing Squad at 1,618 for the set honors.

"Buck" Cunningham, of Grace Church, swept 347 sticks off the Silver Spring Alleys to roll the highest set recorded in the North Washington Church League. Ben Wilkerson, of Every Man's Bible Class, bagged game honors with his 122 effort. Trio Christian rolled a game of 529 and set of 1,563 while taking the odd one from the Forest Glen K. of C. In the other matches Silver Spring Mission, Grace Church and Every Man's Bible Class whitewashed Woodside, St. John's and St. Michael's.

Business was pretty good in the Interior Department circuit at Columbia. Watson, of Survey, splintered a few pins in rolling a game of 160, and Ganna, of Indian, followed suit with a set of 378. The Indians had a game of 558 to their credit in downing Land, 2-1, and G. H. I. took the deciding tilt from Survey despite the latter's 1,515 set. The Engravers were completely knocked out by Pension.

Muskoe Garnett, of V. P. I., was again cheer leader for the rah rah boys in the Intercollegiate League at Rendezvous last night. Muskoe rocked the maples with his game of 157 and set of 409 as the alma mater socked John Harvard for a three-game win. His mates also had a game of 543, the highest team game of the night. Maryland disposed of Navy with ease, winning all three games and high set honors by virtue of a 1,540 score. Brown, Cornell, Yale and Lehigh took the odd games from Princeton, V. M. I., Dartmouth and Michigan.

Henry Hiser is suffering from an injured right hand and may be unable to continue in the Campbell Stakes tomorrow night. He has rested the hand all week in an effort to restore it to its normal condition. Thus, even if it does mend sufficiently to warrant his rolling tomorrow, his score is apt to suffer because of the lay-off.

EDDIE KEITH, a member of the Rex Team in the Recreation League, scorched the alleys with a game of 197 and set of 425 last night as his team sent the Fox Theater down to defeat in all three games at the G street establishment. Eddie had a hot hand in his first game and the only way he could have been stopped would have been to take the balls away from him.

He spared in his first and second boxes, and rolled a strike in the third for a score of 53. He raised the ante to 62 with a nine in the fourth box, added nine pins to this in the fifth, and clicked off four strikes in a row for a count of 180 going into the tenth box. In the final frame he spared and then came through with a seven-pin count for a grand total of 197.

If Eddie had made a mark in either the fourth or fifth box he undoubtedy would have surpassed Charley Young's record of 201. He made the most of all breaks that came his way, but in these two boxes a mark was out of the question with the pins split after his first ball. His spare in the tenth box was almost a lucky strike. He hit on the left side of the set-up and caught seven pins on the rebound. One of the dead sticks barely scraped No. 10 pin, and the latter wobbled, but was steady enough to prevent Eddie from smashing the record. It was a good and bad break.

Although four pins short of the record, Keith will cash in on Fred Pelzman's offer of a shirt, or is it a suit, to the bowler making four consecutive strikes.

To add to the dignity of the opening ceremonies, we might suggest that John Blick engage Roddy Thomas in a singles match, the winner to be decided on total pins. Our nickel is on Roddy.

G. P. O., formerly occupant of the cellar position in the Ladies Federal League, vacated the premises by winning all three from Census at Arcadia. It was the first clean sweep scored by the Printers this season. Agriculture, Commerce Juniors, War Department, G. A. O., Treasury, Commerce Comets, and Interstate, finished on the more favorable end of 2-1 counts with Marines, Labor, Veterans Bureau, Commerce, Mines, Economics, and Internal Revenue. Elsie Fischer, of War, spilled 125 pins in a single game, and Doris Goodall, of Commerce, collected 344 for her three. War's set of 1,504 and Veterans Bureau's 534 game topped the team efforts.

Yerrick and the rest of the Financiers stole the show in the I. C. C. loop at Columbia. The former rolled high game of 127 and set of 342, and his mates helped out to the extent of ringing up a game of 506 and set of 1,486 as Investment was thrown for a three-game loss. Depreciation dropped a pair to Income and Recapture was one better than Value.

Skinkers to Play At Bolling Field

Eagles Meet Olson Swedes in Aviator's Gym Sunday Afternoon.

Skinker Eagles, after considerable searching, apparently have anchored securely for 1932. Bolling Field gymnasium, situated on Fort Howard road in Anacostia, D. C., probably will be the home base of Skinker's, who are District champions.

Having satisfactorily completed arrangements for the use of this floor yesterday, Manager Bernie Peacock today was looking forward eagerly to Sunday's clash with "Olson's Terrible Swedes," on the new court. At a o'clock, "Ole" Olson and his colorful contingent are to invade the spacious auditorium.

An attractive preliminary to supplement this feature is being arranged for 2 o'clock.

EARNINGS AND DIVIDENDS.

New York, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—The United Fruit Co., one of the first large corporations to make public earnings for 1931, today reported net income for last year of $6,779,363, equal to $2.31 a share. This compares with $12,411,507, or $4.24 a share in 1930. Current assets on December 31 last were $38,911,844, against current liabilities of $8,396,124.

Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., in a statement to stockholders today, said that 1931 earnings had fully covered dividend requirements of $9 a share on the capital stock.

"While final results of the company for the year 1931 are not yet available, preliminary summaries indicate that the company earned its dividend, with a small margin, without taking into account its proportion of the undistributed earnings of its subsidiary companies," the head of America's largest business corporation said.

American Telephone had net income of $165,544,707 in 1930, equivalent to $10.44 per share. Earnings of the company for 1931, as revealed in the president's statement, exceeded $9 a share, despite net loss of over 207,000 telephones in service during the year.

The United Corporation today reported for the year ended December 31 net income of $18,445,327, the equivalent of 75 cents a share. This compares with $16,079,527, or 78 cents on a smaller number of common shares in 1930.

The company's investment holdings showed no important change from those reported in the balance sheet issued in March of last year. Investments were carried at cost of $592,821,748, against $551,734,761 at the end of 1930. Bank loans amounted to $12,588,000, an increase of $588,000 over March, but about $2,500,000 less than on December 31, 1930.

Lambert Co. earned its $8 dividend in 1931 with a small margin to spare, according to current reports. Sales for the year are estimated at about 9 per cent below 1930, in which year the company earned $9.52 a share.

U. S. Realty & Improvement Co. had a profit of $466,656 last year after dividend requirements on subsidiaries' preferred stocks, compared with $4,349,152 in 1930.

A drop in net income of $2,991,483 for 1931 under that of the preceding year is reported by the Western Union Telegraph Co. in its annual statement issued today. At the same time the statement shows the company cut its total expenses for the year by $19,937,794. Its total expenses in 1930 were $118,941,140, while in 1931 they aggregated $99,003,346.

The net income for the past year totaled $6,255,549, against $9,247,032 for 1930. The earnings for 1931 approximated $6.10 per share against $9.03 per share for the previous year. The stock is currently on a $6 annual dividend basis.

The gross revenues of the company declined from $133,235,751 in 1930 to $110,616,210 in the past year. The amount reserved for maintenance totaled $13,819,372 against $19,532,948 in 1930. Other operating expenses, including rent of leased lines and taxes, showed a sharp drop, totaling $85,183,974 last year in comparison with $99,388,192 during the previous twelve months.

TRACTION EARNINGS DECREASE $123,365

Hanna Lays Most of Blame on Taxicab Situation in Washington.

The Capital Traction Co. suffered a loss in net earnings of $123,365.81 in 1931 as compared with 1930, chiefly because of "the extraordinary taxicab situation now existing in Washington," John H. Hanna, president of the company, told stockholders in his annual report yesterday.

Mr. Hanna also attributed a loss in revenue of $39,000 to the reduced school fare of 3 cents, represented by 750,000 reduced rate tickets collected by the company since the reduced fare went into effect last March.

Net income of the company last year was $365,973.92. Net income in 1929 was $561,974.43, showing that the company has had a falling off of $196,000.41 in net income over a two-year period.

During the first part of 1931 the company made a possible slight increase in net income in spite of a loss in revenue because of economies in operation and lower taxes, due to reduced revenues, Mr. Hanna said in his report.

He adds, however, that the 20-cent taxicab rate, which became effective about the middle of July, is responsible for the much larger decrease in gross revenue which has occurred since that time and "which we have been unable to meet by cuts in operating costs."

Number of Cabs Cited.

Mr. Hanna points out that there are 5,000 taxicabs operating in Washington, a much larger number in proportion to the population than in any other city in the country. He further observes that most of the cabs charge a 20-cent flat rate for from 1 to 4 passengers which, he points out, "affords a very direct competition with our own service."

He then refers to testimony of cab drivers that the low rate provides barely a living wage, even for operators working from 12 to 14 hours per day. He attributes the large number of cabs to the unemployment situation.

Decision of the directors of the Traction Company to abandon tracks on F, G and Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth streets northwest, built in 1901, and substitute buses, saved the company an ultimate expenditure of $250,000, Mr. Hanna stated. The bus operation has been entirely satisfactory to the public and has made some saving in operating expenses, he reported.

Change of location of tracks between the Capitol Grounds and Union Station has resulted in a detriment rather than an advantage to both the Capital Traction Co., the Washington Railway & Electric Co., and to the public, Mr. Hanna said. He expressed hope that Congress will give favorable action on a bill to refund the two companies the $360,000 they spent on the change.

Rebuilding of Cars.

Work of rebuilding 60 cars has been rewarded with favorable business on lines where used, Mr. Hanna announced. Cost of rebuilding the cars was $64,000, he said.

New schedules have resulted in a saving of $60,600, $43,000 of which took place in the last six months of the year, the president reported. These economies were accomplished by speeding up the service during the periods of light traffic and by revision of schedules made after a thorough investigation of the traffic requirements, he pointed out.

Mr. Hanna praised all employes for satisfactory service and "whole-hearted support" in efforts for accident reduction and other improvements.

Total assets of the company were reported to be $23,405,398.34, compared with $23,331,864.43 in 1930; total liabilities, $23,405,398.34, compared with $23,331,864.43 in 1930.

STOCK PRICES CLIMB ON SHORT COVERINGS

Large-Block Trading Leads Market Opening; Steel Sells at 44½.

New York, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Large-scale covering by the short interest added substantially to the stock market's gains during the morning hours today.

Thereafter the advance was subject to profit-taking, but a late spurt by the rails served to keep the balance of the day's changes comfortably in the plus column.

At its best, the stock list was 1 to 4 points higher. These gains were largely built on a short retreat which in the first half hour gave the market a turnover of 600,000 shares, the largest in several months. Transfer of thousand share blocks or larger were numerous while the flurry lasted.

Trading Becomes Dull.

As this buying subsided trading became very dull, but prices managed to hold their own against realizing until the last half hour, when the advance was rather sharply reduced. However, the late move by the rails helped many other leaders to finish above their lows.

In addition to the rails, which were up 1 to 3, tobaccos accomplished further recovery. Several independent steels reacted well to speculative hopes for a revival in their industry later this month or early next. American Telephone was supported by official announcement that the dividend had been more than earned last year, even though the margin was small, and that subsidiaries' earnings, the chief source of the company's income, had exceeded dividend needs.

U. S. Steel climbed to 46¼ before tiring; it closed ⅛ lower at 44½. For most other leaders extreme gains were pared to fractions. Auburn ran up 3 and then sagged 2 net. Turnover of 2,653,100 shares was the largest in nearly a month.

Bank Rate Unchanged.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank's rediscount rate remained at 3½ per cent, nor was there anything in the weekly statement to point toward a credit expansion policy. It was suggested, however, that with 90-day bills at 2⅞ per cent the spread against the rediscount rate was so large as to foreshadow a cut in the latter; a reduction had hardly been expected so soon, nor had it seemed probable that there would be an immediate increase in the central banks' holding of Government securities.

Brokers loans, contrary to some forecasts, sagged $5,000,000, thus maintaining the trend of more than four months. Because of the security markets' strength over the last week, an increase would not have been surprising; the decline probably meant that short covering had been the chief influence behind the stock market's advance.

Wheat and corn eased, the former losing ½ to 1 cent on estimates of larger Argentine shipments and weather news. Cotton closed 3 to 7 points higher.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Multiplied pressure to sell that developed in the wheat pit shortly before the finish of trading today disclosed that the market had been overbought. A quick tumble of more than a cent a bushel followed.

Waning of aggressive support which grains had borrowed from strength shown by Wall street securities was partly ascribed to snowfalls in Kansas and Nebraska, and to denials of a report that the Federal Farm Board had sold 10,000,000 bushels of wheat to Greece. Enlarged Russian exports of wheat counted also as a disturbing influence.

Wheat closed unsteady, ⅛@1 under yesterday's finish. Corn ½@⅝ down. Oats ⅛@⅜ off, and provisions at 2 cents to 7 cents advance.

At first, the wheat market showed an upward trend, helped by fresh upturns in New York stocks. There were also assertions that the United States might be called upon to supply a larger share of supplies to fill prospective increased export demand for North American wheat. However, decidedly increased out-shipments of wheat and of other grain by Russia tended to share confidence. Russia's wheat exports this week were shown to total 1,456,000 bushels, compared with 512,000 last week.

Liverpool advices of continued urgent offerings of Argentina wheat had an additional disturbing effect, although North American export trade was a little better, with purchases upward of 500,000 bushels, including some durum and some hard winter wheat from this country. On the other hand, Russian exports besides wheat included 731,000 bushels of corn, 668,000 bushels of barley, 30,000 bushels of oats and 544,000 bushels of rye, making a rather impressive total. Meanwhile, accelerating the late sinking spell in Chicago wheat prices was the fact that much of the increased selling was in the July delivery, representing the new 1932 crop, and came from houses that frequently act for United States Government agencies.

Corn and oats gave way with wheat, despite colder weather and snows over part of the corn belt.

Broader general demand for lard and meats proved more than a counterbalance for downturns in hog values.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Cotton was more active today and prices again advanced, touching the highest levels reached since about the middle of November.

There was active buying by foreign spinners, including the continent and the Far East, while the early sharp upturn in the stock market and evidences of a more optimistic feeling regarding credit and business developments, brought in a more general demand and resulted in a considerably broader interest.

The March position at one time sold at 6.71 an advance of 9 points from the previous close and while the market reacted from the top under profit taking the tone of the general market was steady and the final was 3 to 7 points net higher.

The market opened steady at 4 to 5 points higher and continued to advance until late in the afternoon when increased offers caused a partial setback. The July position advanced to 7.06, crossing the 7 cent level for the first time since November 17, and while this contract later declined to 7.01 evidences of a substantial trade demand at the 7-cent level checked the downward movement and gave the market a steady undertone throughout the day.

The South sold moderately at times, but offers from that quarter were not large and reports from the South said that the basis was holding firm, although low grades seemed to be offering rather more freely.

The firmness in the Bremen market attracted considerable attention, especially as continental spinners seemed more disposed to fix prices here. Worth street reported a somewhat less active demand for textiles although it was thought that the advance in cotton might encourage buyers to pay the higher prices. The Census Bureau placed the domestic consumption of cotton during December at 415,517 bales, against 428,870 in November and 405,518 in December, 1930.

Liverpool cabled that the market there advanced on general buying and trade calling and reacted partially under realizing and on higher sterling and reported sales of 40,000 bales of Russian cotton there. Exports today 16,989, making 4,390,001 so far this season. Port receipts today 39,546. U. S. port stocks 4,858,063.

BOND UPTURN DEFIES PROFIT-TAKING RUSH

Rail and Government Issues Lead Gains; Day's Sales, $17,727,000.

New York, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Bonds today recorded their eighth consecutive advance, despite considerable profit-taking.

Strength in United States Government issues and railroad mortgages buoyed up the entire list and even the industrials and utilities, which have been inclined to lag, registered moderate gains generally. Sales totaled $17,727,000.

The Treasury obligations again led the Federal section, five of them advancing more than one point. The registered Liberty 3½s were the only losers, dropping just over one point.

Growing interest in the Government loans was strengthened during the day by advices from Washington that the Treasury did not intend to go into any long term borrowing in the near future, but expected to negotiate its financing through short term securities.

Among corporate loans the railroads exhibited the strongest support. Several of the carrier bonds gained 5 to 12⅝ points, while a number added from 2 to 4 points to their previous prices. Convertible issues were the favorites.

Substantial advances were made by some of the bonds of Baltimore & Ohio, Central of Georgia, Denver & Rio Grande, Erie, Great Northern, Illinois Central, Missouri-Kansas-Texas, Missouri Pacific, Nickel Plate, New Haven, Pennsylvania, Reading, St. Louis & San Francisco, Southern Railway, Texas & Pacific, Union Pacific, Wabash and Wisconsin Central.

That erratic trading still exists in the market was shown by the fact that New York Central registered 3½s, a sparsely traded mortgage, lost 12⅝ points on the sale of five bonds.

Of the utilities, communications loans advanced, American Telephone, International Telephone, Postal Telegraph and Western Union all being active in the forward movement.

The foreign list displayed firmness, although the German 7s and 5½s, up most of the session, closed with small losses.

Curb Review

New York, Jan. 14 (A.P.).—Although some leaders were affected by profit-taking, the curb market maintained a firm tone in moderately active trading today. Numerous specialties were strong and their gains offset small declines in a few more active stocks. Sales approximated 300,000 shares.

A. O. Smith, Parker Rust, Mead Johnson, Great Atlantic & Pacific, National Screen Service, Mohawk Mining and International Cigar closed 2 to 5 points higher. Hammond Clock, an inactive, broke 21 points on a single sale. U. S. Playing Card, Cuneo Press and Grand Rapids Varnish improved about a point. Deere was heavy.

Electric Bond & Share was rather sluggish, meeting resistance at 13 and selling off to 12½ where the net loss was ⅛.

Commonwealth Edison lost a point, but United Light "A," Duke Power, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, American Light and Northern States "A" were firm. Gulf States Utility 5½ per cent preferred, which trades very infrequently, lost 33¼ on the first transaction in a long time.

There was some easiness in Atlas Utilities, Goldman Sachs Trading and Ford of Canada "A." Oils were dull and steady.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 164

PUBLICATION of a recent picture of one of the bridges leading from Washington into Georgetown has led B. F. Larcombe, 218 Seventh street southeast, to bring to The Post this photo showing both Pennsylvania avenue and M street bridges over Rock Creek.

The Pennsylvania avenue structure in the foreground was built about 1860 by the engineer division of the Army under Gen. Montgomery C. Meigs, for whom it was named on January 24, 1862, by a resolution adopted by the Board of Aldermen.

It was a single span, supported by two cast iron pipes, 4 feet in diameter, which also carried water between the "cities" of Washington and Georgetown. It was often called Meigs' viaduct and the present bridge still carries Meigs' name although it is seldom used in referring to the structure.

DISTRICT SHOULD BE BINGHAM DECLARES HEARD ON TAX BILLS

Asserts Federal Expenses Ought to Be Reduced "Until It Hurts."

FOOLISH EXPENDITURES DESCRIBED BY SENATOR

Page Says Hoover Measures Will Bring Psychology of Confidence.

Declaring that every effort should be made by Congress to save the people of Washington from higher taxation and that no further tax bills for the District should be passed without first giving local citizens a full hearing, Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, again proved himself a friend of the National Capital in an address last night before the Washington Board of Trade at the Willard Hotel.

William Tyler Page, former clerk of the House of Representatives, the other speaker, asserted that the underlying cause of all the trouble of the Nation today are attributable to the departure from the original idea of the republican system of government. By republican, he pointed out out he did not mean a party, but the foundations on which the government is laid.

Senator Bingham averred that the time has come to cut Federal expenditures "until it hurts." If these expenditures are not reduced, and, in some cases completely eliminated, an increase in taxes will be inevitable, he warned his large audience.

U. S. Pamphlets Ridiculed.

The chairman of the Senate subcommittee on appropriations for the District, qualified this prediction with the view that "we will probably have to do a little of both." He assured his audience that the days of 50-50 shares "have gone forever."

"I hope that we will be able to keep these expenditures down so that the people of the District will not have to pay more taxes this year than they did last," he said.

As an illustration of "The foolish things on which the Government is spending a great deal of the taxpayers' money" Senator Bingham mentioned some of the pamphlets that are issued by some Government bureaus. The tall, white-haired senator from New Haven sent his audience into gales of laughter when he read from a pamphlet describing the baby's rompers and toys. Another booklet on which he cast a sarcastic jibe was entitled "The Love Life of the Frog."

"These are some of the things for which your money is being spent," the senator exclaimed, raising his arms in despair. "But the taxpayers are going to stop paying for a lot of these things," he added.

District Building Saved.

Senator Bingham drew applause when he said that no appropriation should be made at present for the razing of the District Building. He revealed that the Senate District committee on appropriations will eliminate this appropriation in a report to be released today.

The speaker expressed the opinion that it would be a fine thing if it were possible to amend the Constitution to make tax-exempt securities taxable. In this connection, he mentioned in particular State and municipal bond issues.

Mr. Page declared that although he had many political opinions opposed to those of Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, he agreed with the governor that individual initiative should be encouraged.

"The best governed nation is the least governed," he said. "Unfortunately we have gone far afield from the original concepts of government on which this Nation was founded. We are in danger of going the way of all governments which have been established merely for the sake of their own government. Certain insidious ideas from the outside have crept in.

President's Bills Praised.

"But I have sufficient faith in the American people," he continued, "to feel confident that we are going to right the raft and sail into a safe harbor. The sun is beginning to shed its rays on the darkness that has enveloped us."

The former clerk of the House asserted that if all four bills in the rehabilitation program of President Hoover are enacted by Congress with "proper haste" the psychology of confidence will be produced.

He also advocated pruning of unnecessary expenditures, such as wards and commissions. "It costs $200,000,000 a year to maintain these things, which are outside the pale of the republican form of government, and they could well be dispensed with," he said.

Centralized Government Rapped.

Mr. Page termed the growing centralized form of government as "a Frankenstein, reaching into every State." He rapped citizens for their indifference to the privilege of voting, and advocated a reform of the election system, and abolition of primaries.

Elwood Street, director of the Community Chest, told how the Chest is operated on a strictly business basis, showing that only 6 per cent of the money donated goes toward office expense.

The speakers were introduced by George W. Offutt, president of the Board of Trade. Charles Trowbridge Tittman rendered two vocal numbers. Harry H. R. Helwig, general chairman of the midwinter dinner, to be held February 6 at the Willard, announced that plans are almost completed for the event, and predicted that the affair will be the most elaborate the Board of Trade has produced.

Man Dies in Hospital; Police Hunt Relatives

Police last night were attempting to locate relatives or friends of Ernest Mothershead, of 454 K street northwest, who died at Casualty Hospital last night of pneumonia. The man had been ill for two days.

When he was admitted to the hospital he gave his occupation as a taxi driver and asked that Mrs. Dallas Poole, of 107 B street, be notified in case of emergency. Police called at all four 107 B street in the city, but could not find Mrs. Poole.

CHEST HEAD PLEADS FOR GIFTS INCREASE

Metropolitan Unit Is Told One-Third More Is Needed, Due to Unemployment.

Elwood Street, director of the Community Chest, impressed upon his hearers the necessity of raising at least one-third more than was contributed last year, at the opening meeting of the Metropolitan unit of the campaign committee of the Community Chest at the Mayflower Hotel last night. A musical program was provided by Les Stevens and his Diplomats of the Fox Theater, and Miss Dorothy Reddish, accompanied by Howard M. Cooper.

H. L. Rust, jr., chairman of the Metropolitan unit, called upon every team captain and worker to try to increase the gifts made by prospects last year.

Theater Seat Quiz Planned By Senators

Senator Robert D. Carey (Republican), Wyoming, doesn't like to wait in theater lobbies for the privilege of seeing a show.

After you pay for a seat, he thinks you ought to get one. He told the Senate about it the other day in a bill that would fine theater operators $100 for selling more tickets than they have seats.

Yesterday Chairman Arthur Capper of the Senate District committee appointed him chairman of a committee to look into the matter, and Senator Carey lost no time in ordering hearings on his bill.

He doesn't know just how soon he will be able to hold them, but a number of colleagues in both houses have volunteered to appear as witnesses.

Senator J. Hamilton Lewis (Democrat), Illinois, and Senator Warren R. Austin (Republican), Vermont, "baby" members of the Senate, will sit with him on his special committee.

Senator Carey's bill provides:

"It shall be unlawful in the District of Columbia for any person engaged in the management or operation of a theater to make or cause to be made a false or misleading statement concerning the availability of seats for any performance in such theater, or to sell more tickets for any performance than the number of seats available therefor."

The senator said his ire was particularly aroused when he bought a ticket at a theater with the understanding there were "seats in the mezzanine." When he arrived on the balcony outside of the mezzanine he found a long waiting line, and a new show starting, he said. He charges similar practices prevail in other local theaters.

The full Senate District committee will meet this afternoon to take up appointment of Riley E. Elgen to be public utility commissioner, succeeding Harleigh Hartman. A bill to revoke the franchise of the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Railway, clearing their tracks from the path of the triangle building program, will also be taken up, as will a bill to incorporate credit unions in the District.

Fireman Is Injured In Traffic Mishap

Crash of Auto and Motorcycle Necessitates Operation.

Harris Gary, 28, a District fireman attached to No. 2 Engine Company, received a severely crushed leg, necessitating amputation, yesterday afternoon when a motorcycle he was riding collided with an automobile on the Washington-Richmond highway 3 miles south of Alexandria, on Snake Hill.

The injured fireman was conveyed to Alexandria City Hospital by a passing motorist. Policeman A. W. Mills, of Fairfax County, detained the operator of the machine, but later released him after he satisfied police that he was not at fault in the accident. Physicians at the Alexandria institution performed the operation and last night indicated that Gary would recover.

Gary lives at 1653 Wisconsin avenue. He is married and has two small children. He is understood to have been proceeding south on the Richmond road and crashed into the northbound car when he was about to pass another machine going southward.

Drug Store Owner Robbed Of $50 and Left in 'Trap'

Dr. John Louis Krick, owner of a drug store at 1742 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, was held up and robbed of $50 last night by two white men, but he had a hard time making his neighbors believe it.

The two men found Dr. Krick sitting at one of the tables near the front of his store. One of the men jammed a pistol in his ribs. The druggist believed the entire affair was a joke at first, but the men forced him into a rear room and turned the key on him. They then looted the cash register and fled.

The back room opens into a small courtyard, but is surrounded by buildings, and Dr. Krick was trapped. He grasped a fishing pole he kept in the yard and started rapping on windows to summon aid. Lynn B. Newlon, living on the second floor above the store, heard the repeated tapping, but ignored it. He later explained that he was listening to the "Sherlock Holmes Hour" on the radio and thought it was all part of the sound effects.

Mrs. F. B. Hall, living next door, at 1733 Pennsylvania avenue, also heard the rapping. She thought it was the boy cleaning off the drug store steps, but the noise kept up and she finally looked out. The druggist explained the situation and she came down and freed him.

BUS AND TRUCK BODY PLANNING TAX FIGHT

Suggests That Major Local Organizations Meet and Agree on Program.

Expressing the fear that unorganized opposition to the Mapes bills before the Senate District committee may result in lack of unanimity of opinion and react against the interests of the District of Columbia, the board of governors of the Commercial Motor Vehicle Owners Association yesterday forwarded a proposal to the major local organizations that a joint meeting of representatives be held for the purpose of agreeing upon a joint program.

Offering to assume the burden of the opposition to the truck and bus section of the weight license tax bill, the organization suggested the advisability of assigning the detailed work of the various phases of the situation to those organizations best qualified to develop the facts.

Clearly defining its position with respect to the Mapes proposal to charge a sliding scale or rates per hundred pounds of weight for trucks and buses, the sixteen governors at the meeting unanimously adopted a motion recording the association's unalterable opposition to the bill. Charles B. Buck, vice president of the Merchants Transfer & Storage Co.; Edward Costigan, of Corson & Gruman, and Jerome Fanciulli, the organization's secretary, were appointed a committee by John W. Hardell, the president, to prepare the technical facts which the organization will present to the Senate District committee.

"In view of congressional criticism in the past of the failure of Washington interests to get together in mutual agreement with respect to District of Columbia legislation," stated the letter sent to the civic and business organizations, "we suggest that one of the older and larger organizations take the initiative in arranging a conference of representatives of all organizations that are planning to oppose the Mapes bills.

"By assigning the detailed work of the various phases of the situation to those organizations best qualified to develop the facts, agreeing upon a program and reaching a mutual understanding with regard to the principles involved, it should be possible to avoid duplication of effort, insure the most formidable presentation of the opposition and impress the Senate committee with the unanimity of opinion of all interests."

BICENTENNIAL FUND IS REDUCED $50,000 BY SENATE'S GROUP

Sol Bloom Loses Battle Won in House; Amount Cut to $200,000.

DISTRICT SUMS LEFT AS PASSED BY HOUSE

Committee Strikes Out Right to Spend $33,000 on Highway Upkeep.

Associate Director Sol Bloom, of the United States Bicentennial Commission, who battled the House to a showdown on bicentennial appropriations and came out smiling, went to defeat yesterday in the Senate appropriations committee.

The tireless stage manager of the world's greatest spectacle in honor of the name and fame of one man, saw $50,000 lopped off of the $250,000 bicentennial expense item passed favorably on by the House.

Previously the House appropriations committee had cut $177,000 from the $427,000 asked by Mr. Bloom. When the House threatened to do more damage, after criticizing Mr. Bloom's bicentennial plans as "commercial," the New York representative took the floor.

Bloom Silences Critics.

In an amazing defense of the commission's plans, he "squelched" his critics, one by one, from brilliant Representative James M. Beck (Republican), Pennsylvania, to Representatives Allen T. Treadway (Republican), Massachusetts, and Earl C. Michener (Republican), Michigan.

But the Senate committee, which in other respects boosted the House deficiency act from $125,159,042 to $126,294,169, was unimpressed by patriotic Mr. Bloom's urgent appeals for an increase in the House figure.

"The country is clamoring for this information," Representative Bloom reminded the Senate committee.

"Remember, we are not commercial. The suggestion that was brought over in the House the other day about being commercial was not correct, except that we are putting hundreds of thousands of people to work throughout the country by getting out these different things, which we do not sell."

Senate's Answer Brief.

The Senate committee's brief answer was contained in the bill reported out yesterday. Under the heading, "Decreases," was an item of $50,000 for George Washington Bicentennial Commission expenses.

District appropriation items as approved by the House were untouched by the Senate committee. It struck out, however, authority for the office of public buildings and public parks to use $33,000 of unexpended balances of existing appropriations for maintenance of the Mount Vernon Memorial highway.

The total reported for all departments of Government amounted to a net increase of $1,135,076 over appropriations approved by the House.

2 Hurt as Trolley And Auto Collide

Mrs. Helen Hagner, Social Bureau Manager, and Chauffeur Injured.

Mrs. Helen Hagner, social bureau manager, and her chauffeur were injured yesterday when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a street car at Fourteenth and S streets northwest. Mrs. Hagner was treated at Garfield Hospital for lacerations of the scalp and later was returned to her home at 2401 Calvert street northwest.

The chauffeur, John Harris, 45 years old, colored, was crossing Fourteenth street when he was forced to stop on the street car tracks to allow northbound traffic to pass, according to police. The automobile was struck by a northbound Capital Traction Co. car operated by Motorman Frank Gray, 45, of Colonial Heights, Va.

Harris was treated at Freedmen's Hospital for lacerations and shock before he was sent to his home at 2111 N street northwest.

Gatty, World Hop Navigator, Accepts U. S. Air Corps Post

navigator on the record-breaking dash around the world by himself and Wiley Post, inspecting air beacon on top of Wardman Park Hotel, with George Riley, manager.

Will Do Research Work in War Department; to Become Citizen.

Singularly honored by the United States Government, Harold Gatty, a vital one-half of the team of Wiley Post and himself in their history-making flight around the world in eight days last summer, will enter the War Department February 1, with the status of Aerial Navigation Research Engineer. So profound is the knowledge of navigation possessed by the young Australian, that he has been given what amounts almost to a freelance assignment. His lone chief will be Maj. Gen. B. D. Foulois, chief of the Army birdmen.

Gatty's appointment, which came extemporaneously from the Army Air Corps, is one of the few instances of its kind wherein the long arm of the Army has culled talent from foreign sectors. He has signified his intention of becoming an American citizen, and has filed preliminary papers.

Gatty has offered to the Government one of the greatest instruments of its general type developed in the history of aviation—a drift and land speed indicator, bearing his name, a simple fool-proof mechanism of prisms, reflecting mirrors and a small periscope which solves two vital problems in the field of aeronautics.

His work on the device began a little more than a year ago, and it was first installed on the "Winnie Mae," the Lockheed Vega monoplane which hopped around the universe with the sure-footedness of some giant waterbug. It played a measurable part in the success of the flight. Heretofore the only method of calculating the actual speed of a plane has been the use by the pilot or navigator of established landmarks, and his knowledge of the distance separating them. Over water actual speed readings were impossible. Combined with this instrument is a drift recorder, detecting immediately the normal likeliness of every plane to waver from its predestined course.

It is not likely that Gatty will be stationed in Washington. His first assignment probably will be in Dayton.

Reminiscent of the French government's refusal to allow Bleriot to fly after he crossed the English Channel in the infancy of aviation—because he was too valuable to the future of French aeronautics—Gatty literally has "grounded" himself. The field of navigation in aviation is a hardly worked mine of research. Further development of instruments to confound fog confronts every air scientist. What flying he will do will be confined to little more than actual laboratory work and transportation.

Ensconced in a deep chair in his suite at Wardman, he confidently predicted that within a year a transatlantic freight service will have been formed. Gatty stated that the groundwork of such service already has been promulgated, and the Azores route would be used in preference to the Great Circle, or so-called Lindbergh course, which is virtually unnavigable during winter months. Passenger service will start in another year, he believes. Ships of the general type of the Yankee Clipper, which Mrs. Herbert Hoover christened here last fall, will be used.

Gatty disclosed that the round-the-world flight was held up an even six months, and almost abandoned, because the Soviet Government would not issue permission for them to fly over either Siberia or Russia proper. Private enterprise and the efforts of senators finally caused Moscow authorities to capitulate.

The Winnie Mae will be presented to the Smithsonian Institution later this year, Gatty revealed. Its motor, a Pratt & Whitney, has never been overhauled. The original air is in its tires. After a wrangle with the Oklahoma millionaire who sponsored the flight, Post purchased the plane for twice its mundane worth. Post is now selling planes in the Southwest.

The two shy destroyers of time and space met at Gatty's navigation school in Los Angeles several years ago. Gatty came to America four years ago, after ten years in his majesty's navy, in which he held the rank of navigation officer. He is a graduate of the Royal Australian Naval Academy, the Antipodes' equivalent of our own Annapolis institution. He was 29 years old last Saturday.

JUDGE ACTS TO PUSH TRIAL OF POLICEMEN

Hour Added to Sessions in Hearing of Two Charged With Brutality.

Determined to speed up the progress of the trial of Policemen Charles R. Bremerman and Hollis L. Clark, Justice F. Dickinson Letts, before whom the case is being tried in the District Supreme Court, yesterday ordered the sessions continued until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, one hour after the usual closing time.

The net result of the extra hour was that two witnesses instead of one was finished with when court was adjourned. The previous rate was one witness a day.

Clark and Bremerman were indicted several weeks ago for allegedly mistreating Thomas M. Williams, 17-year-old colored boy, who had been arrested by them for alleged complicity in housebreaking cases.

Williams and four of his companions are alleged to have been beaten at the Second Precinct Station.

GAS KILLS WOMAN; CHILD IS OVERCOME

Mrs. Cecilia Dyer Ends Life; Was Estranged Wife of Former Hotel Man.

Mrs. Cecilia Dyer, 37, took her life by inhaling illuminating gas in her apartment at 5420 Connecticut avenue yesterday. A coroner's certificate of death by suicide was issued after it was ascertained that the woman was depressed over her separation from her husband, Elmer Dyer, former manager of Wardman Park Hotel, and because of ill health.

The dead woman's 11-year-old daughter, Dorothy, was affected by the fumes. The girl found her mother lying on the kitchen floor and her screams summoned her brothers, Elmer 14, and Jack, 8. Elmer cut off the gas which was flowing from all burners on the range. Other occupants of the building summoned fire rescue and police apparatus.

Dorothy was treated by the fire rescue squad and soon pronounced out of danger. Attempts to revive Mrs. Dyer were prolonged by the rescue squad, but to no avail. She was pronounced dead by Dr. Daniel W. Prentiss, of 5425 Connecticut avenue northwest.

100-Foot Scaffold Plunge Is Fatal to Expert Rigger

Falling approximately 100 feet from a scaffolding on the Standard Oil Building at Second and B streets northwest yesterday, Alexander M. Harvey, 40 years old, expert rigger, was instantly killed.

Harvey, whose home is in Baltimore, had lodgings here at 4324 Chesapeake street. He was well known in structural circles here, having been in charge of erecting derricks on the Washington Cathedral, Mayflower Hotel, District War Memorial and other large buildings here. He had been employed on the oil company building by McLeod & Romberg, contracting firm, with offices at Bladensburg.

Enlisting in the Canadian army before this country entered the World War, Harvey saw service in several major engagements in France. He was decorated several times for bravery. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Amelia Harvey, of Baltimore, and two sons and a daughter.

An inquest into Harvey's death was ordered by Coroner Joseph D. Rogers and will be held at 11 a. m. today at the District Morgue.

HOUSE GROUP PLANS WIDE SCOPE IN QUIZ ON WELFARE WORK

Court Officials Notified to Appear at Hearings Starting Tuesday.

RILEY CASE WILL LEAD SUBJECTS OF INQUIRY

Investigation Will Be Open to Anyone Wishing to Make Complaint.

Plans to make congressional inquiry into the Edith Riley case a thoroughgoing investigation of welfare activities, open to any one who wants to be heard, were announced yesterday by Representative Vincent L. Palmisano (Democrat), Maryland, chairman of the House District subcommittee probing the case.

Chairman Palmisano agreed with Representative Frank L. Bowman (Republican), West Virginia, that the inquiry should be no casual one that might lead to the exoneration of any guilty party.

The chairman said he would ask Representative Bowman, whose resolution offered before the House District committee led to the investigation, to call any witnesses he wished to testify on fresh charges preferred against welfare authorities.

Notices yesterday went out to Mrs. Mary H. Bayles, chief probation officer of the Juvenile Court; Mrs. Jeanette Ezekials, in charge of the Juvenile Court inquiry department, and Sergt. Rhoda Milliken, of the Woman's Bureau, to appear at subcommittee hearings opening Tuesday morning.

A notice had already gone out to George S Wilson, director of the Board of Public Welfare. Chairman Palmisano said he had not requested the presence of Judge Kathryn Sellers of the Juvenile Court and Mrs. Mina Van Winkle of the Woman's Bureau, due to their reported illness.

The subcommittee chairman said there was no possibility the group will complete its inquiry in time to report back to the full District committee at Wednesday's meeting.

"We are going to look into these cases, and if we find anything wrong we are going to go further," Chairman Palmisano said. "My sympathies are all with the Riley child, and we will take that case up first. Charges against the Public Welfare Board are serious, but I do not believe in prejudging the case."

Suspect Wounded In Dress Robbery

Policeman Shoots Man Sought in Attempt to Get Away.

James Henderson, 26 years old, colored, of 2206 Twelfth place northwest, was wounded in the right leg yesterday by Precinct Detective William McEwen, of the Third Precinct, when the former made a break for liberty after being arrested in connection with theft of a number of dresses recently from a women's apparel store at 2918 Fourteenth street northwest.

McEwen went to a house at 942 Twenty-sixth street northwest on information received that some of the stolen goods were at that address. He was accompanied by Precinct Detectives R. J. Maghan and R. McNeill. The policemen found Henderson and two other colored men, William Coleman and Eric Van Horn and 37 dresses said to be part of the loot from the Fourteenth street shop.

While the other men dressed to go to the station house, Henderson leaped from a window and started to run. McEwan called to the man to halt several times. He then fired at Henderson. All of the men were held for investigation at the Third Precinct.

Third Escape Made By Prisoner Here

George E. Hicks Eludes Hospital Guard to Gain Freedom Again.

George Emmett Hicks, 36 years old, is just about the slipperiest proposition local police have ever had on their hands. For the third time in the past six months he has escaped. This time it was from Gallinger Hospital, where he had been held under guard while being treated for injuries received when he leaped from a second floor window at the Twelfth Precinct Station, on September 18 and made his way to freedom. He was rearrested several weeks later.

Once before, by dint of pleading insanity, Hicks eluded prosecution on a housebreaking charge preferred after he was trapped in a woman's apartment by headquarters detectives when the woman complained of his annoying her. On that occasion he was sent to St. Elizabeth's Hospital. He was later released from that institution and the charges against him nolle prossed.
